Records, Business Acumen Key To Securing Ag Loan

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff
MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Farmers wanting to better their chances of securing loans now and in the future should be aware of the guiding considerations made by banks and loan officers.

fast forum, the five speakers were John E. Moose, vice president and agricultural loan officer for Fulton Bank in Lancaster; Stanley P. Michonski, assistant vice president of agricultural lending at Bank of Lancaster County, N.A.; Roger Rohrer, vice president in the Agri-Finance Department of CoreStates Hamilton Bank in Lancaster; Bruce Miller, vice president of credit operations of Keystone Farm Credit ACA, in Lancaster; and George Lewis, a vice president of Farmers First Bank, a Susquehanna Banc, in Lititz.

In general, it was recommended that farmers consider the amount of money needed to finance a project, the competitive advantage of the project, collateral, the asset value of the resultant project, the payment schedule, cash flow, environmental concerns, permitting concerns, legal and possible social objections, liability issues, market demand of product, real-world projected profitability of the project, and the burden and amount of risk involved before asking for a loan.

National Sheep Assessment Referendum Scheduled

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Agriculture Department will conduct a nationwide sheep referendum on February 6 to determine whether sheep producers, sheep feeders and importers of sheep and sheep products approve the sheep and wool promotion, research, education and information order. If the order is approved by those producers, feeders and importers voting in the referendum, the order would become effective, and assessments would be collected on domestic and imported sheep and sheep products.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service will conduct the referendum in cooperation with the Extension Service and the Farm Service Agency.

Registration and voting will be held at Extension Service County Offices. Absentee ballots will be available from January 16 through January 26, 1996. A request for an absentee ballot must be made in writing from the County Extension Office serving the County in which the voting entity is located. FSA will determine eligibility of challenged voters, count ballots and report referendum results.

All producers, feeders and importers who certify that they were engaged in sheep production, sheep feeding or importation of sheep or sheep products between January 1, 1994 and December 31, 1994 will be eligible to vote in the referendum.

The order may be approved by either a simple majority of those voting or by voters who account for two-thirds of the number of sheep represented by those voting.

The initial domestic assessment rate would be 1 cent-per-pound on live sheep sold and 2 cents-per-pound on greasy wool sold. The assessment vote on imported sheep or sheep equivalents would be 1 cent-per-pound with a 2 cents-per-pound assessment on degreased wool or wool products except that imported raw wool is exempt from assessment.

Barns Collapse, Cattle Killed By Blizzard Of The Century

JOYCE BUPP

York Co. Correspondent

FREDERICK COUNTY

(Maryland) — As the blizzard of January 7 and 8 raged across the Mid-Atlantic area, many farmers woke to a nightmare-come-true.

"It's an eerie feeling to go in the barn, with all the lights out and know your cattle are dying," observed Glenn Eaves, whose Oak Bluff Farms at Woodsboro continued to dig out earlier this week from the havoc wreaked by the two-day snowstorm.

A 108 x 600-foot freestall barn collapsed at the height of the storm, creating death and devastation among the 2600-head milking herd of one of the region's largest dairy operations.

"The night shift called us at 11 p.m. Sunday night when one end went in, and the other end went at 2 a.m.," related Eaves, this past Tuesday morning. "There are 96 cows dead that we know of. We're getting ready to dig through more piled snow where we think there may be more. We've hauled 78 to market due to injuries and now a lot of additional problems are emerging."

Among those problems are broken ribs, foot injuries from cows stepping in the nails from the mass of roofing debris that went down, and head injuries to cows that were in the feeding headlocks when the collapse occurred.

"Just about anything you can imagine, we're seeing," added a weary Eaves. "Yesterday a cow came through that had a puncture on her side, with manure seeping from it."

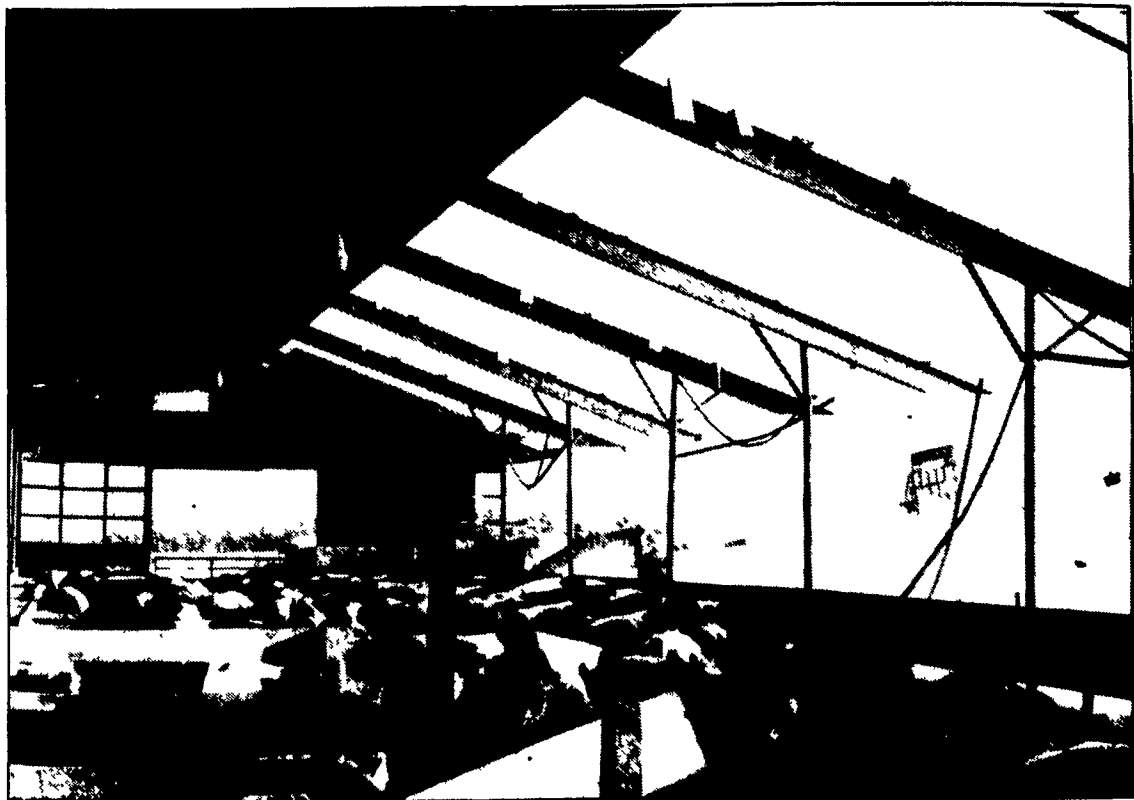

With most of the rubble pushed out of the barn, some cows were back in area of the collapse. However, with only about 60 feet of the roof still standing, where no snow had accumulated, the facility offered little protection to these cows accustomed to shelter from the fierce weather. Some cows have also been moved to other barns in the farm's complex.

According to Eaves, the col-

(Turn to Page A22)

The Taylor-Whey dairy herd escaped injury when one-third of the freestall barn roof collapsed under an accumulation of snow drifting over the peak of the span. Roof materials fell on the bunk feeder and equipment, forcing wheelbarrow-feeding of silages until the equipment could be repaired.

Barbara Taylor can smile with gratitude that the dairy herd was spared injury in her barn collapse. Farmers dealing with the storm's aftermath of property damages find the snow and wind-caused disaster to be physically and emotionally tiring.

Broiler

JANUARY 17, 1996

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds continued to slow. Seller offerings increased and excess supplies were generally difficult to place. Live supplies were mostly moderate; weights were heavy to desirable. Processing schedules were very heavy. Less than truckload asking prices were unchanged at 62 to 73 cents. Trade sentiment was steady to weak. In the parts complex, most items continued to increase in availability, particularly boneless skinless breasts and various leg cuts. Bone-in breasts and wings were generally adequate, but in a better balance.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
JANUARY 17, 1996

The bears calmed down somewhat today, after Tuesday's U.S.D.A. Crop Production and Storage report stirred them up. Exports and disappearance of record 1994 crops not as large as many had expected. Wheat steady to 2 cents lower. Corn 1 to 3 cents lower. Sorghum 3 to 4 cents lower. Soybeans 1 to 2 cents higher. Wheat seedings for 1996 crop up 7 percent from the previous year and the largest since 1990. A very dry Fall got this year's crop off to a slow start. December 1 US stocks are 10 percent below a year ago. US and world supplies tight. Major winter storm moving across hard red winter wheat country. Snows make good wheat crops. More export orders on the books today and traders looking for a big move by China. Tuesday's report had something for corn bulls and bears. The 1995 crop was estimated 27 percent below 1994, yet December 1 stocks only 24 percent below December 1 a year ago. Export inspection figures year to date up 24 percent. A larger percentage of bookings and sales have been reported, but many of these for Spring and early Summer delivery. As usual, export figures and the weather will be market makers. At current cash and futures quotes you can bet producers will put in all the corn they can this Spring. What's a man to do, still no farm bill. Very positive figures for sorghum. Soybean crop for 1995 14 percent below record high of 1994 crop and December 1 storage down 13 percent. Year to date inspection exports slightly below a year ago. Meal and oil exports of late short of expectations, but good out of country bean sales so far this week. Liberal cattle and hog inventories, poultry consumption keeps increasing each year, for good domestic livestock feed usage. At current prices corn will take precedent over soybeans for acres this Spring.

NY Phil Frozen Eggs

JANUARY 12, 1996

Prices were generally higher. The market tone was firm.

Demand was mixed across the full range, and road conditions determined delivery ability; therefore, some buyers were very tight and sought products, while others provided a light to moderate demand. Floor stocks were adequate. Shell egg availability was also affected by the snowbound highways from the Midwest east, and prices increased under a steady to firm trade sentiment. Liquid and frozen eggs processed under federal inspection for the week ending January 6, 1996 in the eastern region were 12% more than last week, and 7% more than the same week last year.

ST. VINCENT, JAN. 22.

EUREKA!

Gold! On January 24, 1848, gold was discovered at Sutter's Mill, California, and the gold rush of 1849 began, with gold-mad pioneers coming cross-continent to search on John Sutter's land for the precious ore. The migration westward happened not only by land, but by sea as well, as clipper ships made their way along the West Coast of America, depositing prospectors hoping to improve their fortunes through their haphazard mining for gold. Few found the stuff of their dreams, but Sutter's cattle were killed and his lands trampled, and he finally moved back to Pennsylvania, a ruined and disillusioned man.

Gold is the Devil's fishhook.

TIP OF THE WEEK

PARMESAN SCALLOPS

1 pint fresh scallops
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon thyme
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 cup bread crumbs
1/4 cup grated Parmesan large scallops into smaller pieces. Melt butter, blend in flour, salt, pepper; then slowly add 1 cup scallop liquid. Cook and stir until thick. Add cream and 2 tablespoons cheese. Mix with scallops and pour into a buttered casserole dish.

Sprinkle with crumbs and 1/4 cup cheese. Brown at 350° F for about 15 minutes.
Makes 4 servings.

Cover scallops with water, add herbs, and simmer until scallops begin to shrivel. Drain; save the water. Cut

An Open Letter To Farm Fathers

You've worked hard to make a living for your family from the dairy. No one knows all you have sacrificed to make a go of it. The responsibility, though shared with others, has been primarily yours. And it is difficult to let go, after all, the responsibility has held you as much as you have held it.

When your children are in their early twenties, it is time to let more of that responsibility pass. By the age of 30, your children should be brought in as business partners.

As a partner in the business, your child can benefit from your knowledge, yet be able to stand next to you as a partner. Assets can be transferred within that partnership and the process of turning the farm over becomes less of a problem.

Now maybe this is where some of you are getting your jaw set, back up and thinking that those kids are, or were, too young in their twenties to bring into partnership. Why, you weren't even sure if they were going to stay with the farm. That's true and that's the reason that you make provisions in a formal agreement to buy out the other.

"But they will make mistakes and that means money that we can't afford to lose." You are right. They will make mistakes, why should they be any different than you? You will probably survive the mistakes, but if you don't allow them to make decisions and reap the consequences, then they will never learn, nor will they likely stay on the farm.

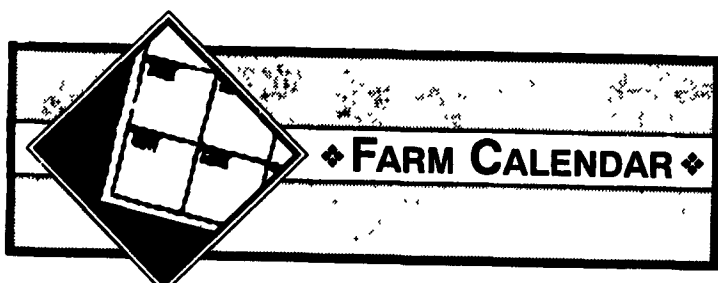

Fathers, in my time as an Extension agent, I've seen a problem repeated frequently. Children were treated as nothing more than glorified hired help even as old or older than age 40. Some of those children stuck with you on the promise of inheriting the farm. Thanks, but that's a bum deal.

That arrangement does not build for the future. That arrangement straps the next generation and makes transfer of the farm more difficult. That arrangement almost guarantees that they will be the last generation on the farm.

Fathers, if your children are teenagers or older, I urge you to show them this letter, and start an honest discussion about their interest in the farm. Interest in the farm can be built up, or it can be destroyed — you hold much of that opportunity.

And Fathers, thank you for the sacrifices you made!

FARM FORUM

Editor,

The Blizzard of '96 destroyed the myth, "We don't need farmers, we get our food from supermarkets."

During the storm, farmers were milking cows twice per day and caring for their animals so there would be plenty of food available when roads were reopened. It often takes a shortage to appreciate our abundance. No bread, no milk, empty shelves — that's what we need to remind consumers about the Blizzard of '96.

To Apply For Farm Safety Grants

The Farm Safety and Occupational Health Advisory Board has approved final guidelines for a statewide farm safety grant program.

Direct grants and matching grants up to $2,500 are available to farm organizations, volunteer fire companies, etc. for farm safety, occupational health and emergency response programs.

The grant program is designed to reduce farm accidents and health problems and improve farm rescue response procedures through safety education.

Grants will be awarded annually to organizations based on the scope of the project and the number of people it benefits, the value of the project to the agricultural community and those who work directly with farm accident victims and the impact upon rural youth and farmers.

For more information about the grant program call 717-787-4843 (Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture).

To Do Preventative Maintenance

Winter is a good time to perform routine service on farm machinery and make those repairs you may have been putting off. Regular preventative maintenance keeps machinery operating safely at or near its full potential.

Poor functioning machinery may start a chain of events leading to personal injury. If you are working and a mechanical problem occurs, it is tempting to try to fix it with as little interruption as possible, for example, without turning the power off or moving the equipment to a safe location for repairs.

Regular preventative maintenance helps you to spot potential problems, such as weak chains and belts, worn gears, leaky hoses, dull blades, loose nuts and bolts, cracked or broken guards, before they happen.

So invest a little time in servicing your machinery now, and in the spring, you will be glad you did.

To Vote in Sheep Referendum

The United States Department of Agriculture will conduct a nationwide sheep referendum on Feb. 6, according to Chester Hughes, extension livestock agent.

The purpose of the referendum is to determine whether sheep producers, sheep feeders and importers of sheep and sheep products approve the sheep and wool promotion, research, education and information order.

If the order is approved, assessments would be collected on domestic and imported sheep and sheep products.

Registration and voting will take place at your county cooperative extension office on Feb. 6.

Absentee ballots will be available through Jan. 26.

A request for an absentee ballot must be made in writing to your county cooperative extension office. Absentee ballots must be received in county offices by close of business Feb. 2.

All producers, feeders and importers who certify that they were engaged in sheep production, sheep feeding or importation of sheep or sheep products between Jan. 1, 1994 and Dec. 31, 1994 will be eligible to vote.

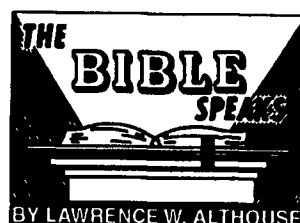

This includes 4-H and FFA members who raised sheep during this period.

The order may be approved by either a simple majority of those voting or by voters who account for two-thirds of the number of sheep represented by those voting.

The initial domestic assessment rate would be one cent per pound on live sheep sold and two cents per pound on greasy wool sold.

Plan to vote and have your voice heard.

A FACE LIKE FLINT

A FACE LIKE FLINT

January 21, 1996

Background Scripture:

Isaiah 50:1-11

Devotional Reading:

Hebrews 12:1-11

Harry Emerson Fosdick, late minister of Riverside Church in New York, tells of a Midwestern university that some decades ago unveiled a tablet to one of its alumni. This man had been active in many undergraduate activities, but he had never excelled in any. For four years he had gone out for football, but rose no higher than the scrubs. Scholastically, his average was a "B". When World War I broke out this young man served in the medical corps and finally was killed trying to aid a wounded soldier. Posthumously the French conferred upon him the Croix de Guerre. Impressed by this recognition of a very average alumnus, his alma mater erected a tablet with this inscription: "He played four years on the scrubs — he never quit."

FAITH AND TRUST

That story has always been an inspiration to me. Those I admire most are often not those most divinely gifted, but those who persevere in using whatever gifts they have. Life is sometimes a lot like football. We are often confronted with challenges for which we are meagerly equipped and everything turns on whether we persevere or give up. Perseverance is sometimes likened to stubbornness, but I think it really is the product of faith. And faith, I believe, is largely the degree to which we trust in God. I have been in situations — as I'm sure you have — in which, if I had had only myself to rely on, I could not have seen them through. I have "hung in there," not because I was confident of myself but because I found that God was the only support I could truly trust.

In Isaiah 50, God asks, "Is my hand shortened that it cannot redeem? Or have I no power to deliver?" The bedrock of life is trust that God has both the will and the power to save us, if not from our peril, at least in the midst of it. In whatever circumstance I find myself, the most important question I need to ask and answer is whether or not I believe God is more powerful than my danger or challenge. "Behold," says God, "by my rebuke I dry up the sea, I make the rivers a desert ... I clothe the heavens with blackness, and make sackcloth their covering" (50:2b, 3). Is such a God too weak or restricted to help me in my distress?

THIRD SERVANT SONG

The prophet returns to the Servant theme and 50:4-11 is regarded as the third Servant Song. "The Lord has given me the tongue of those who are taught, that I may know how to sustain with a word him that is weary" (50:4a). Once again we need to ask, who is the Servant here? Mostly, Isaiah sees the Servant as the whole nation of Israel, but sometimes, as in this passage, he seems to be speaking also of himself. God has called him to teach the people of Israel to trust in the Lord and the people of Israel, in turn, are to teach all the nations.

That is the plan, but the results have been disheartening. Yet, despite the unresponsiveness of Israel, the Servant has persevered: "I gave my back to the smiters, and my cheeks to those who pulled out the beard; I hid not my face from shame and spitting" (50:6). Not because he is brave or self-confident, but because he trusts in God: "For the Lord God helps me; therefore I have not been confounded; therefore I have set my face like a flint, and I know I shall not be put to shame."

That's what faith is: trusting in God and setting one's face like a flint!

Every acre on your farm is an individual challenge. Filled with its own set of obstacles. But you can be confident every one of those acres can produce for you. So

MAKE EVERY ACRE COUNT.

And watch your fields deliver come harvest.

Proven performance leader in this maturity. 3525 is a widely adapted, stable, high-yielding hybrid. Tall plant, excellent for grain and silage. Outstanding ear flex and good ear attachment. Strong performer under stress. Manage gray leaf spot placement.

Record setting yields and exceptional agronomics. This exciting hybrid combines traits corn growers want: impressive early growth, strong stalks and roots, exceptional stress tolerance, outstanding drydown and lengthy staygreen. Widely adapted to varying soil types, tillage methods and populations. Well suited for corn silage. Manage gray leaf spot placement.

NEW! 3335

A future full-season yield leader for your better soils. Exceptional yield potential. Very good staygreen and above average test weight. Good roots with acceptable stalks and strong staygreen. Fallier plant type with impressive tonnage and digestibility. Moderate resistance to gray leaf spot. Plant at moderate rates.

NEW! 3223

Excellent potential in both high-yield and drought-prone environments. 3223 is a widely adapted hybrid with good overall agronomics. Good root and stalk strength. Exceptional drought tolerance. Above average early growth. 3223 should be an excellent silage hybrid. Manage gray leaf spot placement.

* IMPORTANT: Each hybrid has unique strengths and considerations. Contact your Pioneer sales representative for more complete information on these and other Pioneer hybrids.

National Egg Market

JANUARY 17, 1996

Prices were unchanged to higher in the Northeast and Midwest, and unchanged elsewhere. The market tone was fully steady to mostly firm. Retail demand was moderate to excellent, mostly good, and inter-dealer demand for ungraded eggs continued strong. Supplies were short to adequate, and any extra supplies continued to trade at premium prices. Breaking stock supplies were adequate to barely adequate for the mixed demand, and prices paid were higher. Spent hen offerings remained adequate for the unaggressive demand, and the trade sentiment was steady.

SCALES

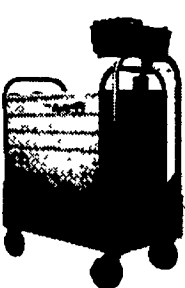

500 Animal Scale

This rust resistant steel scale is used for weighing up to the largest hog. The entire unit serves as the weighing area so that an animal leaning on the sides won't prevent an accurate reading.

Litter Scale

An entire litter can be placed in the portable WayPig at one time. The new oversize scale gives a clear readout of the weight in pounds and kilograms. The compact design allows it to glide easily through aisles and around tight corners.

Cattlemen Should Adopt A School

PEACH BOTTOM (Lancaster Co.) — Cattlemen have the opportunity to educate children throughout their communities and beyond.

Each year beef producers nationwide volunteer their time to educate elementary school children about the importance of the beef industry by conducting farm tours, in-school presentations, and distributing educational materials.

The Pennsylvania Beef Council invites you as a producer to join in the efforts of educating our future beef consumers.

Simply adopt your local elementary school by sharing the many educational kits offered by the PA Beef Council with the teachers of your school. The kits have been developed to meet the requirements of several curriculum areas such as science, social studies, reading and many more.

You can help teachers receive these kits absolutely free! This is a win-win situation! Teachers receive valuable teaching materials and students learn the importance of beef in the diet as well as gain an appreciation for the beef industry.

For more information contact Gary Smith, director of the Southeast Regional Cattlemen's Association at (610) 363-6110 or Tammy Weaver of the Pennsylvania Beef Council at (800) 572-2020.

BREAKING MILK RECORDS!

DHIA Reports Each Month!

OCS Dairy Cow Earns World Class Title

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — World Guernsey Cattle Federation Secretary Bill Luff has announced a new world class leader for butterfat in the 3-year-old class.

OCS Dairy Diadora Lil Foot, a Very Good-89 Bettwards Telesstar Victory daughter owned by Oscar Clay Smith of Jefferson, Maryland, has a world class record of 29,260M* 6.5% 1,911F* 3.2% 925P* at 3-03 in 305 days. This same record earned her national class leader recognition for milk, butterfat and protein.

The story behind "Lil Foot" sounds like the happy ending to a fairy tale. When Clay Smith was just three years old, he went to the Frederick County Fair in Mary-sey show and seeing some beautiful Frank daughters. He decided when he got home to breed Clay's cow to Frank and see what happened. He was not disappointed!

From that Frank mating came OCS Dairy Daisys Diadora, the dam of "Lil Foot."

Diadora has made a name for herself in the showing and in the production arena. Appraised Excellent-92, she has records to 31,340M 5.0% 1,568F* 3.8% 1,177P* at 5-03 in 365 days and has also earned several national class leader awards. She has received many All-American honors and been declared grand and reserve grand champion of four different national junior and open

Lil Foot followed in her dam's footsteps.

"It's exciting to see a cow produce world class records and also be very successful in the showing," declared American Guernsey Association Executive Secretary Neil Jensen. "Lil Foot" was undefeated on the tanbark trail as a heifer and has placed respectably as a cow. As a 2-year-old, she made over 23,000 pounds of milk.

Clayton put the matter into perspective saying, "It feels pretty nice to get this recognition. We've been very fortunate to get a strong cow family that breeds true and can compete with the Holsteins."

land where a dairy promotional sale was taking place to raise money for 4-H programs.

Young Clay took a fancy to the calf and Shirley, his mother, purchased "Lil Foot's" grandam for $400. The Smiths affectionately remember Clay saying, "Well, I got myself a 'Jersey' calf!"

Great things have happened to the cow family of that young calf who was consigned by the Paul Spurrier Family of Union Bridge, Maryland.

lapse destroyed many of the barn's fans, as well as the automatic manure scraping system. Most the headlocks were pushed over.

"It's a lot harder to keep the cows clean and taking a lot more of our labor time to scrape. It takes more help just to do what we did before."

Plans to rebuild the Oak Bluff facility, which was constructed in 1991, are already under way.

A few miles away at Monrovia, dairyman Jesse Burrall faced similar devastation. When Burrall went to milk at 5 a.m. Monday, he was puzzled to see about 30 of his cows laying in the snow of the outside holding area. Turning the corner, despite the darkness and still falling snow, Burrall could see most of his 65 x 100 foot freestall facility on the ground. Many of his 99 head were trapped in the mass of building material and snow.

With the electric wires down, Burrall surveyed the scene with a flashlight and called 911 for fire company assistance and the state for plowing help. A neighbor appeared with a tractor to help open the lane to get emergency assistance to the dairy.

"We had to destroy two head and have shipped an additional 28 so far due to teat and udder injuries, scrapes, and other injuries," said Burrall. Another calved early and lost the calf due to the extreme cold. Still another half dozen are experiencing feeding problems.

Burrall's vet has advised him to be watchful over the next several weeks for stress-related abortions and internal injuries that may show up later. Some of the injured included young stock; two injured heifers were expected to be further culled this past week.

The collapse left Burrall with practically no shelter for his milking herd. Most of the housing area, including 100 freestalls and a box stall area, was destroyed. Dry cows were at another barn and springers close to calving are being housed in one section of the collapsed facility that did remain standing. Some cows may be relocated to the dairy operation of the Burralls' son Eric, until cleanup and rebuilding is under way.

"Cleanup is slow because of all the snow and with everyone else being busy with their own snow problems. We've been working at it a little every day," Burrall noted.

"This was a first for anything like this," added Burrall, who with his wife, Catherine, began dairying at their farm near Frederick in 1948. Less than a year ago, during February 1995, the Burralls had a barn on another farm destroyed by fire.

YORK COUNTY ALSO HIT HARD

York County was reportedly one of the worst hit by the storm in Pennsylvania, with accumulations of 38 inches reported at Glenville and drifts estimated at 20 feet in some outlying areas of the county.

With the storm still raging outside her Glen Rock R2 farmhouse windows, Barb Taylor paused before breakfast prior to the 5:30 a.m. milking, to ask the Lord for guidance and strength. Joining her for the early meal was her high school part-time employee, Kevin Keeney, stranded at Taylor-Whey farm during the storm.

"I knew it would take extra effort to deal with the problems caused by all the snow that was piling up around the farm," she related. "When I walked out into the freestall barn, and could see up to the sky, I called to Kevin that it was going to take more guidance and strength than we could have ever imagined."

About one-third of the 144 x 60-foot freestall barn roof had collapsed on top of the bunk feeder and feeding equipment. Part of the feed room was also down on the concrete under the several feet of snow which had been blown over the peak of the span.

With all the bunk equipment and feed elevators destroyed, and the skid loader and mixer equipment imprisoned under the debris, no feed could be moved to the 95 hungry cows huddled from the blizzard in the portion of the barn still standing.

"I'm thankful that part didn't go down. The cows still have shelter and we can feed in the open for now," observed Taylor earlier this week, surveying where most of the collapsed materials had already been removed. The adjoining milking parlor and its electrical service were undamaged, so milking could get under way after some initial delays. With the assistance of neighbors, the herd was fed its one and one-quarter tons of forage via wheelbarrows, a method repeated for a second feeding until equipment was dug out and repairs begun.

Miraculously, not a single cow was injured in the partial collapse. The barn was originally constructed in 1969 on another farm, then moved to the Glen Rock dairy operation 15 years ago. The collapse came nine days short of a year from when Taylor's husband, the former G. Howard Taylor, lost a lengthy battle with cancer.

In northern York County, three hours later, Ralph McGregor was talking with an employee when he heard a series of rumbles.

McGregor found nearly half of the farm's 140 x 90-foot freestall span down, with the worst damage also over his bunk feeding area. Nearly half the 240 milking head were housed in that area, but most were resting in freestalls after their 3 a.m. silage feeding.

Roofing materials that fell beneath the weight of several feet of snow also damaged the blower chute of the farm's forage harvester, parked under the section that went down. Feeding equipment has been repaired, at least for now, the cows are eating in the open air.

"We had to free about 15 or 20, but we didn't lose any. No one was in that area at the time and there was no feeding equipment damaged," McGregor gratefully added.

Anticipating the 13-inch addition snowfall that followed the end of the week, the McGregors spent part of that Thursday shoveling the drifted accumulation from the portion of the freestall barn still standing. While helping

Vote In The National Sheep Referendum

The U.S. Department of Agriculture will conduct a nationwide sheep referendum on February 6, 1996 to determine whether sheep producers, sheep feeders and importers of sheep and sheep products approve the sheep and wool promotion, research, education and information order. If the order is approved by those producers, feeders and importers voting in the referendum, the order would become effective, and assessments would be collected on domestic and imported sheep and sheep products.

USDA's agricultural marketing service will conduct the referendum in cooperation with the extension service and the farm service agency.

Registration and voting will be held at the County Cooperative Extension Offices. Absentee ballots will be available through January 26, 1996. A request for an absentee ballot must be made in writing from the county extension office serving the county in which the voting entity is located.

Absentee ballots must be received in county offices by close of business February 2.

The Farm Service Agency, formerly the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, will count ballots, determine eligibility of voters and tabulate results.

All producers, feeders and importers who certify that they were engaged in sheep production, sheep feeding or importation of sheep or sheep products between January 1, 1994 and December 31, 1994 will be eligible to vote in the referendum. This includes 4-H and FFA members who raised sheep during this period.

The order may be approved by either a simple majority of those voting or by voters who account for two-thirds of the number of sheep represented by those voting. The initial domestic assessment rate would be 1 cent-per-pound on live sheep sold and 2 cents-per-pound on greasy wool sold. The assessment vote on imported sheep or sheep equivalents would be 1 cent-per-pound with a 2 cents-per-pound assessment on degreased wool or wool products except that imported raw wool is exempt from assessment.

Voting will take place in Lancaster County between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. in Room 1 of the Lancaster Farm and Home Center on Tuesday, February 6.

Additional information is available from your local cooperative extension office. Lancaster County residents can direct their inquiries to either Laurie Schmidt or Chester Hughes at (717) 394-6851.

Lancaster Cattle Feeder's Day

The Lancaster County Cattle Feeder's Day is scheduled for Tuesday, February 6, 1996 at the Farm and Home Center, Lancaster. The theme for this year's event is: "Challenges, Uncertainties, and Opportunities."

Highlighting this annual event will be topics of national and worldwide significance that affect our local cattle feeding interests. Up-state New York cattle feeder Glenn Paris will present "Challenges of Cattle Feeding in the Northeast," an inside look at how he competes with feed yards across the country. From Oklahoma State University, Dr. Glen Dolezal, Red Meats Scientist, will examine the hard facts about marbling, age, cattle types, and tenderness with his talk, "What Really Determines Beef Quality." The challenges of marketing cattle now and into the 21st century will be addressed by two speakers, who have expertise on two popular subjects. Dr. Wayne Purcell, Virginia Tech Ag Economist will focus on "The Uncertain Impact of Captive Supplies of Cattle on Cattle Prices." Jeff Oates, Communications Director of the US Meat Export Federation in Denver, Colorado will present current and future "Opportunities in Exporting" comparing successes with potential pitfalls.

More locally, Jeff Stoltzfus, Adult Ag Instructor in the Eastern Lancaster County School District will offer a brief "Update on Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Law" explaining where we are in the process and how cattle feeders will be affected. Dave Ivan, Executive Director of the Pennsylvania Beef Council, will bring us up-to-date on the newly formed "National Cattleman's Beef Association" and the ever popular H. Louis Moore, Penn State Extension Ag Economist will present his annual "Cattle and Feed Outlook" to kick-off the day's program.

Anyone interested in the cattle industry is invited to attend.

Keystone Pork Expo

The eighteenth annual Keystone Pork Expo will be held February 14, at the Lebanon Valley Expo Center at the Lebanon County Fairgrounds on Cornwall and Rocherty Roads. This year's meeting will feature a trade show with 47 exhibits and educational seminars for producers.

The Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council, hosts of the Keystone

Pork Expo, have invited Dennis DePietre, Agricultural Economist, University of Missouri to address "Where's the Industry Going and Are You Going Along?"

Lou Moore, Penn State Professor of Agricultural Economics and a favorite speaker over the years at the Pork Expo, will be on hand to deliver his hog market outlook. Completing the morning seminars will be a presentation on "Phase Feeding and Split Sex Feeding—Making It Work, Making It Pay" by Robert Goodband, Professor of Animal Science at Kansas State University.

Following the popular legislative Activity Auction and announcement of Public Speaking Contest Winners, the afternoon program will feature Robert Kauffman, Professor of Meat Science, University of Wisconsin addressing the topic "It's Time for a Reality Check on Pork Quality." Earl Dotson, Vice President of Producer Education with the National Pork Producers Council, will conclude the seminar with "The National Genetic Evaluation Program—Lessons and Surprises."

Registration is free and all who register are eligible for a free trip to the World Pork Expo in Des Moines, Iowa, June 6-8 1996. Doors to the show open at 8:00 a.m.

This publication is available in alternative media on request.

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor
QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — The annual meeting for District 12 of the Atlantic Dairy Association was held Thursday in the Hoffman Building at the Solanco Fair Grounds.

Director Curtis Akers reported that the cooperative's income after taxes was $4,263,964 for the fiscal year 1994-1995. This profit was made after $19,726,868 had been returned to farmers in quality premiums, over-order premiums, and patronage refunds. The cooperative also pays what they call the 13th check that distributes 9 cents per hundred for total pounds shipped. The average refund was $5,366 per member.

Akers said dairymen who have the same or less production last year should contact their ASCS office to claim a refund of the USDA assessment. This must be done by March 15.

The snow storm last week caused the most disruption in the milk hauling business in quite some time. While the milk trucks were allowed on the road if they could get to the farm, the workers at the milk receiving plants were not allowed on the road under Gov. Ridge's ban on driving. Atlantic members who had to dump milk should tell their fieldmen so the subject can be addressed at the next cooperative board meeting in February.

William Schreiber, general manager of Holly Milk, said the snow storm not only caused problems at the plant but also gave people at the super markets the "mob mentality". One bread truck driver was injured when a group of people pushed him aside to get at the bread he was delivering to a store with empty shelves. Schreiber noted that when people are faced with the prospect of being without food, its milk, bread, and eggs that go off the store shelves first.

Philadelphia school system resulted in a 35 percent increase in school milk sales that week. And several weeks later sales were still up eight percent.

A 50-year membership award was presented to the J. Leslie Landis Farm on May Post Office Road, Quarryville; and a 25-year membership award was presented to Edgely Farm, located south of Quarryville.

Quality premium awards went to the Quarryville Presbyterian Home, Karmit Martin, herdsman; R. Edwin and Arlene Harnish; and Scott and Clair Mull. Several Amish farmers also received quality awards.

Named in the election of officers and delegates are the following:

• Strasburg/Paradise Local: Dale Hershey, president; Tom Lapp, vice president; Allan Rohrer, secretary/treasurer; Marlin Beiler, Ben Clark, Don Ranck, and Parke Ranck, delegates; Jack Coleman, Charles Groff, and J. Edwin Rohrer, alternates.

• Quarryville Local: Scott Mull, president; Herb Graybill, secretary/treasurer; Randy Clark, Willie Frey, Herb Graybill, James Krantz, Phil Rutt, Lloyd Sensenig, Vernon Umble, and Lloyd Welk, delegates; Dave DeLong, R. Edwin Harnish, Timothy Metzler, Scott Mull, Robert Wenger, and Leroy Welk, alternates.

Ed Harnish served as master of ceremonies.

In other words, the better evidence that a farmer can produce for a lender that a project for which funding is being sought will succeed, the better chance the farmer has of securing the confidence of the bank and the loan.

How to do that is difficult to specify since each project for which a loan is sought is unique, and is considered as such.

Furthermore, the speakers said that attitude of the farmer is also taken under consideration — if there are some potential environmental, management, or other concerns that should be addressed, the attitude toward taking care of those items is considered.

Depending on the amount of loan requested, banks can require more or less in assurances of asset value and ownership, farm management level and abilities, and compliance with laws.

Financial reporting is more complex and sophisticated the higher the loan requested.

For some loans, past tax records and farm records can be enough. For others, computer recorded and generated reports may be required.

For loans over $1 million, bank scrutiny is certain to be more involved and complex, so as to reduce risk.

Bankers also prefer to see monthly balance sheets and asset-liability statements in order to understand better the operational efficiencies and potential for success or failure in using the funds.

Computer-entered and generated documents in and of themselves are not indicative of a good management program, according to the speakers, because those using penciled-in forms and an outside accountant may very well use their records better than those with computers, though generally they said that those utilizing computers tend to be those who use and have better farm management information.

As an example, one speaker said that if someone was not managing well with 100 cows, they would be reluctant to lend money to expand the herd to 400 cows.

Further, proven management abilities and smaller predicted successes seem to be more of an asset to a prospective borrower than access to land or cattle.

Lenders are also aware of the increased competition and the cyclical and volatile nature of commodity prices in farming today.

Appraisals are discretionary up to a point — if the loan is to be for up to 75 to 80 percent of the value of the operation, or $1 million or more, then almost every lender will want an appraisal, the speakers said.

If come down to using land as collateral instead of the business, then perhaps an appraisal would not be warranted, depending on the amount of the loan and the cost of doing the assessment.

If, however, there is any suspicion of an environmental problem a Phase I assessment could be required. (This depends on the degree of investigation into potential problems or liabilities inherent in the property.)

Even though efforts have been underway for more than several years to devise a standard reporting form for use by lenders to agriculture, the industry is still diverse in that each lender has its own specific reporting requirements.

For nutrient management, since the regulations are not yet finalized and in effect, some lenders have decided to require the borrower to come into compliance with local municipal ordinances and to get the required permits before they would otherwise grant a loan.

The borrower generally incurs the cost of getting loan documentation, which makes it more costly to switch lenders for whom documentation may already have been established.

Also to be considered by the farmer-borrower, fixed-rate loans can carry high prepayment penalties.

These penalties generally are in place to protect the lending institutions from losing money on a large loan through lost interest payments and lost investment opportunities.

For example, if a bank makes a fixed rate loan for 30 years and matches that through issuing a fixed-rate 30-year bond, the bank loses quickly if the farmer decides to refinance with a competitive lender at a later time when the interest rate is more favorable to the borrower.

What happens is the bank continues to pay out on the bond it issued, while not having any more income to cover the bond interest payouts.

All lenders said that merely refinancing would result in penalties being paid by the borrower, "A loan is like a marriage, for better or worse," a couple of the bank representatives said.

In some cases, if the farm is doing well and has an increased cash flow over liabilities and can afford to pay down debt, the bank will probably accept the early payoff and incur some loss in the loan, primarily because this would indicate a business client that is desired for repeat business.

Likewise, if an infrequent or one-time windfall were to provide the farm with extra cash, the lenders said they would use every financial tool available to benefit the borrower without hurting the lender significantly.

Some allow up to a 20 percent prepayment before penalties.

The longer into the payback schedule on a long-term fixed rate loan, the more less the penalty would be for prepayment.

Fortunately for farmers in the southcentral region of Pennsylvania, the chances of getting an agricultural loan is much greater because of the competition between lenders and because of the agricultural support structure.

However, as the area becomes more and more populated and as agricultural operations have been shifting to central and western regions, so to are loan opportunities.

Proximity of processors, equipment and suppliers and markets are all considered.

Some agricultural operations carry more risk than others — depending upon social tolerances, market stability, biosecurity, and local trends.

And while banks tend to continue to use certain ratios that reflect investment against potential gain in making short term loans, some lenders are also looking more to the abilities of potential borrowers to be competitive, to use modern technology, to be efficient, and to be knowledgeable.

Consultants are also coming more into play as banks consider whether or not a project proposal is sound.

Without question, farmers with production contracts are more likely to get loans than an independent farmer without a contract, according to the lenders.

This is because contract production can eliminate the volatility in commodity prices.

However, lenders said again it is the individual who is managing the production that counts most when it comes to giving confidence to the lender — most production contracts are contingent upon the producers doing an efficient job. Despite a guaranteed margin, if the production volume is not dependable because of because of management problems, the lender may balk. They may still request to review past business records to determine safety of the loan.

Ultimately farmers have to decide how they are going to compete before a lender can decide whether to back the farmer with money.

If a farmer comes in with a proposal that shows clearly and realistically projections for a worst-case, best-case and average-case scenario, the banker will have more confidence in the abilities of the borrower to fulfill the commitment to repay.

"Oddly enough, we seldom see projections that don't work," one speaker said, in order to make the point that the projections have to be well considered and researched.

The bottom line seemed to be that those who don't do their homework, who don't apply enough effort into maintaining a well-managed operation and who don't consider the risks and seek methods to minimize risk are not as likely to receive a loan.

While not directly related to what lenders seek as good clients, it was addressed that almost all loans in Pennsylvania are actually callable by a lending institution without default of payment. In cases of national emergencies, or for several other reasons, banks could call their loans in at any time.

While legal representation may or may not help, it was said that Pennsylvania lenders are responsible for informing the borrower of a "confession of judgement" that is in all but some commercial loans, and that ultimately, the borrower is responsible for knowing what the contract stipulates, no matter how many words or pages or references contained.

For more information about lending contact a local agricultural lender, or contact an extension office for sources of information.

N.E. Pa Maple Syrup Producers Plan Dinner Meeting

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — The Northeastern Pennsylvania Maple Syrup Producer's Association Annual Meeting and Dinner is to be held on Monday, Jan. 22, from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., at the Pleasant Valley Grange Hall, located just north of Honesdale along Route 191.

Carl Curtis, president, is to conduct the annual meeting business.

Reports from the 1996 Pennsylvania Farm Show maple products sales booths and the maple syrup and maple products show will be shared with the group.

A report from the Pennsylvania Maple Producer's Council meeting will also be given.

This year's annual meeting will feature the following informative and educational topics dealing with maple syrup production. They include: "Tree Decline and Sugar Maple Decline" — a presentation by Dr. Tom Hall, forest pathologist, Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry, Middletown.

Jack Gearhart and Jim Kessler, foresters with the Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry, will offer some local perspectives dealing with sugar maple decline in the counties of Wayne, Susquehanna, Pike and Lackawanna.

Brad Regester, forestry entomologist, Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry, will also offer some timely and valuable information for sugar bush owners/maple syrup producers dealing with forestry insects, damage experienced so far and more.

Quentin L. Mead, Moscow, Northeastern Pennsylvania Maple Syrup Producer's Association director and producer, is to demonstrate "How To Can Maple Syrup Using A Water Jacket Canner" and, "How To Make Maple Sugar Products — Maple Cream, Maple Candy and Maple Crumb Sugar."

A pancake, sausage, egg, home fries and maple syrup dinner will be served at noon by members of the Pleasant Valley Grange. The cost of the dinner is $5.50 per person and reservations for the dinner are needed.

Please call your dinner reservations to the Wayne County Cooperative Extension immediately. The number to call is (717) 253-5970, extension 239.

Prepare Business, Personal Income Records For Tax Reporting

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff
CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — The beginning of the new year is time for farm operators to get moving on gathering records and taking care of proper tax paperwork for themselves, their business and their employees.

While the federal and state politicians have been discussing and feuding over tax issues and calling for drastic measures (The state Senate did pass Senate Bill 2 calling for local tax reform. It currently is with the House Finance Committee.) a tax consultant associated with the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau said this week that farmers should continue to deal with current tax law and its filing requirements.

According to Don Hummel, manager of Pa. Farm Bureau Farm Management Services, the amount of effort required to gather and make sense of business records for tax purposes shouldn't really be considered a burden to the farmer interested in his business — the information should be viewed as valuable for managing the farm.

"Basically, farmers are guilty of keeping records for the federal government and state government instead of for management purposes," he said.

"I think farmers need to look at records on a monthly basis instead of annually. They should be summarizing on a monthly basis and comparing, and then using the records to make good healthy management decisions."

He added that doing so will also help determine the cost of production for the farm, which is needed information for many essential business reasons.

"We, as farmers, can not control a lot of our income," Hummel said, "but we do have control over the cost of producing (the commodity providing the income)."

"And, if we know what (the cost of production) is, then we know what our margin is going to be and we can then adjust accordingly or look at alternatives if (production costs are) not satisfactory."

The goal is to establish a solid record system and regular time for its maintenance and review.

All that aside, Hummel said that one of the most important tasks a farmer can do after tax season is over is to take a look at the year just past and compare it with the previous two or three years to see what trend is occurring.

"If it's a negative trend, it demands that the farmer take a hard look at what he is doing, the cost of production and figure out how he can change it," he said.

The farm management service that Hummel manages serves more than 4,870 Farm Bureau members. It has been in existence for 38 years. More than 8,000 tax returns are prepared annually with a staff of 38 account supervisors and seven support people.

While the service is headquartered at the Farm Bureau's Camp Hill main office, each account supervisor works in his own county.

One of the highlights of services offered through the Farm Bureau is a copyrighted computer accounting system offered to clients called PFA "FACCTS."

About 15 percent of the clients are using the accounting system now, he said.

The reason for using such a system, Hummel said, is that it saves time recording and making sense of farm business data and provides more time for research and decision making.

"The quicker you can enter records, massage the information and analyze it, the more successful you will be," he said. For those not wishing to invest in the total cost of a new computer, the PFB Farm Management Service program allows farmers to lease a computer rather than buy it.

But for now, some of the important things that farmers can do for tax season is to make sure that all W2 Forms are prepared and given to employees by Jan. 31.

Further, information on statements 1099 should be given to people who've done custom work for the farm, who they rent ground from, or provide services.

Hummel said that if the farmer paid those people amounts over $600, then the farmer needs to give them statements and also submit statements to IRS.

Then they should summarize expenses and income.

"If they have a good record keeping system, it is not hard to complete, but if they have not done anything to date, it will be a much harder job," he said.

Farmers need to report all the income that is taxable, and should be able to account for that income through bank statements. Further, the farmer must make sure that any monies he received — such as loans and gifts — that have gone through his bank statements that are not taxable should be listed.

Also to close out the year, the farmer should make sure that all expenses have been paid, "and most should have been paid by check so they have records," Hummel said, adding that records of bills of sale should also be matched up with checks.

He said to also be sure to identify any capital purchases made and any improvements or new equipment purchased.

Other important information to compile includes direct operating expenses needed to capitalize the operation, and farmers should also not forget to identify items they traded in on new capital purchases.

"Good record keepers will have already summarized (their business transactions) and have an estimate of what (the tax bill) should be," Hummel said. "Those who have not kept records and summarized will have a much harder time being in a position to pay taxes."

Penn State Offers Christmas Tree Short Course

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Penn State's 13th annual Christmas Tree Management Short Course will be held at the Scanton Conference Center on the University Park Campus, Jan. 31 to Feb. 2.

Sponsored by the College of Agricultural Sciences, the course typically attracts Christmas tree growers from throughout Pennsylvania, as well as from other mid-Atlantic, northeastern and north-central states.

The course is designed to help growers adopt the latest pest control practices, according to Nancy Wenner, senior research assistant in plant pathology, who co-chairs the short course with Dr. Paul Heller, professor of entomology.

Participants will receive a hand lens and pest manual as part of their registration packet. Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture pesticide recertification credits also will be available to those completing the course.

Hummel said that as a good self-checkup tip on getting ready for tax season is, that once finished summarizing records for the tax year, to compare it to last year's tax return and see where differences are and to be able to analyze why they are different.

"This will help identify expenses they might have missed, or income they might have missed," Hummel said.

In addition to sessions on specific insect, disease and weed problems, workshops and labs will cover species and site selection, farm safety, pesticide record-keeping, the effects of drought and finding Christmas tree information via the Internet computer network.

A registration fee of $160 includes all workshops, instructional materials, breaks and lunches for January 31 and February 1. An optional morning program on February 2, focusing on problems specific to pine species, is available for an additional $40. The registration deadline is Jan. 22.

For more information or to receive a registration brochure and program agenda, contact the Office of Conferences and Short Courses, The Pennsylvania State University, 306 Ag Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802-2601, telephone (814) 865-8301, fax (814) 865-7050.

Sheep Referendum To Be Held February 6th

Editor's Note: The following article in support of the check-off in the nationwide sheep referendum was written by Janet Mawhinney, Dorset sheep breeder from Waynesburg. It is presented here as a public forum for discussion of the referendum.

THINK ABOUT IT CHECK-OFF OR CHECK-OUT

If you think we can do without a national sheep organization, please take some time and give it much more and serious thought.

Just saying "What else can we do?" is all right if the producer who feels that way also makes the effort and votes to support the Sheep Promotion, Research, and Information Act of 1994. This is certainly more than apathy.

But let's give it some more thought...

Sometimes it seems too many of us Eastern sheep producers do not consider ourselves a part of the national industry. To me, that is more of our problem, rather than how we think producers in other areas of the country may perceive us. Each of our states are members of the American Sheep Industry Association, pay dues, and receive funds to the states for promotion, education and/or research.

Aside from that relationship, we do raise sheep, producing lamb and wool, and in most instances that involves producers who also have off farm jobs, so whether it is a single person, a couple, or a family, it involves work, and I for one consider it much more than a "hobby." Why would we work so hard, care so much, and face the problems we all encounter at one time or another for just a hobby? We are hoping to make a profit, in some areas to reduce property taxes, or to create a lifestyle perhaps. All of this makes us a part of our nation's sheep industry, and we should consider ourselves thus.

As a part of an industry do we too often ask what has that industry done for me? Maybe we should take a little of the John Kennedy approach, and ask less often what has the industry done for me, but what can a producer do for the industry.

Producer involvement can occur at many different levels, and can take a great deal of time, or maybe just the little time that it may take to read the articles, big and little, that appear in the National Lamb & Wool Grower, or any other of the very fine sheep publications available to us. Become aware of your local or regional sheep organization, attend a meeting, call your state, regional, or local leaders, and ask questions, voice concerns, and be willing to listen with an open mind. Call your state representative to the ASI Board of Directors. Maybe he or she can clear up a misconception, or answer a question. That person is your representative.

Why not "Lamb for Lunch" on Monday Night Football?...

There is a simple answer for that — our industry can't afford that type of promotion. If we could, the Northeast area, the largest consumer of lamb would probably be eating even more lamb. What many producers do not realize is that our wool deductions support a level of promotion that many of us may not be aware of, as it does not appear on our televisions or the local newspaper for the most part. Joe McNamara covers seventeen East Coast states, keeping American lamb in several of the large grocery chains, moving normally 100,000 lambs a week. Joe has to deal with fluctuations in supply, with major promotions, with competition from the pountry and red meat commodities for case space, and with the importers, who are well funded, to keep American lamb in front of the consumer.

The western half of Pennsylvania is fortunate to have Bill Blake as our marketing representative. He is frequently in the Pittsburgh area working with the companies supplying the larger grocery chains, doing programs for the retail meat cutters, and most recently promoting the Wolverine consumer friendly lamb products that are pre-seasoned, serving sizes, which in part answers a big need for promotion of lamb. Some of our lambs from western Pennsylvania do go to this packing plant.

Many lambs from central and eastern Pennsylvania, as well as surrounding states go through the Lancaster and New Holland auctions, and no doubt these lambs help supply a part of the northeast markets our Wool Act deductions have supported.

Maybe not McDonalds yet...

Getting lamb into and keeping it in the food service area is also an activity funded by our wool deductions. Tom Bashaw is the director of this function.

Keeping lamb on the menu for the "white tablecloth" restaurants isn't a problem. Up-scale diners know what is good! For the past several years, Tom has worked with the "mid-scale" restaurant chains with steadily increasing success in chains from coast to coast and from border to border. He often works with conglomerates that own several of the chains, and also works with large companies that supply food to restaurants. Through these promotional efforts, eight million pounds of lamb are marketed a year through Sysco, the largest and fastest growing food distributorship in the United States. This company has centers in sixty American cities and several prominent ones on the East Coast in Boston, New York City, and the Baltimore area.

Large contract feeding companies are also targeted by ASI promotions. Such companies are the Marriott Corporation and Sodexo USA, the largest contract food service company in the United States, based in a Boston suburb, will feature only American lamb.

Just because you don't see it doesn't mean it's not there...

Have you perhaps overlooked some of the little articles that highlight these promotional and marketing activities? I've even heard one or two producers say that our industry association "doesn't do any promotion." Our budgeted funds, I feel, have been used in a most efficient and effective manner. So when you are thinking about or discussing the upcoming checkoff vote, please give some more thought to the promotional and marketing activities that have gone on. If the sheep industry "checks-out" who will keep our lambs moving through these established markets? The well-funded importers will be there with their trucks of foreign lamb to move in full force.

Think about this possible scenario — an East Coast consumer may have been attracted to lamb at a banquet or a new mid-scale restaurant. Maybe that consumer will take a second look at lamb in the meat case, especially if it is a consumer friendly cut, or maybe you could attract that consumer to your custom freezer lamb business.

With passage of the Check-off, the small states in the East will have an increase in funds returned to the state for promotional, educational, and research monies from $1500 to $2500. State activities could focus more on consumers and therefore on your products. Our experience has been that efforts in developing a custom freezer lamb business increases our profits.

And then there is wool...

We could certainly create an appealing, heart tugging television promotion for wool like the "fabric of our lives" — if we could afford it! The Wool Council does the next best affordable wool promotion by maintaining The Wool Room in New York City, a heart of the fashion industry. Elaine Gross is in charge of this endeavor and keeps American wool in front of designers and clothing manufacturers, and in the many trade magazines for the fashion industry. Currently she is working on the 96-97 winter season and has sent out 1500 invitations to industry people to view American wool fabrics, yarn and color trends. The Wool Room also provides a swatch service for designers and manufacturers. The Wool Council also uses funds through USDA-Market Promotion Program to promote American wool overseas. It seems South Korea is an up and coming consumer of high fashion, and high fashion uses lots of wool, and American wool will be present at a fashion exposition there.

Please also consider...

We need an industry association to continue wool handling and classing schools, to continue further predator management workshops, or more conferences on niche marketing. These are programs that have been within our reach or are planned for the eastern United States.

And where would we all get our supply of consumer lamb and wool information that we give to our lamb or wool customers or hand out at the festivals or fairs which are so numerous in our area — and great opportunities for consumer contacts.

And where would we be without our Sheep Industry Development Handbook. No matter how long you have been raising sheep, there always seems to be a problem now and then that it can help us with. Dating myself, I call it the "Dr. Spock" for sheep producers. It is a great tool for beginning producers or youth into sheep production.

We also need an industry that will continue to coordinate, attain funds for and support research whether it be for production, product improvement or other facets of our industry.

Please, give it some more thought...

We, as sheep producers, really will be the losers if we "check-out." We need an industry association for all the reasons I have covered, and probably more. Voting yes to support the Sheep Promotion, Information, and Research Act of 1994 will bring in more dollars to do an even better job of getting consumers to use our products.

I know producers have several concerns about the makeup and functioning of the new organization, or government involvement. A new board would be determining their functions, following the guidelines set out in the Act. Please contact your state referendum chairperson for questions or me through the state chairperson.

And the good news is...

The final marketing order by USDA was published on December 5, and the order specifically addresses the ability to utilize domestic checkoff funds for promotion of American lamb and wool products.

VOTE YES ON FEBRUARY 6, 1996

The date for voting on this referendum has been a long time coming, and it was finally announced on December 13.

Strong Capital Position Allows Keystone Farm Credit To Reduce Stock Requirement

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — On January 1, Keystone Farm Credit will reduce its stock requirement a borrower must purchase to a maximum of $1,000.

Previously, a borrower was required to purchase stock in the amount of 2 percent of the amount borrowed. The new stock requirement is the lowest permitted by regulations.

Keystone Board Chairman Wilmer Hostetter said, "It has been the board's objective for the past several years to build the association's capital through earnings.

Scenic Mountain Cooperative Holds Annual Meeting

WYSOX (Bradford Co.) — Scenic Mountain Milk Producers Cooperative members received their patronage dividend checks at their recent annual meeting held at the Bradford Town Plaza in Wysox.

Jim Broschart, chairman of the cooperative, said he was pleased to announce that again this year the members of the cooperative would receive patronage checks as they have each year since the founding year of 1990.

Scenic Mountain Co-op members' farms are located in Bradford and Sullivan Counties.

Laverne McCarty of Forksville, manager of the cooperative, told the members about their quality market. Members of this cooperative receive about average premiums for their marketing area.

Scenic Mountain Cooperative is a member of United Ag Services which is located in Seneca Falls, N.Y. United assists its member cooperatives in the marketing of their producers' milk as well as providing other services to members.

Jim Patsos, representing United Ag Services, announced the 1995 winner of the Cooperative's Outstanding Quality Award, Jim Broschart. Broschart received a plaque in recognition of his high quality production, and also a monetary award.

During the business session of the meeting James Broschart was reelected chairman, and Robin Feister secretary-treasurer. Laverne McCarty will continue as manager.

Scenic Mountain Cooperative extends an invitation to any dairy farmer in their area who produces quality milk to join their cooperative.

Those interested in learning more about their program or in joining the cooperative can contact R. Laverne McCarty, (717) 924-4291, James Broschart, (717) 924-3359, United Ag Services, (315) 568-2750, or any member of the cooperative.

Keystone's capital position is strong enough to allow us to reduce the capital investment customers are required to make to the regulatory minimum of 2 percent or $1,000, whichever is less. Even with this reduction in the capital borrowers invest through their purchase of stock, Keystone's capital position will remain strong with association capital in excess of 15.5 percent of risk weighted assets."

He also credited benefits resulting from the consolidation of the Columbia and Baltimore Farm Credit Banks earlier this year as helping the board to take this positive action.

Phil Kimmel, president of Keystone Farm Credit, explained the impact this will have on customers.

"A customer with $100,000 outstanding with a 2 percent stock requirement would have purchased at least $2,000 of stock in the cooperative. After the change takes effect, this same customer would only be required to own $1,000 of stock. In this example the borrower can request to have the difference of $1,000 retired and the proceeds returned to them. Obviously, the amount customers could retire increases as their outstanding loan balance increases beyond $50,000."

Keystone Farm Credit's Board has also approved the retirement of $4.6 million to its stockholders during 1994 and 1995 through special retirements of "A" stock. Checks representing approximately $2.1 million from the board's most recent action will be distributed to almost 1,700 borrowers in December. The change in the minimum requirement could return an additional $4.1 million of capital to Keystone's stockholders/borrowers.

Huge Crowd Attends New Dealership Facility

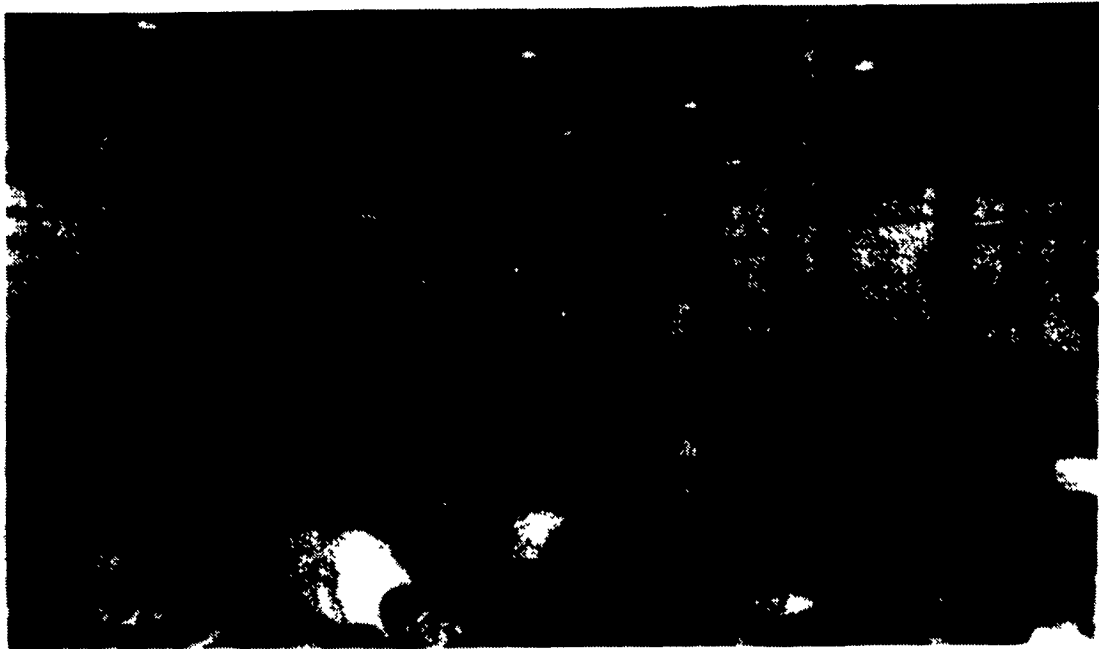

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — John Deere Days, the 40-year tradition to show the farm equipment company's appreciation for its customers' business, attracted a record crowd Wednesday at the Landis Bros., Inc., dealership's new 24,000 sq. ft. facility located along the Manheim/Mt. Joy Road near the Rt. 283 cloverleaf. The caterer served more than 880 meals, and with those who stopped in after or before lunch, officials are certain more than 1000 persons attended.

The new facility houses show rooms, sales and parts departments, warehouse facilities, and service centers for both the lawn and garden and agriculture equipment sides of the business. Herb Noll, general manager, told the visitors that more than a year of planning went into the new facility. He said a great deal of the final design came from employee input as to the needs of each department. Landis Bros. has 40 employees, and they identified 64 segments of work areas in the old facility and turned their (employee) needs into efficient operations in the new building.

Noll also gives a lot of credit for the great new facility to the contractor, FTF Construction, Hershey.

The layout in the new building has the general feel of the old building but is more modern. The store-front windows give a retail frame for the lawn and garden department and the agriculture equipment sales department. Hardware, paint and the parts people with their parts department are directly behind them. In the service center, the center hub allows managers to see both the lawn and garden and the agricultural equipment shops from one location. The warehouse for boxed items is located within the building.

Noll said business has been good. The lawn and garden business has increased by 30 percent, indicating an increase in market share. In the agriculture equipment business, sales have been good because farmers are on a five-year trade cycle and are replacing older equipment.

According to John Deere officials, the next 12 to 24 months looks good for the economy. And locally, there is nothing that seems to be contradictory to this outlook.

Noll said their relocation is a statement of their commitment to the future and the community. The new facility gives them a more efficient operation.

John Deere Days for Landis Bros., Inc.'s, branch in Lebanon had been scheduled during the snowstorm. The new date for this event is now set for Tuesday, January 23, at the dealership at 30 Evergreen Road, near the Lebanon Fair Grounds.

Suber To Head Dairy Export Effort

ARLINGTON, Va.—The Board of Directors of the U.S. Dairy Export Council (USDEC) has named Thomas M. Suber as executive director.

USDEC, an independent membership organization representing dairy industry members in research and marketing efforts to increase product exports around the world, was formed and is staffed by Dairy Management Inc. (DMI).

Suber, 42, is to lead USDEC in establishing integrated international marketing programs, aimed at helping U.S. dairy processors and suppliers grow their business by opening and expanding foreign markets.

These programs include increasing market access; overcoming market research and import documentation challenges; domestic and overseas trade education; and consumer promotion campaigns. USDEC sees its current primary markets as Mexico, Japan, Korea and Southeast Asia.

Suber, formerly senior vice president with USDEC and DMI, established the communication and consultative program that led to the creation of USDEC. He was also responsible for creating the first-ever export market development program for the dairy industry, and was instrumental in placing the first dairy representatives in Mexico, Japan and Taiwan.

Before joining USDEC, Suber created the international marketing strategy for the National Dairy Board while with the International Advisory Services Group. He has also led and coordinated export marketing and sales efforts for a variety of commodity suppliers and industrial products manufacturers.

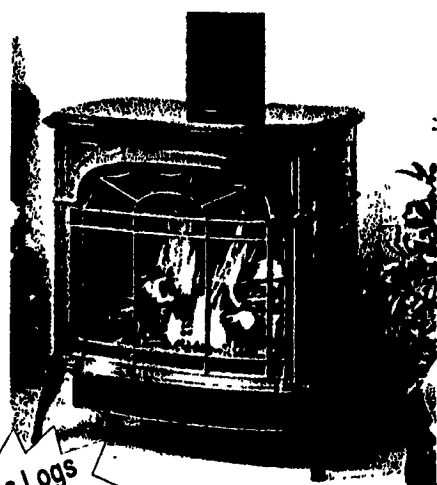

Suber earned a master of science degree with honors in foreign service from Georgetown University, and a bachelor of arts degree in history and Asian studies from Colorado State University. He holds a Phi Beta Kappa key.

Local Group Attends Livestock Ethics Symposium

BEVERLY GRUBER
PA Livestock Assn.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — I was proud to represent the Pennsylvania Livestock Association at the National Youth Livestock Ethics Symposium held in mid-December in Las Vegas, Nevada. There were approximately 250 representatives of animal agriculture from across the United States and Canada at the Symposium. The conference was coordinated by the Livestock Conservation Institute, a nonprofit association organized in 1916 to address the problems and opportunities of controlling and eradicating livestock diseases and improving livestock handling procedures.

The symposium was initiated in an effort to provide a forum for building consensus about the growing number of unethical and illegal incidences related to youth livestock events. We attended two full days of presentations and discussions relating to four main areas of emphasis — self-examination, unified effort, education and enforcement — an action plan was written by the participants and it is the hope of those present that individual states will now put together unified plans and work to bring fairness and respectability back to the showing. We need to get back to the basics in youth programs. We need to remember that the purpose of a 4-H Livestock program is to help young people to develop character. The character traits I refer to are trustworthiness, respect, responsibility, fairness, caring and citizenship. I'm not sure many of our programs today live up to these goals. We have too many adults, both parents and leaders that are on ego trips (reliving their childhood) rather than setting examples and teaching the values.

One of the major priorities of the conference was the consensus that all livestock shows and fairs need to be following a similar "Code of Ethics." We in Pennsylvania have started to encourage the use of the IAFE Code of Ethics since last May when it was adopted. Anyone interested in a copy of this document may contact me for a copy. Legally, it is very frustrating to try to enforce the rules from one show to the next, but Colorado and Ohio have both enacted laws which ban showing of animals disqualified at another show in the state.

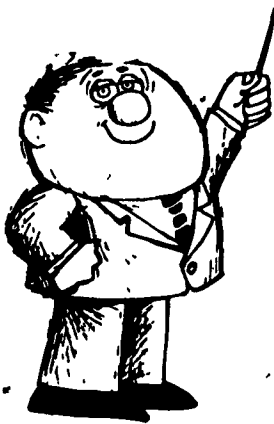

Food safety becomes an issue in livestock shows with the introduction of drugs. All sorts of testing programs are going on at shows across the country, and many, many animals are being eliminated. This, more than anything else is casting a black eye on the entire animal agriculture industry. The consumer sees "Not Your Animal, But My Food," and again ethics is the problem.

Where do we go from here? WE in Pennsylvania, just like all of the other states and provinces must start to act in a unified manner to "Clean Up The Youth Livestock Program." The examples I mentioned in this article are just the tip of the iceberg. Plans are already under way to hold a series of meetings with the Cooperative Extension Service (4-H), FFA, the Fair Industry, the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau and Pennsylvania State University just to name a few of the many that must get involved to teach our youth and their leadership the difference between right and wrong.

Other Pennsylvanians attending the program were Ben Nolt, Penn State University, Ben and Darlene Weist from Berks County and Joel Rotz from the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau.

Reserve Now For Pa. Holstein Association Convention

STATE COLLEGE (Center Co.) — The 1996 convention of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association (PHA) has been set to run Feb. 22-24 at the historic Genetti Hotel in Williamsport.

The site has been selected by the convention committee of the PHA Central District, serving as convention host.

"Make a hit with Holsteins," is the theme for the PHA's convention, taking note of Williamsport's significance as the home of Little League baseball and "our major league Holsteins found in Pennsylvania," according to a PHA news release.

The deadline to order convention tickets from James Grove, of Petersburg, and rooms at the Genetti Hotel is Feb. 1. Use the ticket order form published in Lancaster Farming, or those available through the Holstein Association, or call Grove at (814) 669-9360.

For hotel reservations, call the Genetti Hotel at (717) 326-6600 and indicate the rooms are being reserved in conjunction with the Holstein convention. Rates are $48 per night for a single, double, triple or quad, taxes extra.

The convention starts in the hotel at noon on Thursday, Feb. 22 with registration and the opening of commercial exhibits and a dairy bar.

Thursday Events

The PHA board of directors are scheduled to meet from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m., Thursday, followed by a roundtable presentation featuring dairy economists and farmers, with Penn State Extension agricultural and rural economist Robert Yonkers serving as moderator.

The theme of the discussion is to be, "Dairy marketing, policies, issues and challenges."

According to the PHA news release, "This promises to be an informative session that we hope will help people understand milk pricing policies." The roundtable is set to end at 5 p.m.

From 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m., a pre-sale buffet is scheduled to be held at the Scottish Rite Auditorium, located two blocks from the Genetti Hotel. The price of the buffet is $13 per person. The sale is to kick off in the auditorium at 7 p.m.

Consignments for the sale are still being accepted, according to William Allen, PHA director of sales, located at the PHA Farm in Middletown.

Anyone wishing to consign an animal should call Allen at (717) 944-1374.

Copies of the sale catalog are to be available after Jan. 31, through the PHA headquarters at (814) 234-0364.

Full Day Friday

Registration begins at 8 a.m. and runs until 6 p.m., Friday, as do the commercial exhibits and a dairy bar.

The 83rd annual meeting is scheduled to be held from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. in the Genetti Hotel.

Commercial exhibitors are scheduled to give brief presentations about their products and what's new in the dairy support business.

The annual meeting itself is to be an educational event with an update on state activities, as well as discussion of the national association.

An alternative spouse's program, designed for women who attend the convention, according to the news release, is set to run from 9:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. The price is $15 per person to participate, and reservations can be made on the advance convention ticket order form.

Participants are to travel from the hotel to Lewisburg, located about a half-hour south of Williamsport, to tour Country Cupboard Restaurant and Gift Shop, a popular tourist site in the Central Susquehanna Valley.

The site features a large dining area, a greenhouse, a variety of shops, and crafts and craft supplies.

Participants are to have the opportunity to watch artisans demonstrating how to make cornhusk dolls, woven baskets, caring for jewelry, arranging herbs, among other crafts.

A buffet lunch is also included in the day's activities, as well as free time for shopping. Diane Stackhouse is chairman of the Ladies Program Committee. For more information, call Stackhouse at (717) 584-2013.

At 6 p.m. at the Genetti Hotel, the reception for the convention banquet is to be held, with the banquet starting at 7 p.m.

Included in the banquet program is a guest speaker, to be announced. Other activities during the banquet include the recognition of inductees into the Pennsylvania Holstein Association Hall of Fame, and the presentation of the Pa. Distinguished Young Holstein Breeder awards.

According to the news release, additional activities during the banquet are to be announced.

Following the banquet and awards presentations is to be a dance featuring entertainment by

"Laser Images Sound."

The cost of the banquet is $22 per person and includes the dance.

Saturday Breakfast

Starting at 8 a.m., Saturday, the annual awards breakfast is scheduled to be held, featuring guest speaker Keith Weaver, a former Centre County dairy farmer who sold his Pennsylvania farm, herd and equipment in 1973, packed up with his wife Janet and children and went to homestead in Dawson Creek, British Columbia.

Described as an inspirational speaker, Weaver is talk about their 22 years of experiences in buying 2,500 acres of remote Canadian land, moving, cutting trees, picking rock, tilling 600 acres and making 14 miles of fence for a herd of almost 400 head of cattle.

The cost for attending the awards breakfast is $7 each.

For more information on the convention, call the PHA at (814) 234-0364.

"A strong, prudent board of directors challenges management and staff to seek the greatest return on our investment in ADC, creating the highest net return to its members back on the farm."
—Richard & Janet Kriebel
Benton, PA

ADC Is the Place To Be

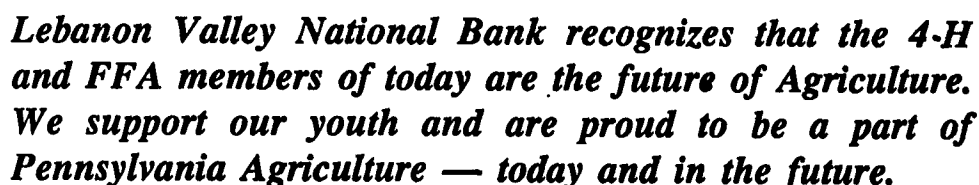

A high net return and a strong board of directors — the outstanding benefits that Richard and Janet Kriebel refer to — are among the strengths of the premier dairy cooperative in the region.

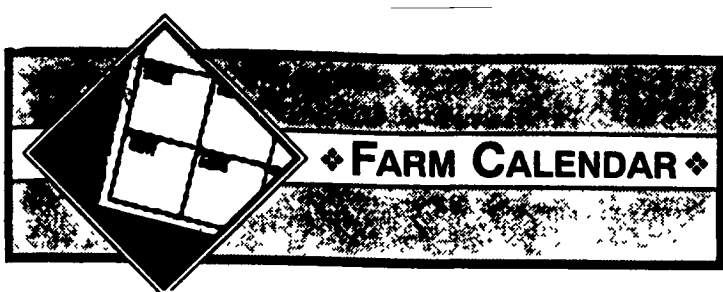

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative has a 78-year history of excellent service to its members. Financially strong, ADC guarantees a market for all member milk and excels in maximizing returns. ADC is a leader in providing equity payments, quality bonuses and over-order premiums to members.

Nearly 4,000 dairy farmers agree that "ADC is the Place to Be." For free information on how you can secure the future of your dairy farm operation, write or call:

"Excellence in Biological Agriculture"

Keystone Pork Expo Industry Highlight

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.)—The eighteenth annual Keystone Pork Expo will be held February 14 at the Lebanon Valley Expo Center at the Lebanon Fairgrounds on Cornwall and Rocherty Roads in Lebanon. This year's meeting will feature a trade show with 47 exhibits, and educational seminars for producers. The Expo will once again sponsor a

"Pork Bowl" contest and public speaking competition for competing FFA and 4-H members.

Dr. Dennis DiPietre, nationally recognized agricultural economist from the University of Missouri, will speak on the state of the swine industry. Dr. Robert Goodband, professor of animal science from Kansas State University and noted authority on swine nutrition, will provide tips on phase feeding and split sex feeding. Dr. Robert Kauffman, well-known professor of Meat Science at the University of Wisconsin, will provide his perspective on the industry's product with his presentation, "It's Time for a Reality Check on Pork Quality." Dr. Earl Dotson, vice president for producer education at the National Pork Producer's Council (NPPC) will provide a summary of the National Genetic Evaluation Program, recently sponsored by NPPC.

Lou Moore, Penn State professor of Agricultural Economics and continuing Pork Expo favorite, will be on hand to deliver his hog market outlook.

At 1:15, during a break from the educational seminars, the fifth annual Legislative Activity Fund Auction will be held. This year, only the high value items will be sold in the live auction. Smaller items will be sold by silent auction.

New for this year is the chance to win a free trip to the World Pork Expo in Des Moines, IA. All who register are eligible. The winner will receive two airline tickets from any city in the continental U.S., two tickets to the WPX, and three night's lodging. Winner must be present to win.

OF SPECIAL NOTE FOR THIS YEAR...

- Free registration
- All who register are eligible for a free trip to the World Pork Expo in Des Moines, IA. Includes three night's lodging, two tickets to the WPX, and two airline tickets -- depart from the city of your choice (Continental US). Winner announced at Legislative Fund Auction. Must be present to win.
- Legislative Activity Auction will be held at 1:15 pm so all can attend. Only high-value items will be included. Smaller items will be sold by silent auction. Have your silent bids entered by 12:30 pm.

First Test-Tube Horse Developed

chance to produce offspring from stallions with low sperm count.

Professor Ed Squires of Colorado State's Animal Reproduction and Biotechnology Laboratory said the foal from the test-tube embryo will be delivered in approximately eight months.

The recent breakthrough at Colorado State was made possible with a new technique in which researchers inserted the sperm of a stallion directly into an egg removed from an ovary. Squires said this technique, called intracytoplasmic sperm injection or ICSI, is frequently used in human medicine. The pregnant mare at Colorado State carrying the in vitro fertilized embryo is named "ICSI" in honor of the newly developed technique. French researchers used a different technique to produce a test tube horse in 1990.

In traditional artificial insemination of horses, as many as 500 million sperm are used to breed a mare. With this technique, "all it takes is one," Squires said. This procedure could be used to fertilize eggs from mares that have been incapable of producing viable embryos for standard embryo transfer techniques.

The turning point in this project came when Colorado State researchers had repeated difficulty with stallion sperm penetrating the unfertilized egg in a liquid medium. In traditional equine and bovine techniques, the sperm is introduced into the same petri dish and the sperm fertilizes the egg. Since this was not happening effectively, the scientists solved the problem with techniques used in human medicine.

"None of the techniques used in cattle seem to work in horses. Stallion sperm do not respond the same way," Squires said. "So while we try to figure this out, we decided if we couldn't achieve fertilization simply by putting the sperm and the egg together, we might as well inject the sperm directly into the egg."

"Even a sperm that is no longer motile could be used to fertilize an egg using this procedure. As long as the sperm has the DNA, it could be injected into the egg to produce an embryo," he said. "The potential uses in horses are essentially the same as they are in humans, that is to obtain offspring where there are fertility problems."

Colorado State's research team, with the collaboration of Professor George Seidel of Colorado State, have developed techniques to freeze equine embryos and transport them throughout the United States. Last year, more than 150 equine embryos arrived at Colorado State from 26 different states.

Squires said the sperm-injection research represents the continuing development of embryo transfer technologies at Colorado State, a leader in the biotechnology field. The recently developed injection technique will continue to build the university's role in the industry.

"We've opened a door and are moving to the point where we will be able to use a certain population of very valuable horses to produce foals," Squires said. "Now we need to take the next step and develop new techniques to help make this breakthrough more useful and practical for people in the equine industry."

The research was supported by Dunromin Arabian Breeders of Pine Plains, N.Y., and is a combined effort of those in human medicine—Mike Wilson, laboratory director of Reproductive Resource Center of Kansas City—and bovine embryo transfer—Professor Seidel.

Delaware Driving Horse Clinic Held

A basic hands-on driving horse clinic was held recently at the Carriage Place, Bridgeville, De. The three-day clinic brought together 10 instructors each with different skills to make what staff and students called successful.

Eight students from Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and Delaware, including three teenagers on scholarships, attended. Subjects included nutrition, safety, hitching, driving, health, and how to prepare a horse for show. In addition, students learned how to train a horse to come to you in a field. Students also had the chance to drive hitches up to an eight-horse-hitch to make a "Dukes Mixture."

Ed and Deana Banning's 45 acre Clydesdale breeding farm hosted the clinic. Three additional clinics are scheduled late January, February, and March. For more information call Ed Banning. Phone: (302) 628-0100.

SOIL MANAGEMENT

This month I'm going to talk about soil management.

Soils are an integral part of any farming operation and unfortunately they are frequently overlooked. Soils need to be managed just like the other assets of your operation in order to provide maximum returns on your investment of labor and planting materials (seeds, plants, fertilizer, etc.).

While the basic qualities of a soil cannot be altered significantly (composition, drainage) there are some very important aspects that are under your control.

One of the main features a soil that your management will influence is soil structure. Soil structure is defined as the arrangement of the soil particles. The ideal soil will have a granular structure. Factors influencing soil structure include parent or source materials, climate, soluble salts and other chemical compounds, and organic matter.

Organic matter content is one of the more important factors responsible for the maintenance of soil aggregates. There are other benefits of organic matter in the soil including increased water and nutrient retention.

As a producer, you need to maintain the levels of organic matter in your soil. The addition of animal manure as well as the incorporation of crop residues will help maintain organic matter in the soil.

The addition of any form of compost or the plowing down of a green manure crop will also boost the level of organic matter in the soil. Crop rotation helps to maintain the organic matter content of a soil. Since organic matter is constantly breaking down you need to be replenishing it at a rate at least equal to the rate of breakdown. Soils with low levels of organic matter tend to be less productive than comparable soils with higher organic matter contents.

Good tillage practices are also important in a soil management program.

Working the soil when it is too wet will break down soil structure. Intensive cropping and excessive traffic from unnecessary tilling operations will also result in damage to your soil.

Damaged soils are characterized by being very hard and compact, which results in poor seed germination, loss of transplants, and shallow root formation in surviving plants. These soils will also crust easily and tend to compact severely, which makes proper irrigation difficult if not impossible.

The ultimate effect on the crop from damaged soils is reduced yields and thus reduced income. The effect of poor tillage practices for just a short period of time can take many years to correct.

Crop rotation is another component in a soil management program. I've already mentioned the beneficial effect of crop rotation on soil organic matter. In addition, by alternating the crop grown on a particular plot of soil, you will gain maximum benefit from applied fertilizers.

All crops do not use the same amounts of each soil nutrient and by varying the crop you can increase the utilization of any applied fertilizers. Crop rotation will also enable you to break some disease and insect cycles. This effect is both environmentally friendly as well as financially sound.

A reduction in the amount of applied pesticides will definitely improve your bottom line. Crop rotation from continuous corn to a corn-forage rotation resulted in higher corn yields, better soil aggregation, as well as reduced soil erosion. While many of you may not be able to rotate into a forage crop because of financial constraints, there are still benefits to be obtained from crop rotations.

The addition of fertilizers and maintenance of proper pH is the final component of a soil management system. The basis for determining what types and amounts of soil amendments are necessary is a soil test.

It is recommended that you have your soil tested a minimum of every three years. Adding fertilizers and/or lime without a soil test to determine the actual amounts necessary is both a waste of time and money.

Excessive fertilizer applications could also result in pollution of ground or surface water supplies. Recommendations from a soil testing laboratory are based on the type of crop(s) to be grown as well as prior cropping and fertilization practices. The small fee associated with a soil test will be more than recovered through use of the information provided in subsequent crop production.

This is the time of the year when you are determining your production scheme for the coming growing season. Take some time to be sure you are managing your soil properly to obtain the maximum yields possible. By altering a few of your production practices you may be able to improve the soil and at the same time increase your returns.

While this column may seem to apply mainly to vegetable growers, I urge fruit growers to examine your soil management practices also. Good soil management strategies will also result in more favorable returns in your farming operation.

Satellite Systems Lock On New York Farm Show

SYRACUSE, NY—"Precision Decisions" is the theme for the Northeast's largest indoor farm show. The New York Farm Show will showcase a broad range of satellite-guided farming systems when it is held at the State Fairgrounds, February 22-24.

"This is the same technology that enabled the United States to dominate in the Gulf War. Now it is helping farmers enhance their production efficiency while protecting the environment," according to Mike Stratton of the Cooperative Extension Service. Stratton worked with American Agriculturist Editor Eleanor Jacobs to organize this new exhibit for the 1996 New York Farm Show.

The New York Farm Show offers more than 175,000 square feet of exhibits. More than 400 companies and manufacturers display the newest equipment, supplies, technology, inputs and services. Farmers can tour four buildings at the fairgrounds, meet with company representatives and comparison shop.

The New York Farm Show is sponsored by the New York Equipment Dealers Association and American Agriculturist magazine. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. daily. Tickets are available free from New York state farm equipment dealers or by writing New York Farm Show, P.O. Box 3470, Syracuse, NY 13220. Include a self-addressed, stamped legal envelope.

Owners Of Persimmon Tree Farm Win Ice Cream Freezer

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — As announced last week, Robert Dise, Glen Rock, won the drawing for an old-fashioned White Mountain ice cream freezer at Lancaster Farming's Farm Show booth. This week, Robert and his wife Greta, stopped in at our office to pick up the prize.

The York County couple own and operate Persimmon Tree Farm that includes 87 acres. Livestock on the farm includes sheep, goats, and a few cattle. They support the Pennsylvania Mohair Cashmere Growers' Association by giving demonstrations in weaving in the family living area at the Farm Show. Greta would have been with a team of weavers at the Sheep to Shawl contest if the snowstorm would not have caused the contest to be cancelled.

Actually, the Dises like to use both wool and goat hair in their sweaters, hats and other creations they make from their animals at the farm. In 1992, Greta had the champion fleece at the 75th Farm Show. They also attend the Maryland Sheep and Wool show in Howard County and have attended shows in both New Jersey and New York. Raw fleece to finished products from Angora goats and Border Leicester sheep are their specialty.

Robert Dise, left, receives the prize, a White Mountain ice cream freezer, from the drawing of entries at Lancaster Farming's Farm Show booth. Jean Kline and Greg March from the advertising department made the presentation when Dise stopped by the office last Monday.

WILL THE IRS INHERIT YOUR ESTATE?

New York Life's Survivorship Whole Life policy was created to provide you and your spouse with life insurance coverage, and needed liquidity, when your estate taxes are due.

It works like this: When one spouse dies, the resulting estate tax can be deferred until after the death of the surviving spouse. At that time, the policy's proceeds become available, and can be used to help pay the usually heavy estate tax. In other words, New York Life makes the proceeds available when they're needed the most.

You've worked hard all of your life, and shouldn't have to spend time worrying about what will happen to your estate. Call us for all the details and let us show you why New York Life is The Company You Keep.

Performance Economics Topic At Pa.DHIA Corporate Meeting

DAVID BIGELOW
Training Coordinator
STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)—Dr. Steve Ford, farm management specialist at Penn State, will discuss performance economics at the eighth annual Pa. DHIA corporate meeting.

This year's program is to consist of a one-day meeting, from 7:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., on Friday, Feb. 16, at the Holiday Inn on 1450 South Atherton Street, State College.

This free program consists of 5 pages of instructions, a one-page worksheet, a completed worksheet as a sample, and a replica of the Pa. DHIA technician's laptop computer feed screen.

Benefits for members who participate in the Performance Economics Program are as follows:

1. Confidentiality of financial information.
2. Individual cow economic performance.
3. Individual group production cost.
4. Cost per cwt. of milk on your farm.
5. Rolling 12 month income over cost.
6. Rolling income over per cow.
7. Test period income over cost.
8. Test day income over cost.
9. Income over cost per day for each lactation group.
10. Income over cost per day for each group (you can create a special group such as cows on BST)
11. Economic analysis of the heifer enterprise.
12. Profitability analysis for the whole farm.

If overnight accommodations are requested in the registration, meeting delegates and attendees can arrive the evening of Thursday, Feb. 15, and attend a 7 p.m. session designed to orient county committee members on local committee responsibilities, and state as well as national obligations.

The day starts with the annual association awards breakfast and continues through the corporate meeting.

While the annual corporate meeting is designed to serve as a forum between the association board of directors and county delegates, all members are invited to attend the meeting and overnight accommodations can be made available if registrations are received at the Pa. DHIA office by Feb. 1.

There is no charge to county delegates to attend the meeting, to stay overnight or for the associated meals. However, other costs, such as transportation and telephone charges are to be handled by the delegates.

For accompanying spouses, the delegates are responsible to pay for the spouse's meals and the price difference for overnight accommodations.

To register, fill-out a registration form and send a check payable to "PA DHIA" to PA DHIA, Orchard Road, University Park, PA 16802. Make the reservation to the attention of Dixie Burris.

For more information, please feel free to call PA DHIA at 1-800-344-8378.

Milk Marketing Redeems Member Equity

STRONGSVILLE, Ohio—Milk Marketing Inc. (MMI), a dairy cooperative owned by 9,000 farmers in 11 states, redeemed a total of $4.7 million in equity to member-farmers in December.

This represents a portion of the investment and commitment members made in their dairy cooperative.

The equity redemption, combined with $2.1 million in earnings issued in September, "means that for the first six months of the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1995, members have received a total of nearly $7 million over and above their regular monthly milk checks," noted Don Schriver, executive vice president and CEO.

This is another example, he said, of the commitment by the MMI board and staff "to maximize member returns."

From the left, Dave Slusser sits down with Dr. Steve Ford, farm management specialist at Penn State, who is to be the featured speaker at the Pa.DHIA corporate meeting.

Registration Form

Please return this registration form to PA DHIA, Orchard Road, University Park, PA 16802 to the attention of Dixie L. Burris. Registration must be received no later than February 1, 1996.

Lancaster County Cattle Feeder's Day Announced

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)—The Lancaster County Cattle Feeder's Day is scheduled for Tuesday, February 6, at the Farm and Home Center, Lancaster. The theme for this year's event is "Challenges, Uncertainties, and Opportunities."

Highlighting this annual event will be topics of national and worldwide significance that affect our local cattle feeding interests. Up-state New York cattle feeder Glenn Paris will present "Challenges of Cattle Feeding in the Northeast," an inside look at how he competes with feedyards across the country. From Oklahoma State University, Dr. Glen Dolezal, Red Meats Scientist, will examine the hard facts about marbling, age, cattle types, and tenderness with his talk, "What Really Determines Beef Quality." The challenges of marketing cattle now and into the 21st century will be addressed by two speakers, who have expertise on two popular subjects. Dr. Wayne Purcell, Virginia Tech Ag Economist will focus on "The Uncertain Impact of Captive Supplies of Cattle on Cattle Prices." Jeff Oates, Communications Director of the US Meat Export Federation in Denver, Colorado will present current and future "Opportunities in Exporting" comparing successes with potential pitfalls.

More locally, Jeff Stoltzfus, Adult Ag Instructor in the Eastern Lancaster County School District will offer a brief "Update on Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Law" explaining where we are in the process and how cattle feeders will be affected. Dave Ivan, Executive Director of the Pennsylvania Beef Council, will bring us up-to-date on the newly formed "National Cattleman's Beef Association" and the ever popular H. Louis Moore, Penn State Extension Ag Economist, will present his annual "Cattle and Feed Outlook" to kick off the day's program.

Anyone interested in the cattle industry is invited to attend. No reservations are necessary. Lunch tickets may be purchased at the door until 11:30 a.m. In addition to the formal program, there will be an opportunity to inspect commercial exhibits and visit other cattlemen. The event will begin at 8:30 a.m. with exhibit visitation and the program starts promptly at 9:30 a.m. This meeting conducted by the Penn State Cooperative Extension concludes at 3 p.m. with a question and answer session. Our sponsors for this year's event are CoreStates Bank, Keystone Farm Credit, and the Pennsylvania Beef Council. Penn State encourages persons with disabilities to participate in its programs and activities. If you anticipate needing any type of accommodation, have questions about the physical access provided, or need additional information please contact Chester Hughes at 717-394-6851 in advance of your participation or visit.

"Challenges, Uncertainties, and Opportunities"

• 8:30 a.m.—Visit Agribusiness Exhibits. Coffee and donuts compliments of Keystone Farm Credit, ACA.

• 9:30 a.m.—"1996 Cattle and Feed Outlook," H. Louis Moore, Penn State Extension Ag Economist.

York Ag Recognition Banquet Plans Announced

YORK (York Co.)—The York County Chamber of Commerce, York County Farm Bureau and Penn State Cooperative Extension will hold the Ninth Annual Agriculture Recognition Banquet on Thursday, January 25, 1996 at Wisheaven Hall, East Prospect Street in York. Join us in recognizing those individuals who have showed exemplary service in the agricultural industry during 1995 and throughout the years. Seventeen awards will be presented to the 1995 agriculture-business exchange day participants, ag industry award recipient, farm family award recipient, and the 1995 farm visitation day hosts.

The evening will begin with a social at 5:00 p.m. with exhibits and information booths on display followed by dinner and guest speaker Representative Bill Emerson. Representative Emerson, (R) Missouri, is the vice chairman of the U.S. House Agriculture Committee. He will discuss the 1996 Farm Bill, one of the most important bills for agriculture in recent history, the Contract with America and whether 1996 will be a year of permanent change in reducing the role of the federal government.

Cost is $16 per person. Table sponsorships are available for $150 and $250. Call Krista Bair at (717) 848-4000 for more information.

Pa. Auctioneer Association Holds Annual Convention

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—The Pennsylvania Auctioneers Association Inc. held its annual meeting in Harrisburg last week despite the Blizzard of '96.

Long associated with the state Farm Show, about seven years ago, the association lost its time slot during the Farm Show rescheduling that occurred. However, it may again return to the Farm Show someday, depending on scheduling.

Nevertheless, the association of auctioneers honored several of its members during its convention, inducted three into its Hall of Fame, naming its auctioneer of the year, and the winner of its annual auctioneer contest.

Blaine Rentzel, of Emigsville, York County, was named auctioneer of the year.

Rentzel is a full-time auctioneer and is owner of Rentzel's Auction Service, with two associates. A 25-year member of the state and national association, he specializes in the selling of farm machinery, real estate and estate liquidations.

A graduate of Northeastern High School, he attended the Reppert Auction School and the Dale Carnegie Course. He has also held auctioneer licenses in various counties in Maryland, in North Carolina and previously in Ohio and Indiana.

The host of the his chapter family picnic, he has held and been active with chapter activities and has also worked with other local auctioneers to educate the public about auctioneering.

The three inducted in the state auctioneers' Hall of Fame were Jim Young, of Dewart, Wiley Rittenhouse, Vanderbilt, and Wil Hahn, Bath.

Wil Hahn has been a member of the PAA since 1977 and served as its president in 1985. He also represented the association in rewriting auctioneer law, helped conduct hearings around the state and assisted in writing the first educational program to meeting licensing requirements.

In addition, the public educator has served on various committees concerning legislation and education, and conducted seminars at the PAA conventions.

Hahn taught school five years, served as a public schools administrator for 12, was an elementary principal, a secondary school principal, and served as assistant county superintendent of schools.

He also taught for 18 years at East Stroudsburg University and served as department chairman there for 16 years, and as dean of education for two. He retired from East Stroudsburg in 1988 and received his CAI designation in

Active in many community and social organizations and events, he has been a constant worker helping to run education television fund raisers, he co-planned the association's first education seminar and sponsored numerous speakers. In other community service, he represents the chapter at the Annual March of Dimes event.

At the national association level, Hahn served on the board of directors, was president from 1993-94, served on the CAI board of directors for two years and conducted seminars for the NAA and CAI and for approximately 30 state associations. He has been a member of the NAA Gavel Club for six years.

James Young, of Dewart, is a partner in Ranck and Young Auctioneers. A full-time auctioneer, he has been a member of the Northeast PAA chapter, and a member of the state and national association for 20 years.

A specialist in farm and estate auctions, he is always ready to help or serve when asked according to his nomination. He served as an officer in the Northeast chapter for many years and on numerous committees. Known for his honesty and high ethical standards, Young attended the "School of Hard Knocks" and is also a licensed real estate salesman.

A World War II veteran on a B29 crew, he has served as a township supervisor, church treasurer and elder, and is a member of various community organizations.

No information was available by presstime on Rittenhouse.

The winner of this year's auctioneer contest was C. Sherman Allen, Conneaut Lake, Westmoreland County.

The champion bid caller said he entered the contest for years and has always placed well, but this was his first victory.

The owner of C. Sherman Allen Auctioneer and Associates, his bid calling performance was judged by a panel of six that included last year's contest winner, NAA President Robin Marshall, Nebraska, and directors or designees from six state chapters.

He said he specializes in general auctioneering including estates and agriculture including dairy dispersals and farm auctions. Living about 14 miles from the Ohio border, he also licensed to practice in that state.

In addition he is partners with brother Leslie and sister Jennifer Campbell on a 500-acre dairy farm, Allen Farms, where they milk 100 head of mostly grade Holsteins with some red & white Holsteins and Ayrshire.

"I got into auctioneering when I was a kid, my granddaddy was in the machinery business and went to auctions."

After graduating high school in 1972, he attended auctioneer school in 1976 and now auctioneers fulltime as well as hauling mostly purebred dairy cattle and some other livestock — he just got back from taking some buffalo and Longhorn cattle to Arkansas for some circus people.

He used to show purebred swine as a youth — Duroc, Hampshire and Herefords.

"I felt fantastic with the win," he said, adding that now he can "retire" from the competition. For his win he received a monetary award and a plaque with a gavel on it.

Allen is also a state officer, serving as its first vice president.

Other officers include Robert A. Clinton, Ottsville, Montgomery County, president; Sanford "Sandy" Alderfer, Hatfield, second vice president; and James Lewis, Wyoming, secretary-treasurer.

The PAA has about 600 members out of the estimated 1,800 licensed auctioneers in the state.

The mission of the PAA is to work together to maintain the highest standard of excellence, to treat all parties in a transaction in a fair and equitable manner, to stay educated and informed to best serve the client, among other professional qualities and standards.

For more information on the organization, contact Jeanie Crowl, PAA executive secretary at (800) 577-6801.

PSU Plans Educational Programs For Fruit Growers

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)—The Fruit Industry is an important sector of the economy in Pennsylvania.

Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences is committed to helping update the knowledge base of the professionals working in this industry by disseminating the latest research-based information through its cooperative extension educational programs.

Following are details of the 1996 Winter-Summer cooperative extension educational programs offerings for the fruit growers, consultants, and other industry personnel in south central Pennsylvania.

These programs have been developed cooperatively by local fruit grower associations along with College of Agricultural Sciences' staff.

1996 Bradford County Dairy Day Set

TOWANDA (Bradford Co.)—Plans are now well under way for the 1996 Bradford County Dairy Day which will be held on Monday, February 19, at the SRU School in East Smithfield, PA from 9:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

One of this year's features will be a free skin cancer screening for any farmer attending this year's Dairy Day. Participants in the screening will be examined privately by a physician who will refer individuals to their family physician or a dermatologist, if necessary.

The educational presentations featured this year will be Dr. Lawrence Muller of Penn State's Dairy and Animal Science Department on Feeding Forages and Thomas R. Maloney from Cornell's Agricultural Economics Department on Labor Management. A pesticide break-out session also will be offered for those farmers who want to obtain pesticide points.

The Bradford County Dairy Day Committee is now accepting applications from businesses that wish to exhibit at Dairy Day. All exhibitors from 1995 should have received their applications in the mail by now. Anyone who would like an application please call PSU-Bradford County Cooperative Extension at (717) 265-2896. The exhibitor fee is $65 and is due on January 19, 1996.

There is absolutely no cost for farmers to attend Dairy Day and dinner and refreshments are all provided by area businesses. There will also be door prize drawings throughout the day.

Farmers will need to reserve their free dinner by calling the Extension Office at 265-2896 before February 12, 1996. For any information on Dairy Day, please call Tom Maloney at 265-2896.

PennWest Farm Credit Sponsors Forum, Trade Show

MERCER (Mercer Co.)—PennWest Farm Credit's 1996 Ag Consultants Forum and Trade Show is being held on February 12, 1996 at the Sheraton in Warrendale, and on February 13, 1996 at the Altoona Pa. Ramada Inn.

Because the business of farming is becoming more complex everyday and many farm operators are turning to outside professionals to assist them in the management of their businesses, PennWest Farm Credit has organized a trade show where agricultural producers can learn more about consultants and other support services.

Along with an opportunity to interact at the trade shows attendees will have an opportunity to participate in the following break-out presentations:

Maximizing returns to the Farm

Business through the use of consultants, presented by Gary Snyder, Farm Business Consultant Western New York Farm Credit and Dale Beaver, partner in a 600 cow dairy from Randolph, NY.

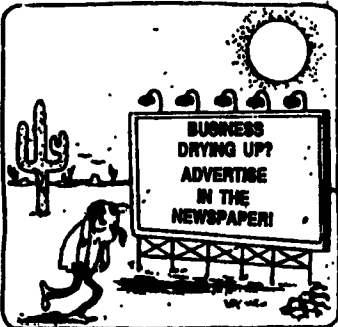

Farmstead Planning and Layout, presented by Michael Veenhuizen, President Livestock Engineering Solutions Greenwood Indiana.

Nutrient Management Laws, presented by Michael Brubaker, President Brubaker Agronomic Consulting, Ephrata, PA.

Disengaging the Farm Business, presented by Gary Snyder, Farm Business Consultant Western New York Farm Credit.

The cost to attend either of the sessions is five dollars. For registration information please call Michelle Bellich at (412) 662-3350.

Farm Forum

Editor

On behalf of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the Farm Show Products Commission, I wish to extend my most sincere thanks to everyone throughout the state who pulled together to help the 1996 Farm Show succeed.

Faced with unprecedented weather, with exhibits and livestock in place, the Show went on despite the decreased number of visitors. When travel became impossible because of weather conditions and a ban which nearly covered the state, those who were already at the show provided yeoman service to ensure the care of livestock and young people who were stranded.

It was testimony to the tremendous character of our agricultural community that the Show went on. We regret any inconvenience, but are deeply grateful to the thousands of you who pitched in, worked together and made it a memorable Farm Show.

Thanks to each one of you who contributed to this most unusual show — it will definitely be one for the record books!

And a special thanks for your very complete coverage of the Show, which allowed many who could not attend the opportunity to experience it through your extensive photos and reporting.

Very truly yours,
Charles C. Brosius
Secretary of Agriculture

It's A Small World

JOYCE BUPP

York Co. Correspondent
SHIPPENSBURG (Franklin Co.) — "Think small" might be considered Lucille Day's personal motto.

But while she "thinks small," Lucille Day goes about it in a very big way.

This Franklin County dairy farm woman collects miniatures, many of them used to furnish the most detailed and delightful dollhouses and room boxes imaginable.

"In 1947, the McCall's magazine published a pattern of a dollhouse," relates Lucille. "I showed it to Buzz, my father, and said, 'We're going to build this.'"

So she sent away for the dollhouse pattern. But it got put aside in the hectic life of the Day family's dairy operation, which was then located near Damascus, Maryland. Not until the early 1960s did Lucille and her father finally make the time to pursue her dream of building the dollhouse.

"Every Sunday he and I would work on it," she says of the magnificent, eight-foot-long Howes House which pays tribute to her childhood home. Careful attention to scale and details went into the dollhouse building, including putting each of the 2,500 tiny wooden shingles onto the roof, one at a time.

Next came the ongoing challenge — finding appropriate materials and pieces to finish and furnish the 10 rooms of the dollhouse. Miniatures were far less popular at that time than they are now and Lucille had a "terrible time" finding furniture, even wallpaper, to scale. It started her on a search for just the right piece, a detective effort that continues as an enjoyable and informative hobby.

"It's an addiction," is how Lucille describes her miniatures-collecting.

An advertisement for inexpensive miniature furniture from California was one of her first leads toward decorating the dollhouse, along with discovering a magazine dedicated to dollhouses. Before long, Lucille's name was in the publication and she began receiving contacts from other women in the region who shared her "bug."

Soon, the Miniature Minded Maidens Monthly Monday Morning Meeting group had formed, an affiliation of miniatures-collecting hobbyists who meet for fun, fellowship and focusing on the small things in life. The group is now more than 30 years old.

"We have no dues, no officers, no arguments," is how Lucille describes this club of like-minded and light-hearted women from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, and Washington, D.C. "But we always have plenty of food."

At its maximum membership, the group numbered about 40. Due to space limitations in members' homes, where the meetings are held, the group has reduced its numbers as some dropped out. For Lucille, the miniatures club has brought deep friendships with women she would probably never have otherwise met.

Since miniatures were so much more scarce at that time, members of the group designed and made most of their own tiny collectibles. They have always shared ideas through show-and-tell and help fund their activities with a for-sale table of their creations.

"We made a lot of things at first; now you can buy just about anything in miniature," Lucille observes, adding "for a price." For instance, tiny perfume bottles were often created with beads glued together. Now, delicate, but expensive, hand-blown bottles can be bought through collector suppliers and miniatures shows.

Admitting that she has never been a "kit" person, Lucille has shunned miniatures kits in preference to the challenge of making her own. One of her specialties is designing beautiful miniature floral arrangements, using tiny flowers and plant material she gathers around the family's Tri-Day dairy and crops farm. She sometimes trades her arrangements with other miniatures collectors for items they have made.

Those diminutive, colorful floral designs are just a few of the hundreds of eye-catching details that make Lucille's Howes House and her individual room boxes so perfect and intricate. In fact, the longer one looks at the tiny decorating details, the more fascinating they become.

In the kitchen of the dollhouse are such items as a tiny woven basket filled with shaped cookie cutters, handmade of tin. Other baskets, made with intricate detail from dainty natural materials, abound through the dollhouse's decorating scheme. Clothespins — one-quarter inch long — wait for someone to hang tiny laundry.

Mirrors are fashioned from reflective glass framed by old brass belt buckles. Trays and music boxes — which actually play tunes — have been hand-painted by members of the miniatures club. A light fixture was once nothing more than a very small seashell.

Collections of books fill bookshelves, real books with real pages that turn and real printing, so tiny some of it requires a magnifying glass to read. A formal living room sofa is upholstered with silk fabric that came from Hong Kong. Dainty, paper-thin plates made of porcelain come from England. Others, of Wedgewood design, were once tiny samples used by salesmen of the fine china to show the company's wares.

Hanging on one wall of the dollhouse is a treasured tiny, but accurate, oil painting of the first Excellent cow in the Day family's Tri-Day registered Holstein herd. The herd is now operated by their son, Curtis, and his family, but Lucille and her husband, Roger, continue to help with the farm's chores every day. The miniature painting of the special cow was done for Lucille by an artist friend.

Various room boxes, some made by Lucille and some by other miniatures collectors, also decorate the Day home. The small, electrically-lit, glassed boxes depict a single room with a particular theme. One room box given to her by a friend is a reproduction of a fabric shop, complete with one-eighth-inch spools of colorful thread, more than one hundred hand-wrapped bolts of assorted fabrics and tiny rolls of various ribbons.

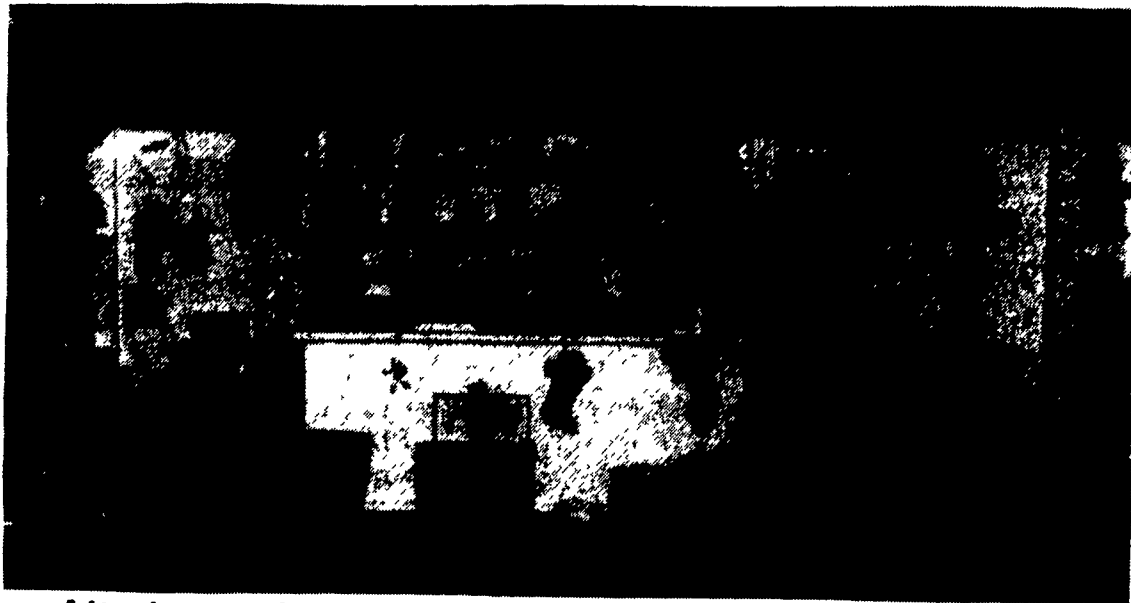

A "Holstein" room box donated by the Days to the Pennsylvania Holstein Association's auction a few years ago raised $1,500 to ward the group's fund-raiser to help sponsor the 1995 national Holstein convention held in Pittsburgh. Another Holstein room box is in progress for her personal collection, with Lucille adding items to it as she finds or finishes them.

In 1989, the Day families moved their farming operation to the rolling mountain valley west of Shippensburg. Lucille wrapped every piece of her extensive miniatures collection in tissue paper and carefully packed them in marked boxes. When the dairy herd was settled, the equipment moved and the households relocated, Lucille still had her other houses and other rooms to unpack and redecorate.

Like most other homes, these are never completely finished. There's always some redecorating, some altering, some adding or taking away, some new "find" to be included. But, by thinking small, at least Lucille Day doesn't have to wait for help to move the furniture.

HOMESTEAD NOTES

A toy store room box built by Lucille Day's father and furnished by her includes numerous handmade and handpainted toys, blocks and games. The room box is designed on a scale of one-inch to one-foot.

The Holstein room box is being decorated by Lucille Day with all sorts of novel black-and-white related items, from a rocking horse to a cow-clock. A Holstein room box she donated to a Pennsylvania Holstein Association auction a few years ago raised $1,500.

On Being a Farm Wife (and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

Every muscle taut, the lioness waited for just the right moment. Then she leapt into action, throwing her powerful muscles and deadly claws into the hide of the unfortunate zebra. Before the hungry hunter could begin to feed, other residents of Africa's Serengeti moved in on the kill. Circling buzzards landed. A pack of hyenas began tearing at the carcass. The lioness retreated from the fray, still unfed.

Was it just coincidence that the memory of a nature show we'd watched the evening before ran through my mind as I waited to check out at a local supermarket? Behind me, the line lengthened by several shoppers per minute, while similar lines on both sides stretched back into the distant recesses of the store. I hovered over my cart — the huntress protecting her kill against restless fellow predators.

On the fourth day following the Great Blizzard of 1996, we ran out of calf feed. So, The Farmer dropped me at the supermarket to "stalk for food" while he picked up supplies at the feed mill.

Our freezer held bread, along with supplies of meat, homegrown veggies and fruits, pasta and grain products. Goodness knows we had milk. But we were short on fresh vegetables and fruit and various miscellaneous things needed after a two-week absence from grocery shopping. And another storm threatened.

As expected, the produce section was running thin. No celery, which was on my list. But a bit farther were a few packs of celery hearts. I raised my rifle, took aim and . . . no, I gleefully snatched a pack and tossed it into the cart. Orange stocks were running low. Around the turn was a small pile of bags of plump juice oranges — I bagged another prize.

Surprisingly, there was bread. A two-loaf limit was being enforced. According to one employee, bread was disappearing in a half hour after delivery, milk within a few hours.

So it went, the bareness of some of the shelves resembling those we observed in a small Russian market while on a farm tour nearly 20 years ago. No potatoes. No cabbage. A cabbage shortage? And not an egg in the store. Skimpy were the stocks of crackers, cooking oil, sugar. Toilet paper. Pizza. Butter, also on my list, was getting scarce.

Like the rest of my fellow food predators hovering over our cartfuls of prey, I've come to expect that I can hop in the car, drive to the supermarket and whatever foodstuffs are on my list will be there. And, more abundant and cheaper than they can be found anywhere else in the world.

Cheap, plentiful food is neither a God-given nor a constitutional right. It's the result of decades of ever-increasing efficiency by American farmers. But long-term social, political and environmental trends, costs of meeting regulatory standards, high tax levels, escalating insurance rates and "cheap food policy" goals continue to contribute to the decline in smaller, family-owned farms, close to the population centers. Instead, food production trends are toward larger and larger operations in regions often hundreds, maybe thousands, of miles distant from the concentration of consumers.

Focusing our food production at distant areas in huge factory-type operations makes our eating habits increasingly vulnerable to the whims of weather, transportation disruptions, diseases, civil disobedience, terrorism. Even a blizzard, minor compared to the unrest in countries around the world, brings us to the edge of panic.

I left the store pleased with my hunting success, despite the empty shelf spots.

And sobered at where this country would be if a disaster of long duration struck.

Gimme' the bread! I saw it first! I gotta' have it! I only have six left at home!

Do All Teens Act This Way?

Adolescents are so volatile — predictable and even-tempered one moment and off-the-wall or withdrawn the next! Parents often wonder what's "normal" and what's abnormal. Unfortunately, that question does not have a clearly defined answer.

Parents should be familiar with some indicators of potential trouble in a teen's life. And they need to develop a watchful eye early. Typically, teen drinkers begin to develop a habit around 13 years of age. To prevent this, parental support needs to come several years before that point. During fifth and sixth grade, kids are making up their minds about whether they will or won't drink and take drugs.

One way that parents can support their teens is to stay involved in their school activities. Statistics compiled by a national drug prevention organization documents that 43 percent of 5th and 6th graders whose families have low involvement in their school activities will have high drug use. Only nine percent of those students with low involvement from families will stay drug-free.

Another way to help teens is to get to know their friends well. Spend time with them. Talk with their parents. These practices keep you connected. They also demonstrate to your child that you care, and that you are not going to "check out" of their lives (even if they may want you to). Work hard to keep the lines of communication open. Although they may not act like it, teens need your acceptance, affection, and support as much or more than younger children.

To gauge whether or not your child's behavior is "normal," look for the following things:

School: drop in grades, loss in initiative, progressive lack of interest in classes and extracurricular activities, absenteeism, conflicts with teachers and other authority figures.

Home: excessive emotional highs and lows, excessive defiance of rules, failure to disclose any personal problems, withdrawal from family functions, change in personal hygiene, failure to inform parents of school activities, not coming home on time/at all, money missing in the home, alcohol or prescription drugs disappearing, change in sleep patterns, excessive weight loss in a short amount of time, avoidance of parents/other significant adults, alert and talkative one day, tired and subdued the next, inappropriate laughter, excessive nervousness, making/receiving strange phone calls, burning incense, using eye drops, taking breath fresheners.

Social: sudden switching of friends or isolating self from peers, conflicts with peers.

The above behavior may indicate a problem with drugs, alcohol, or depression. Remember ALL kids demonstrate some of these characteristics some of the time, and teens will demonstrate many of them. Don't overreact. Deliberately observe your child's behavior. Monitor activities carefully. If you begin to notice many of these symptoms, maybe your teen has crossed the line from normal to abnormal behavior.

One counselor suggests that parents evaluate:

- The intensity of the problem

the teen is having.

- The frequency. How often do they appear troubled/exhibit troubled behavior?

- The nature of the behavior. Is the behavior out of character? Address serious incidents that are out of character for the child when they occur multiple times.

Parents should ask despondent children questions like, "Are you feeling very unhappy?" or "I know it's difficult to talk about things, but I sense that something is wrong, and I am concerned about you. Would you like to talk about it?" Simply noticing and talking with a child is helpful. If the response indicates a suicide risk, share the concern. Research shows that the best thing a person can do is to emphasize and listen to the intense feelings. And teens' emotions are always intense. Listening generally diminishes a feeling's intensity. Counselors caution parents not to say, "You shouldn't feel that way," or "That's no big deal, forget about it." These responses tend to intensify the guilt, anger and depression. The reality is the child DOES feel this way.

If your child seems down and doesn't want to talk, be prepared to suggest some alternate, healthy ways of dealing with the stress. Perhaps your daughter would be more comfortable talking with another caring adult, or she may want to write out her frustration. These are OK outlets. Maybe your son would prefer to read a book or play an aggressive game of basketball. Other pick-me-ups include: a brisk walk or aerobics workout, dancing, creating something, helping someone less-fortunate, writing a letter, swimming, planning a surprise for someone, playing an instrument, or phoning a friend.

As much as possible, pick your battles with teens carefully. Hair color and style, clothing choices, and music are some of the least important concerns to worry about. Teens need to express their independence and separateness in some way.

This doesn't mean that you can just ignore a child, or that if everything looks good on the surface that a parent has no concerns. Social work professionals remind us that even honor roll students can suffer from depression or be dependent on drugs. And only observant, honest parents catch the indicators.

When in doubt, ask questions. Get an assessment. Get your child connected to someone outside your family who can listen objectively. Finally, take the time to do a little personal assessment and ask, "Is my child copying behavior that he observes from adults in our home?" We need to honestly work on our own issues as we help our teens. Parents don't need to have things perfectly under control, but they do need to be honest about the consequences of their behavior as they guide teens in making choices for their own lives.

Sleigh Rally To Be Held Feb. 18

CAPORTE (Sullivan Co.)—It's that time of the year when everyone begins to feel "cabin fever." One remedy is to visit Sullivan County on February 18, 1996 when the Chamber of Commerce has its big winter event—the Sleigh Rally. This event is one of only about eight held in the United States.

The Sleigh Rally will be held at the Sullivan County Fairgrounds located along Route 154 just outside the town of Forksville. Gates will open at 10 a.m. with the rally beginning at 11 a.m. Admission is $2 for adults, with children under 12 free when accompanied by an adult. Included in the price of admission is a free bobsled ride. The bobsled is pulled by draft horses.

The Sleigh Rally features

horse-drawn sleighs competing in many different classes. They are multiples; single light horse; single pony; single miniature horse; gentlemen-to-drive; ladies-to-drive; juniors-to-drive; single draft horse or pony; a Currier & Ives competition which is judged on overall picture of turnout, and a timed obstacle class.

The bobsled rides will begin at 10:30 a.m. and run until 2:30 p.m. at which time they will be discontinued because of stress on the horses.

Weight Loss Class

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)—Would you like to learn how to improve your health and lose excess pounds? You can take the first step to a permanent healthy lifestyle, plus lose weight for a lifetime. Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences has introduced a weight-management class series designed to help people shed pounds permanently. Other benefits may include lower blood pressure and cholesterol levels.

The program grew out of current research into theories about obesity, weight loss, exercise, and coping management. Participants are given accurate, up-to-date information about food, nutrition and exercise. They are encouraged to recognize their own needs and choices and to become more physically active. Classes utilize an individualized, active, informative approach. Participants also learn how to make food choices they can live with for the rest of their life. The program's philosophy is that there are no forbidden foods, only those a person might choose to eat less often and in smaller amounts.

Class Limit: 15. Cost: $65.

Day Class—9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on February 6, 13, 20, 27, March 5, 12, 19, 26, April 2, 9, 23 and 30.

Evening Class—7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. on February 5, 12, 19, 26, March 4, 11, 18, 25, April 1, 8, 22 and 29.

Classes will be held in the Extension Training Room of the Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster. For registration information, contact the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Office at (717) 394-6851.

All Gardens Great & Small by York Co. Horticultural Agent Tom Becker

A much loved bedding plant comes to mind when I'm hoping for spring. Garden pansies are a relatively new plant used as a natural low annual groundcover. But, pansies protected with mulch or snow all winter long often survive to give a spring show. Temperatures dipping into the teens or lower for weeks won't stop their early spring show.

Often called "Happy thoughts," pansies are actually violets bred with 4" diameter flowers. Pansies grown in 4-inch pots or a half flat in a greenhouse of solarium provides many weeks of enjoyment. Use a sterile, soil-less potting mix and sow seeds in trenches covering thinly with 1/4 inch of soil. Seeds must be covered with soil to germinate in 8-15 days. Bring the pansies outside on warmer (greater than 40°F) winter days and back inside during cold snowy nights. This also helps to quickly harden them for outdoor transplanting in the spring.

Pansies offer colors that surprise even the best plant breeders. Colors like mahogany, orange, blue and yellows are common with 2 to 3 colors on each pansy face. Who cannot smile after seeing pansies in pots in the snow.

An All American Selection Winner in 1990 "Jolly Joker" or the violas like Johnny Jump-up laugh at January's weather. Their velvety purple and orange faces contrast well with white surroundings. Who would think that these pansies are also heat tolerant. In contrast the blues of the "maxim" series is uplifting when viewed from a breakfast nook or kitchen window.

These cool weather lovers give a display even without dead heading. Container grown plants need fed with a dilute solution of fertilizer with each watering (about 1/4 strength of label directions).

These small charmers love cool conditions inside or out. Grown yearround, they prefer 40°F at night up to 60° during the day. Pansies grown indoors require cool soil to prevent stretching. Also provide good air movement.

For the outdoor display, plant them in front of the tulips or other spring blooming bulbs. Pansies prefer being a low sunny border, in half planters, window boxes or barrels.

Try some old fashioned pastel shades in pansies this year. The Ultimas Silhouette mix hybrid or Imperial Antique shades hybrids are both attractive with classy Victorian shades of violet, yellow, orange and burgundy.

For the naturalist among us, the field pansy is common throughout Pennsylvania. its spatula-shaped leaves and small flowers to 1/2 inch wide come in colors like bluish white to cream. Found in wild gardens and thin lawns, its a welcome sight to see as a harbinger of spring. Miniature flowering types like Johnny Jump-ups look great as well in rock gardens and edging.

Meatless Entrees

Perhaps you forgot to thaw some meat or maybe you're hungry for something light. Whatever the reason, here are some ideas for serving that occasional meatless meal.

Meatless entrees often get their protein from cheese, eggs, or both. In addition to providing protein, cheese and eggs offer a satisfying depth of flavor and texture to recipes.

SAUCY LINGUINE SCRAMBLE

6 eggs
 ¼ cup skim milk
 ¼ cup taco sauce
 ¼ cup grated parmesan cheese
 1 tablespoon chopped sun-dried tomatoes
 1 teaspoon basil leaves, crushed
 ¼ teaspoon pepper
 3 cups hot cooked linguine, drained
 2 small plum tomatoes, quartered and sliced
 1 small zucchini, quartered, sliced
 ¼ cup sliced, drained, pitted ripe olives

In medium bowl, beat together eggs, milk, taco sauce, cheese, sun-dried tomatoes, and seasonings until well blended.

In 10- to 12-inch omelet pan or skillet, stir together egg mixture and linguine. Cook over medium heat, tossing gently until eggs begin to thicken, about 10 minutes. Add fresh tomatoes, zucchini, and olives. Toss gently until eggs are thickened and no visible liquid egg remains, about 3 minutes.

Am. Egg Board

STACKED CHEESE ENCHILADA

14½-ounce can stewed tomatoes
 11 ounce can Mexican-style corn
 2 teaspoons chili powder
 ½ teaspoon ground cumin
 10 corn tortillas
 3 cups shredded Monterey Jack cheese

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In a medium bowl, combine stewed tomatoes, corn, chili powder, and cumin. In a 13x9-inch baking dish, place 2 corn tortillas side by side. Over each tortilla spoon about 2 tablespoons tomato mixture and about ¼ cup cheese. Repeat layering 4 more times, ending with cheese; cover loosely with foil. Bake until hot and bubbly, 25 to 30 minutes. Cut into wedges to serve. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

CREAMY BLUE CHEESE PASTA

1 pound spaghetti (uncooked)
 1 can ready-to-serve chicken broth
 ¼ cup butter
 ¼ cup crumbled blue cheese
 8 ounces fresh white mushrooms, sliced
 2 cups frozen peas
 7-ounces roasted red peppers, cut in strips
 ¼ cup minced green onions
 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 ½ teaspoon salt
 ¼ teaspoon black pepper
 ¼ cup grated parmesan cheese

Cook pasta according to package directions; drain. Place in a large serving bowl; cover to keep warm. Meanwhile, in a large skillet over medium heat, combine chicken broth, butter, and blue cheese. Cook, stirring frequently, until mixture thickens slightly and coats the back of a metal spoon, about 5 minutes. Add mushrooms, peas, red peppers, green onions, lemon juice, salt and black pepper; cook until vegetables are tender, about 5 minutes. Pour over reserved spaghetti; sprinkle with Parmesan cheese; toss to coat. Sprinkle with additional blue cheese, if desired.

Yield 4 servings.

FLORENTINE LASAGNA

¼ cup chopped onion
 2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
 2 26-ounce jars spaghetti sauce
 16-ounces ricotta cheese
 10-ounces frozen chopped spinach, thawed, well drained
 1 pound mozzarella cheese
 2 eggs

12 lasagna noodles, cooked
 In a large saucepan, saute onion and garlic in oil. Add sauce and simmer 15 minutes.

In a bowl, mix ricotta cheese, spinach, eggs, 1 cup mozzarella cheese and parmesan cheese.

In a 13x9x2-inch baking dish, place 1 cup sauce, layer 4 lasagna noodles, spread half the ricotta-spinach mixture, drizzle 1 cup sauce over mixture. Repeat procedure.

Top with 4 lasagna noodles, remaining sauce, 1 cup mozzarella cheese. Cover and bake 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Uncover, spread remaining cheese and bake 15 more minutes. Let stand 15 minutes before serving.

SWISS TOMATO BAKE

¼ cup butter, divided
 ½ teaspoon dry mustard
 ¼ teaspoon garlic powder
 1 pound loaf whole wheat bread, cubed
 2 cups shredded Swiss cheese
 15½-ounce jar chunky spaghetti sauce with mushrooms and green peppers
 10-ounces frozen, chopped broccoli, thawed
 ¼ cup all-purpose flour
 1½ cups skim milk
 3 eggs, beaten

Place 2 tablespoons butter in large microwavable bowl. Melt butter on high 40 to 50 seconds. Stir in mustard and garlic powder until well blended. Add bread cubes and toss until bread is coated with butter mixture; set aside. Reserve ½ cup Swiss cheese; wrap tightly in plastic wrap and refrigerate.

Layer one third of the bread cubes, one-third of the spaghetti sauce, one-third of the remaining cheese and one-third of the broccoli in buttered 2-quart rectangular baking dish. Repeat 2 more times; set aside.

Melt remaining 2 tablespoons butter in 1-quart microwavable bowl on high 40 seconds. Stir in flour until smooth. Blend in milk. Microwave on high 6 to 8 minutes, stirring every 2 minutes, until thickened. Stir in small amount of sauce into eggs. Return all to sauce mixture. Microwave on medium 30 seconds. Pour sauce over mixture in casserole.

Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate several hours or overnight.

Remove casserole from refrigerator about 1 hour before microwaving; let stand, covered, at room temperature. Microwave, uncovered, on medium 18 to 25 minutes or until set. Turn twice during cooking. Sprinkle reserved cheese over top. Microwave on high one minute. Let stand 3 minutes before serving.

THRIFTY COTTAGE CASSEROLE

6 eggs
 1 cup low-fat cottage cheese
 2 tablespoons instant minced onion
 ¼ teaspoon salt, optional
 ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
 10-ounces frozen spinach, cooked and pressed
 8-ounce package egg noodles, cooked and drained

In a large bowl, beat together eggs, cheese, onion, salt, if desired, and nutmeg until well blended. Gently stir in spinach and noodles.

Turn into greased 11x7x1½-inch baking dish. Cover with aluminum foil. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven until knife inserted near center comes out clean, about 35 to 45 minutes.

As more Americans seek to lower calories, cholesterol, sodium and fat intake, they have discovered that rice is one of the perfect foods to meet their needs. It is not only delicious, it is high in complex carbohydrates, which according to the USDA Food Guide Pyramid, should comprise at least 50 percent of the daily diet.

Because rice can be the foundation of many breakfast, lunch, and dinner recipes, it is easy to meet the Food Pyramid's recommendations.

Survey results rate rice excellent on taste, shelf life, ease or preparation, value, low fat, and ability to satisfy hunger.

Convenience and healthy eating are becoming increasingly important to Americans, so rice is the perfect food to meet the needs of today's consumers.

TOSSED RICE SALAD WITH BALSAMIC VINAIGRETTE

½ cup unsweetened orange juice
 3 tablespoons vegetable oil, divided
 2 tablespoons balsamic vinegar or red wine vinegar
 2 teaspoons honey
 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
 1 teaspoon Dijon mustard
 ¼ pound pork tenderloin
 3 cups cooked brown rice
 1 pint fresh strawberries, sliced
 1 cup seedless red or green grapes, halved Lettuce leaves

Combine orange juice, 2 tablespoons oil, vinegar, honey, orange peel, and mustard in large bowl. Cut pork into julienne strips. Add pork to marinade; stir to coat. Marinate in refrigerator 4 hours or overnight. Drain pork, reserving marinade. Transfer marinade to small saucepan; heat to boiling. Boil 1 minute; remove from heat. Heat remaining 1 tablespoon oil in large skillet over medium-high heat until hot. Cook pork, stirring, until no longer pink, about 5 to 7 minutes. Drain liquid. Remove from heat; cool.

Combine pork, rice strawberries, and grapes in large bowl. Pour marinade over salad; toss well. Serve immediately on lettuce leaves. Makes 6 servings.

Each serving provides 299 calories, 15 grams protein, 10 grams fat, 38 grams carbohydrate, 2 grams dietary fiber, 40 milligrams cholesterol and 250 milligrams sodium.

ANSWER — J.M. Koser, Narvon, wanted a recipe for Brown Bobby Cookies, which were popular about 50 years ago. The cookies were triangular with a triangle hole in the center. They were made in a special griddle like a waffle iron and frosted. Flavors included chocolate, vanilla, and spice. She would like both the recipe and information on the griddle. Thanks to Norma Jean Stermer, East Berlin, who sent a recipe, but little instruction for baking the cookies. Thanks to Arlene Martin, Canton, who writes that her sister-in-law makes them in round shapes.

Brown Bobbles

2 cups sugar
1 cup shortening
3 eggs
2 cups buttermilk
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
4 cups plus 2 tablespoons flour, sifted before measuring 5 teaspoons vanilla
Rub machine with wax paper before baking when hot.

ANSWER — Eileen Dove, Upper Tract, W.V., wanted a recipe for pink and white layered coconut cream candy. Thanks to Esther Wenger, Dayton, Va., for sending a recipe that her mother used. She writes that her mother always made three layers: white, pink, and chocolate.

Coconut Gelatin Candy

2 cups sugar
1 cup creamy milk
Cook sugar and milk mixture until it forms a firm ball (245-248 degrees)
1 1/4 tablespoons gelatin
2 tablespoons water
Soak together:
2 teaspoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup fresh coconut
Pour sugar mixture into bowl and add gelatin mixture. Add remaining ingredients. Beat until stiff and creamy. Pour into 8x12-inch greased pan.

For a second layer, make same as first layer but add red food coloring to make mixture pink.

For a third layer, make same as first layer but add 1 tablespoon cocoa to sugar mixture.

ANSWER — Clara Roberts, Gettysburg, wanted a recipe for what she thinks is called Colonial Pumpkin Pie. Thanks to Heather Hoffeditz, Mercersburg, for sending a recipe.

Colonial Pumpkin Pie

2 cups cooked pumpkin
2 cups milk
3 eggs
1/4 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup molasses, unsulphured
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1/4 teaspoon ginger
Beat the eggs well and add the remaining ingredients. Makes one pie. Bake in a 400 degree oven for 50-55 minutes.
Pie Crust:
1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
4 tablespoons water

ANSWER — Thanks to a Ruth Ann Rabold, Newtown, for sending a recipe for white potato pie requested by Sarah Clark, Breezewood.

Mashed Potato Pie

3 cups mashed white potatoes
1 1/4 cups sugar
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
3 large eggs, separated
1 unbaked pie shell
Add sugar and egg yolks to mashed potatoes and mix thoroughly. Add vanilla, nutmeg, and milk. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Spoon mixture into unbaked pie shell.
Bake at 425 degrees for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 30 minutes longer.

THREE CHEESE SOUP

1/2 cup finely chopped carrot
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
3 cups chicken broth
1 can evaporated milk
1 1/2 cups shredded sharp cheddar cheese

1 1/2 cups shredded Monterey Jack cheese

1 cup blue cheese, crumbled
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

Chopped chives (optional)
Thinly sliced French bread, toasted, buttered (optional)

In a large saucepan over medium heat, cook carrot, celery, and onion in butter until tender, about 5 to 7 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in flour. Cook, stirring constantly, until smooth and thickened, about 2 minutes. Gradually stir in broth and milk. Cook and stir over medium heat until slightly thickened. Reduce heat to low. Stir in cheeses. Cook, stirring constantly, until cheeses have melted and soup is smooth. Stir in pepper. To serve, ladle into bowls. Top with chives and bread, if desired.

VEGETARIAN LASAGNE

12 lasagne noodles
6 cups meatless spaghetti sauce
1 medium carrot, grated
1/4 teaspoon fennel seeds
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 large onion, coarsely chopped
12 ounces mushrooms, trimmed and sliced thin
2 medium zucchini, trimmed and sliced thin
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon rosemary, dried and crumbled
1 teaspoon oregano, dried and crumbled
3 cloves garlic, minced
1 pound ricotta cheese
1/2 cup grated parmesan cheese
1 egg
3 cups mozzarella cheese, shredded

Cook the noodles according to package directions. Drain in colander and rinse with cold water to stop cooking. Set aside.

Place sauce in a saucepan. Add the fennel seeds and simmer 10 minutes. Set aside.

Heat oil in skillet over moderate heat. Add onion and carrot and saute until onions are soft, about 5 minutes.

Add mushrooms, zucchini, salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper. Increase heat to medium high, stirring occasionally until zucchini is crispy tender, about 10 minutes.

Add oregano, rosemary, and garlic. Continue to cook for additional one minute.

In a medium sized bowl, combine 1/4 cup parmesan, egg, 1 teaspoon pepper, and ricotta cheese. Preheat oven to 375 degrees.

In a 13x9x2-inch baking dish, place 1/4 cup sauce. Place 4 lasagne noodles over sauce, then half ricotta cheese mixture, 1/4 cup mozzarella cheese, half vegetable mixture, 1 1/2 cups sauce.

Repeat procedure.

Top with 4 lasagne noodles, 2 1/2 cups sauce, 1 1/2 cups mozzarella, and sprinkle the remaining parmesan cheese over all.

Place on baking sheet and bake covered for 15 minutes. Uncover and bake 20 to 25 minutes until heated through and bubbly.

Let stand 15 minutes. Cut into 12 serving portions.

Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation Teams With National Wild Turkey Federation On Habitat Project

ELK AND CAMERON COUNTIES—The National Wild Turkey Federation (NWTf) has teamed up with the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation (RMEF) to help improve Pennsylvania's elk country.

Each year, thousands of visitors come to north-central Pennsylvania for the thrill of watching the state's elk herd, now numbering about 250. But among local farmers, the elk haven't always been so popular. When the elk don't find all the forage they need on state forest lands, they can't resist the temptation to fill up in the farmer's fields.

To provide more public lands habitat and keep the elk out of private croplands, the Pennsylvania Game Commission (PGC) has conducted a number of habitat enhancements over the last few years. In Cameron and Elk counties, the RMEF and NWTf's Pennsylvania State Chapter funded a PGC project that involved liming, fertilizing, disking, seeding and mowing a total of 155 acres in four different areas.

The openings and new, nutritious forage created by the project will draw elk away from private lands, encouraging them to expand into public ground in the southern portion of their range. Several other wildlife species also stand to benefit.

"(The project) is going to be beneficial to a wide variety of wildlife—turkeys, elk and many others," said Tim Holtz, president of NWTf's Pennsylvania State and for the scripture from the 12th chapter of Ecclesiastes. For the Roll Call each member told who their secret pal was and what they got for Christmas.

The president, Marie Foose, presided at the business meeting. The Sunshine Committee reported

2 cards sent during the month. Freda Wimer, chairperson of the Sewing Committee asked that the members come to Mt. Eden Lutheran Church on January 17 to put together the bed pads which will be sewed at the next meeting which will be at Union Presbyterian Church with Jane and Valeria Ferguson as hostesses. It is an all-day meeting and each person is to bring a covered dish. The meeting closed by singing "Brighten the Corner."

Snow and more snow! I'll bet everyone has his own special story to tell about his experience with the blizzard of '96.

We were lucky as our road was kept open but our driveway was another story. As our son on the farm has a scoop on his tractor, he was able to open it for us although my husband did a lot of shoveling around the mailbox.

My Christmas gifts could be classified into useful and decorative. I really needed the very nice sauce pans that a daughter gave me. A box of greeting cards is used up in a hurry while dried flowers last a long time. When I'm given a framed picture, I walk around in the rooms hunting a spot to put it.

The other week I was in a big store in York to exchange three blouses and was surprised to see that many other people also were exchanging gifts. Stores have become so very large that one can walk and walk to find the department that is needed.

During the snowy weather, I had time to sit down and enjoy a book of pictures of Pennsylvania. They are large, colored photographs of not only scenes but people too. Among my practical gifts were an apron, a wooden spoon, hand lotion, and a handmade casserole carrier.

Our son in Virginia really outdid himself this year. He gave enough snack foods to last us until April or May. There are cheeses, meats, crackers, candies, three kinds of nuts and a fruitcake. It is good that the pork meat that we got recently did not fill our freezers, so we can store more food.

We Can't Keep It Quiet Any Longer

INTRODUCING:

The Big Dutchman UniGROW360 Broiler Feeding System. After years of broiler pan evolution, it's time for a revolution.

Now, you can quickly and easily adjust the feed level as often as you like.

This special winch enables simultaneous feed level adjustment of a line of UniGROW360 pans with a simple turn of the crank. Unlike other systems, it is not dependent upon level floors.

Everyone also knows manually adjusting hundreds of pans every couple of days is unrealistic. The income you would gain in feed efficiency would be lost several times over in labor costs. That's why the UniGROW360 system is so revolutionary.

What's Fun, What's Not In Showmanship

ANDY ANDREWS

Lancaster Farming Staff
HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)

— Ann Leed wants others to realize that when they see her in the show ring, if she isn't smiling, that doesn't mean she's not having fun.

She is. It's just that "we're out there having fun, but are too serious to smile," said Leed, after placing the championship ribbon on top of her Dorset spring ewe lamb after the showmanship classes at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Youth from around the state experience the same joys in the show ring at the Farm Show. They enjoy the applause. They answer questions while in the ring — and that gets pretty challenging, too.

It can get pretty frustrating, because exhibitors sometimes have trouble concentrating on what to do in the ring, said Matt Trostle, 17. Matt won senior champion of the show at the recent lamb youth showmanship contest.

It can be fun to answer people's "ditzy" questions, according to Matt. One doozer: somebody stopped Matt while showing and, pointing to his sheep, asked him, "Is that a goat or a sheep?"

Matt, son of Ronald and Yvonne Trostle, Red Lion, said, "I stopped answering them."

Matt has shown at various county and state fairs. He likes the competition.

At the farm show, he said it often gets hot out in the show ring. But he enjoys seeing how he can use his show ring skills to best his peers.

Billy Leib, who has shown many champions in the ring, said it's hard when you "never know what the sheep are going to do" in the ring, he said. "It's tough when they go nuts, it just rips you apart," and bringing the unruly sheep under control can be tough.

Billy, 15, son of Bob and Suzie Leib, Mechanicsburg, said his favorite show was the North American International Livestock Exposition (NAILE) in Louisville, Ky.

Ann Leed knows it can be tense in the ring, "but you do the best you can." She said that moving the animal around the ring can get to be "torture" at times, but to accept the challenge and to win is fun.

Ann, 13, daughter of Bob and Nancy Leed, Myerstown, said she knows it is important to realize when the animal is ready to be moved and to do it confidently.

Why do dogs bury bones?

They're saving the leftovers!

Although dogs have been bred to be your best friend, they still do some of the things that their wolf relatives learned in the wild — like bury bones. Scientists call that instinct.

Wolves eat a lot of food at once because it might be a long time before they can find more. If the wolves have any food left, they bury it to eat later. (Wolves can't just go to the fridge for leftovers when they're hungry!)

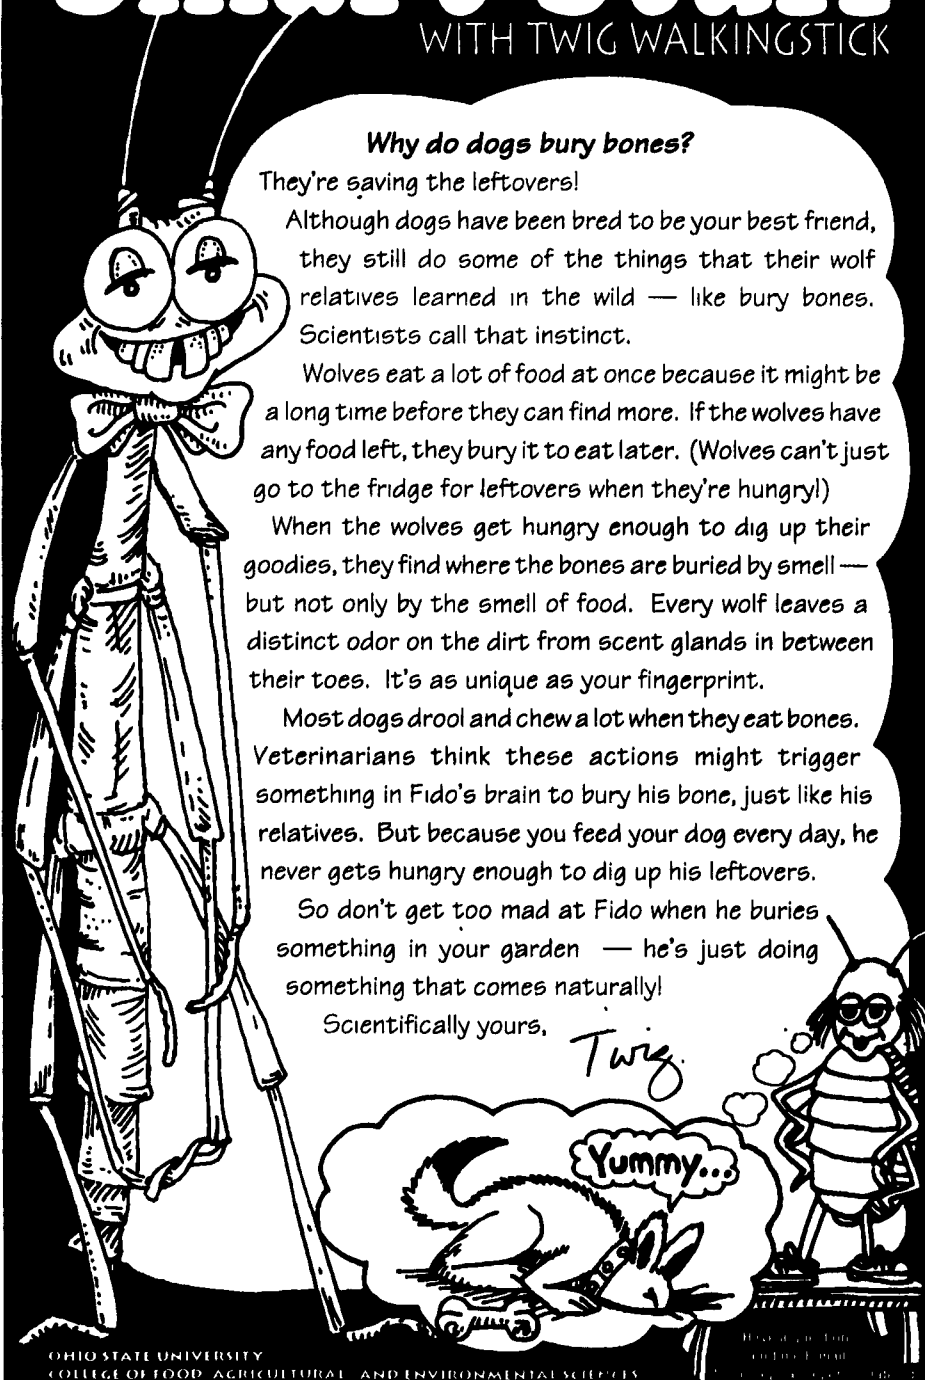

When the wolves get hungry enough to dig up their goodies, they find where the bones are buried by smell — but not only by the smell of food. Every wolf leaves a distinct odor on the dirt from scent glands in between their toes. It's as unique as your fingerprint.

Most dogs drool and chew a lot when they eat bones. Veterinarians think these actions might trigger something in Fido's brain to bury his bone, just like his relatives. But because you feed your dog every day, he never gets hungry enough to dig up his leftovers.

So don't get too mad at Fido when he buries something in your garden — he's just doing something that comes naturally!

Scientifically yours,

Twig

For Snook, Standability's Most Important Factor

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent
JERSEY SHORE (Lycoming Co.) — Some people say it's the rich river bottom soils that allow Ed Snook to take home the first-place ribbon in the Pennsylvania Corn Club's annual production contest. But according to the long-time corn grower and hog farmer, there are many factors that contribute to bumper corn crops.

"In the Five Acre Corn Club, I don't enter the same fields every year. I've had them in the Nippenose Valley on limestone ground and along the river. It's always pushed up to me that I have pig manure and river field, but we've had the Five Year Corn Club in seven or eight locations and we've won awards on all of them," he said.

In this year's contest, Snook placed first in the three-year average shelled grain class for the regular harvest size. His yield in 1992 was 191.8 bushels per acre. In 1993 he produced 201.6 bushels per acre and in 1994 he produced 194.1 bushels per acre for an average

Know Farm's 'Microenvironment,' Says Corn Grower President

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff
MONTOURSVILLE (Lycoming Co.) — "You have to know the micro-environment of every place you farm in order to be able to make an intelligent choice in seed corn selection," said Curt Rakestraw, newly elected president of the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association, Inc.

During an interview early last month with Lancaster Farming, Rakestraw toured several of the 31 different farm sites he rents in the farm valley north of North White Deer Ridge. At one Penn State research test plot (one of several early to medium season plots statewide) on land leased from Joe Youman's Farm in Fairfield Township, Rakestraw spoke about some of the important factors growers should consider when picking a variety.

Rakestraw farms about 1,100 acres of crops (700 acres in corn, 150 acres in small grain, and 150 acres in hay) with his brother Dave. Curt said that a farmer must know the qualities of the soil and the environment as a whole.

"We have some clay and rock," he said. "They say this is where the glaciers did their most damage. The edge of the glacier was right here. So we get a little bit of everything around here."

Rakestraw said a lot of the land he rents to grow corn has a lot of different varieties of soil, ranging from a Hagerstown silt loam to shaley loam to red clay. At one farm near the Lycoming Mall, he said "we were told there were 17 different soil types in three of the strips," he said. "And I believe it. When you plow it, it just changes every hundred feet or so."

As a black walnut farmer, Chenoweth knows the proper care and harvesting necessary to raise top quality trees.

Black Walnut Farmer Writes A Book

LOU ANN GOOD

Lancaster Farming Staff
WAYNE (Delaware Co.) —
Bob Chenoweth is a black walnut farmer.

His advice is simple: "We can't all be farmers of corn, soybeans, and wheat, but we can all grow a few trees on a few acres of land. And we should."

Chenoweth wrote the book "Black Walnut," published by Sagamore Publishing Inc., to encourage people to plant black walnut trees and to educate and motivate woodland owners to better woodland management.

Chenoweth lives in Wayne near Philadelphia, but his interest in black walnuts is rooted in growing up on an Illinois farm with acres of black walnuts.

In 1989, he planted 14,000 walnut seedlings on his farmland. In his search to learn all he could about black walnut trees, Chenoweth could find no book written on the species except for some federal and state forestry organizations, "which have addressed these issues for years in a rather dull manner without much success," Chenoweth said.

Chenoweth lures readers with tales of exorbitant prices paid for black walnut trees. He tells of a log measuring 3x60-feet that sold for $30,000.

But those prices are seldom attained because the trees are not nurtured. Chenoweth inherited 60 acres of his family's farm near Danville, Ill. He sold 33 walnut trees for $112,000, much less than if they had been properly cared for, according to Chenoweth.

Of preservationists who think trees should be preserved indefinitely, Chenoweth said, "It's impossible to preserve a species simply by trying to keep its oldest members alive. If you don't have a walnut tree when it's mature, it will die and rot."

The book's readable format includes excerpts from poems and writings proclaiming the beauty of a tree and the satisfaction derived from tree farming. Walnut recipes, lore, and history associated with walnut trees are included in the book. He scientifically explains why squirrels are able to detect buried walnuts.

Eight pages of color photographs and numerous black and white photos are interspersed throughout.

The minimal time it takes to grow a walnut log is 40 years.

Chenoweth laments that most people wait until they are past 50 years of age to plant a tree.

"After one passes his 50th birthday, he perceives that 50 years has passed so quickly it seems like it took only a moment. Two hours is such a short time it hardly allows for a good nap. He then notes that trees that were small when he was small are now grown or gone. He realizes that if he had planted a tree 30 years ago, it would be a large and nearly mature tree now. How did he fail to understand that?"

Chenoweth admits that black walnut trees are often unpopular because they stain driveways and falling nuts can damage cars and people's heads. The leaves, roots, and nut husks of the walnut tree contain a substance called juglone, which is toxic to some neighboring plants. Tomatoes are particularly sensitive to black walnut trees. Apple trees, asparagus, chrysanthemums, honeysuckle, peonies, potatoes, rhododendrons, and roses often suffer from proximity as well.

However, daylily, hollyhock, bellflowers, bee balm, weeping forsythia, virginia creeper, begonias, marigolds, and pansies are reported to be resistant to juglone.

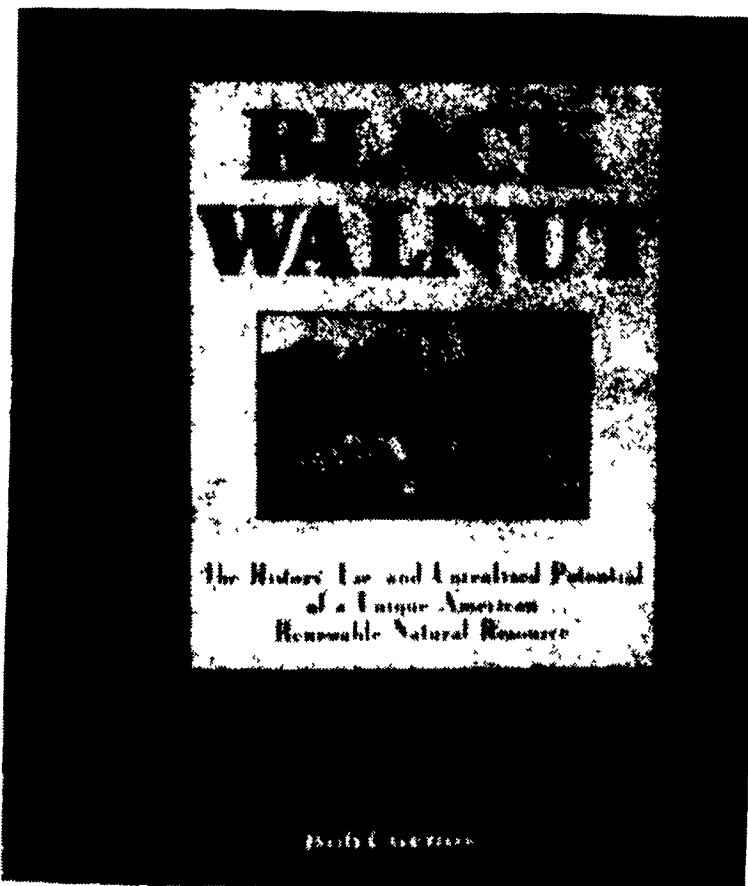

Bluegrass does well under walnut trees and cattle gain weight faster grazing on walnut bluegrass. Blackberries and raspberries are said to flourish under walnut trees.

Fishermen and children may be delighted to discover that sun tea made from walnut leaves, twigs, or walnut nut husks and poured into the soil where there are earthworms causes an immediate earthworm fire drill.

Lining a dog's bed with walnut leaves will repel ticks and fleas. But don't bed your horse with black walnut wood shavings because it may cause lameness.

Chenoweth has used his knowledge from attaining a degree in agriculture from Purdue University and an MBA from Harvard Business School with that of a forester to write an entertaining and factual book for those who want to grow black walnuts and for those who merely enjoy expanding their knowledge.

For a copy of the 334-page hardcover book, "Black Walnut," send a check or money order for $28.95 plus $3.75 for first book and 70 cents for each additional book to Sagamore Publishing Inc., 302 W. Hill Street, P.O. Box 647, Champaign, IL 61824-0647.

In his book, "Black Walnut," Chenoweth examines the history of walnut harvest, the wood, veneer, nuts, and ideas on improving the tree species by selection and grafting.

Braiding By Weaver

LOU ANN GOOD

Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Tall timbers and mounds of snow surround the brick story and a half home nestled in the hills of Mt. Gretna. Inside Velma Weaver admires the birds that flock to the outdoor feeders while her fingers deftly weave strips of richly hued wool into braided works of art.

"I could stay home for ever and ever and be perfectly content," Velma said.

Content, that is, as long as she has wool, scissors, a lacer, and a braid holder.

So engrossed in braiding new projects, Velma is known to wait to slip under the bed covers at 5 a.m.

Lack of sleep is barely noticed when Velma's creative juices are flowing in creating a new project.

Most of Velma's neatly braided rugs easily fit into colonial American decor, but don't let that fool you.

"I can do in one week what it took a month for them (colonists) to do," Velma said.

Colonists used scraps of wool which they cut into strips, folded in the edges and handstitched to hide the edges and form tubes for braiding.

Velma tears wool strips and uses Braid Aids, which are metal clips that slip over the wool strips and fold the edges of the wool together so that it can be neatly braided without any raw edges showing.

Velma's husband Bill devised and built a clamp that securely holds the wool strips and can easily be carried from room to room. Colonists tucked the edges of the braids in between a closed drawer or secured the pieces with an iron placed on a tabletop to keep the cloth secure while braiding.

"Braiding wool rugs began in New England at the turn of the century," Velma said.

The area was known for its woolen mills and wool scraps were readily available in addition to used clothing. Braided rugs are again popular in home decor, but many resort to factory-made rugs that lack the quality and beauty of the homemade ones.

In addition to being more attractive, homemade rugs can be made in the exact color, style, and shape desired.

It doesn't require a rug connoisseur to recognize that Velma's rugs are quality works of art. The firmly braided rugs have no raw ends, tweaks, or bumpy spots on either side. The lacing thread used to join the braids is not visible from either side and it is so tightly bound that the braids do not stretch apart. Color changes can barely be found even when searching for the changes.

"That's because fabric is spliced and the edges are butted," Velma explained of the color pattern that is created in such a way to conceal tapering and ending of rows.

Velma claims that beginners who learn proper techniques can braid almost as neatly as she does within three weeks of diligent working. Many of Velma's students have taken top prizes for their rugs in local and state competitions.

Velma helps students select fabrics to coordinate or match draperies and wallpaper. Using her formulas designs can be determined to perfectly fit a spot where a rug is needed.

Velma's interest in rug braiding began as a child.

"My mother was frugal and my sisters and I learned to do all the fabric crafts."

Even as a child, Velma's work excelled.

"My embroidery stitches were perfect. I have a reputation that either it is done right or it doesn't get done," Velma said of her perfectionist's tendencies. She also developed an eye for color, which is important when combining colors in rug making.

After reading every book on rug braiding that she could find, Velma studied under Verna Cox from Maine.

"She is the top rug braider in the nation. I liked her methods best. She has fine tuned rug braiding," Velma said.

In this method, the braids are laced together while braiding.

Velma began an earnest quest in rug braiding when she retired from Fulton Bank where she was head teller.

"During all those years of working, I always bought the best quality suits intending to someday use the wool for rug braiding," Velma said.

Although Velma considers that she is still frugal — she sews most of her own clothing — she still has not cut up one of those suits to use in rug braiding.

"I prefer to purchase fabric and use long pieces rather than butting short pieces together," Velma said. She always tears the wool for ease and perfectly straight edges.

Finding wool is becoming more and more difficult. Velma and her husband combine their travel across the U.S. with stops at woolen mills along the way in search of wool.

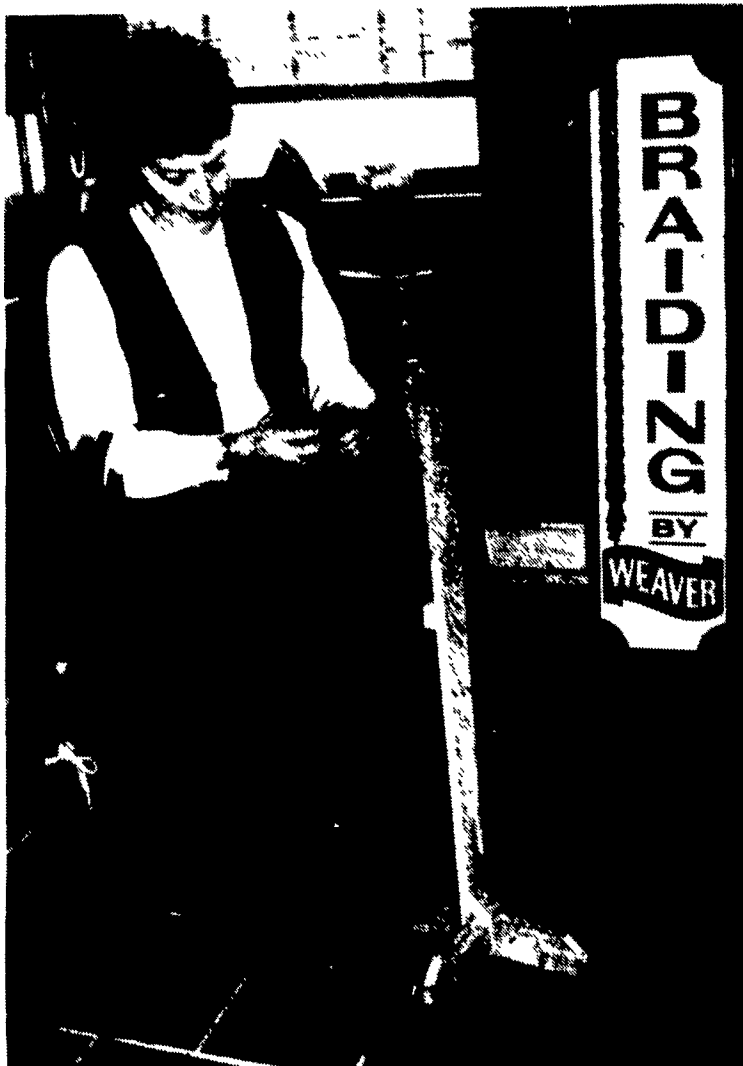

"Getting good wool at affordable prices discourages most rug braiders so whenever I find some I buy in quantity," Velma said.

She has a whole basement room lined with shelves of fabric arranged in color hues. Wool is sold by the pound. It takes about six pounds of wool to braid a 3x5-foot rug.

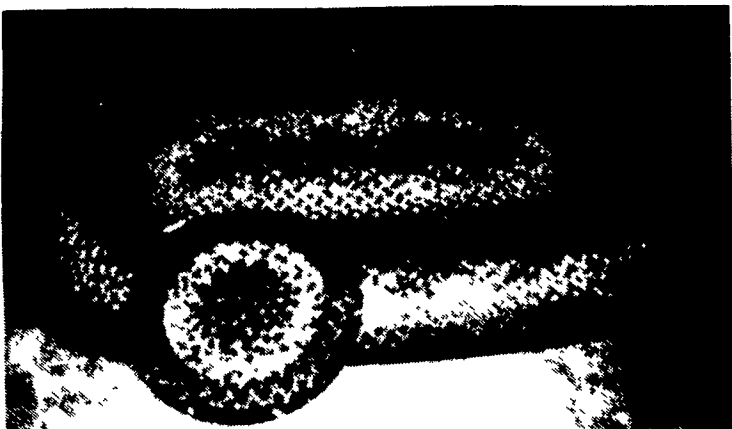

"If I use it, I sell it. If I don't have it, you don't need it," Velma tells those in search of rug braiding supplies.

Velma calls herself a "heritage resource," a title she was dubbed by museums where she is often asked to demonstrate rug braiding.

In these demonstrations, Velma shows "the old way and the new way" of rug braiding.

Rug braiding is much easier when using the rug clamp that Velma's husband devised and the braid aids that fold the wool strips so that all raw edges are hidden. Velma teaches rug braiding, color changing, lacing, tapering, and butting in the rug classes that she offers in her home. She also sells wool and supplies used in rug braiding.

Velma admits that she is fanatical about details. It shows up in her finished projects. This braided rug and chair cover match perfectly in color and design. No bumps, lumps, raw edges or loose loops are found on either side of her projects.

A whole room in the Weavers' home is reserved for wool fabric that the Weavers find in their travels around the U.S. Velma can't resist using some of the fabric for clothing such as the skirt she is wearing.

In addition to teaching and demonstrating at Landis Valley Museum, Elizabethtown's Heritage House, and numerous historical events, Velma has judged and lectured at New England competitions.

"My biggest concern is that rug braiding is becoming a lost art," Velma said.

Dedicated to passing on the pleasure of creating braided rugs, Velma holds classes in her home. (Turn to Page B15)

Velma designed this rug to perfectly complement the draperies and upholstery in the new camper that she and her husband purchased recently for traveling.

Limas Pack Big Nutrition

NEWARK, Del. — If you're looking for a nutritious food, check out lima beans. A 1/2 cup contains 85 to 95 calories. Fordhooks are at the light end, calorically speaking; the baby limas are just a tad heavier. Baby limas offer 5 milligrams of vitamin C, Fordhooks have 11 milligrams, or between 6 and 17 percent of the recommended daily allowance of vitamin C for adults. Lima beans also contain more than 10 percent of the RDA for iron and offer significant fiber. Overall, limas are a nutritious package when eaten as part of a balanced diet.

Although lima beans are a good food choice, Dr. Sue Snider, cooperative Extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware, says that they've never become a favorite, or even a regularly eaten, vegetable in this country. Only one pound per person is consumed in the United States.

"Many people eat limas in combination with other vegetables," says Snider. "In fact, it is often served with corn as succotash."

Southwestern Succotash
1 pound frozen corn, thawed

2 10-ounce packages frozen lima beans, thawed
1/4 cup chicken broth
1 cup hulled, roasted and salted sunflower seeds
1 7-ounce can diced green chilis
1/2 cup chopped prepared roasted red peppers Fresh Italian parsley sprigs salt and pepper
Cook corn, lima beans and broth in a nonstick skillet over medium-high heat for about 10 minutes, or until most liquid has evaporated. Stir in sunflower seeds, green chilis and red peppers. Spoon onto serving platter. Garnish with parsley; add salt and pepper to taste. Serves eight.

Per serving: 244 cal., 32 percent (78 cal.) from fat; 11 g protein; 8.7 g fat (0.9 g sat.); 35 g carbo.; 212 mg sodium; 0 mg chol.

Six lessons each three hours long where students learn all the braiding techniques by braiding a 2x3-foot oval rug.

She is delighted that she now has competition when she enters her work in fairs and exhibits because some of her students are entering.

"But competition is still low. I'm dismayed to see how few are entered at the Pennsylvania Farm Show," Velma said.

She believes that entries are down because several trips are required to enter and pick up projects at the Farm Show. "At one time, extension agents transported the projects, but they don't do that any more," she said.

Velma rejects the excuse that people have no time for rug braiding. Mothers with children can easily braid while talking with their children. She believes rug braiding encourages mothers to spend time talking with their children.

She said, "You can do it while watching television or take it along while traveling."

The Weavers have a camper that they use and Velma likes nothing better than to sit in her camper and braid while watching wildlife. Her favorite spot is Alaska where she watched moose while braiding. Now the Weavers are planning a trip West in search of bears and elk.

Brillion introduces their new Compaction Commander.. designed to break up hardpan and compaction as deep as 20". The standard V-shaped alloy point and wear strip leaves residue on the surface with minimal soil disturbance. Auto-rest shanks with 20" of trip height allows for non-stop tillage. Parabolic shanks lift and fracture the soil. 39" of underframe clearance assures trouble free operation even in heavy residue.

BRILLION THREE SHANK DEEP TILL has a Category II hitch. With a cutting width of 7'6", it is ideal for operators with smaller acreages and horsepower. It is extremely maneuverable, yet provides the same basic deep tilling job as its "big brother." Available with coulters.

How Much Copper Is Enough?

COLUMBUS, Ohio—A mushroom a day may be just the thing to keep the doctor away, according to Denis Medeiros, professor of human nutrition at Ohio State University.

Mushrooms and other foods such as liver, shellfish, nuts, whole grains, and even chocolate are good sources of dietary copper, a mineral that is needed to maintain a healthy heart, Medeiros said.

Medeiros, who is also dean for research in the College of Human Ecology, is among a group of scientists whose research will be considered as a case for establishing a Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA) for copper to the Food and Nutrition Board.

Medeiros and three colleagues recently conducted a study into the effects of consuming less than one gram of copper a day. The study was published in September in the Proceedings of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine.

Contributing to the study were Robert E.C. Wildman, a recent Ohio State human nutrition doctoral graduate and now assistant professor of human nutrition at Ohio University, Athens; Mark L. Failla, professor of human nutrition at the University of North Carolina, Greensboro; and Robin Hopkins, Failla's graduate assistant.

Consuming very little or no copper is considered a deficiency. But consuming between 0.4 and 0.8 grams per day is considered a "sub-optimal" level by much of the available data. It was this level of copper consumption that the study simulated in a rat study, Medeiros said.

The researchers found that when they fed laboratory rats a diet this low in copper, fat deposits formed in the heart.

The research was conducted over a six-month period. The rats showed heart damage at just three months, Medeiros said.

"Although copper is required in the body, right now there is no

RDA for it because when the last RDAs were written there was a lack of evidence about how much copper the body needs," Medeiros said.

Copper levels are difficult to test for in the body. A simple urine test doesn't do the trick, and a blood test indicates only when copper levels are extremely low.

Heart damage can occur earlier than that. And while the liver is the best place to test for copper, there's no easy way to get at the liver to conduct such a test, Medeiros said.

This new proposed RDA for copper may be added when the next version of the recommendations are released in about three years, Medeiros said.

In the meantime, Medeiros suggests that people consume foods rich in copper, such as nuts, whole grains, liver, and mushrooms. However, just because a little copper is good doesn't mean a lot of copper is better, Medeiros said. Consuming more than 10 to 15 grams a day can be toxic.

Medeiros has been studying copper's effects on the heart for 14 years. In previous work, he linked extremely low levels of copper with aneurysms, heart enlargement, raised cholesterol levels, and impeded blood flow.

He is also now conducting a study on copper's effects on the electrical functions of the heart and is taking part in a study of human heart tissue donated by Ohio State University Medical Center, Riverside and other hospitals.

Even with this expertise, Medeiros can only guess about why a lack of copper can have such severe effects on the heart. He thinks that it may be caused by copper's link with cytochrome C oxidase, a copper-containing enzyme needed to produce energy for the body.

The heart contains the highest level of this enzyme of any organ in the body and that may be the reason copper affects the heart, Medeiros said.

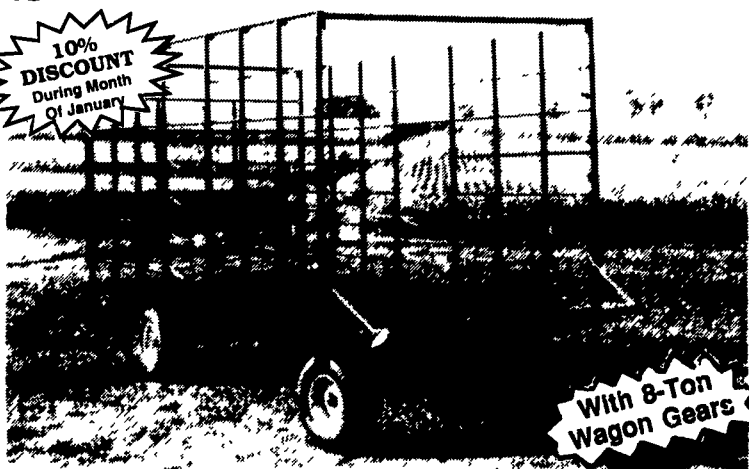

However, cytochrome C oxidase is also used in other organs, which means that low levels of copper in the diet may affect skeletal muscles, the brain, and other important organs, Medeiros said.

Copper is most important for people who are growing, so this research has the highest implications for infants, small children, teens, and pregnant mothers, Medeiros said.

However, it must be added as a part of everyone's daily diet to help prevent heart disease. For this reason it will likely be added to the national RDA.

Medeiros stressed that copper is not the most important factor in heart disease. Genetic tendencies, cholesterol levels, and dietary fat intake have significant impacts on a heart's health, he said.

ANSWER — Sarah Clark, Breezewood, wanted a banana drop cookie. Thanks to Nancy Allman, Derry; Ruth Ann Rabold, Newmanstown, and others for sending recipes.

Banana Oats Cookies

¾ cup butter, softened
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1½ cups all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 cup mashed ripe banana
2 cups quick oats
1 cup chocolate chips, optional
½ cup walnuts, chopped, optional
Cream butter and sugar. Add egg and mix well. Mix together dry ingredients and add alternately with mashed banana. Stir in oats, chocolate chips, and nuts. Drop by tablespoonful on a lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes.

Banana Drop Cookie

2¼ cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup mashed banana
¼ teaspoon baking soda
½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon lemon extract
1 cup nuts, optional
Sift all dry ingredients. Cream shortening and sugar. Add eggs and flavorings. Mix with dry ingredients and bananas. Add nuts if desired. Drop by teaspoonful onto a greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 14 minutes.

ANSWER — Donna Beyerbach of Oakdale wanted a recipe for buckeyes. Thanks to Mrs. Preston Gantz, Glenville; Bev Martin, Stevens; Glenna Eisentrout, Bruceton Mills, W.V.; Lisa Sparr, Upper Falls, Md.; M. Martin, Lebanon, and others for sending recipes. Several of these recipes listed paraffin wax as an ingredient. Paraffin wax is a petroleum product and is not FDA approved for consumption. Confectionery coating only needs to be melted and used and should be used instead of chocolate combined with paraffin. Confectionery coating may be purchased from a cake and candy supply store such as Cake and Kandy Emporium located at 28 Miller Rd., East Petersburg, Pa. or call (717) 569-5728.

Buckeyes

¼ pound soft butter
3½ cups confectioners' sugar
2 cups crunchy peanut butter
3 cups rice crispy cereal
12 ounces chocolate confectionery coating
Mix sugar, butter, and peanut butter. Add rice crispy cereal and form into 1-inch balls. Melt coating in double boiler and dip balls into mixture. Put on waxed paper until chocolate sets.

Buckeyes

7 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1¼ cups butter, softened
18-ounces crunchy peanut butter
3 cups semisweet chocolate morsels
1½ tablespoons shortening
Add half of first 3 ingredients to food processor and process until thoroughly blended. Shape mixture into 1-inch balls; cover and chill. Repeat procedure with remaining confectioners' sugar, butter, and peanut butter.
Combine chocolate morsels and shortening in top of a double boiler; bring water to a boil. Reduce heat to low; cook until chocolate melts. Dip each ball in chocolate, coating ¾ of ball; place on wax paper, and let stand until chocolate hardens. Store in an airtight container in refrigerator. Yields 7½ dozen.

Y ask YOU

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know whom to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details.

ANSWER — Salome Fisher, 151 Buckwalter Rd., Lancaster, PA 17602, wants the story of "The Night the Animals Talked," and "The Legend of the Star" written about the star found inside an apple when it is cut crosswise. She also wants the words to a song that includes the lines "Will children be grownups in heaven? I'm told there won't be any tears. Will she go to the bathroom to see if I'm washing my ears. . . ."

For those who are interested, Salome will send copies of the following to whoever sends her a self-addressed stamped envelope: "Why Christmas Trees Are Not Perfect," "The Monkey's Viewpoint," and "The Nut That Walked."

QUESTION — Esther Nolt, Newmanstown, would like to know where she can buy a set of Jungle Doctor books written by Paul White. She enjoyed these books as a child and would like to get them for her children.

QUESTION — Dale Leighow, R.R.3, Box 368, Catawissa, would like to locate some seed from a corn called 8-row yellow or possibly Flint corn. It is a small diameter cob about 8-10-inches long. Also the cob is white and every ear has eight rows of kernels. The kernel is about the size of an average person's fingernail on the ring finger and is dark yellow in color. It was used many years ago to grind into cornmeal. Dale would like 20 to 25 kernels to plant in 1996.

QUESTION — A Turbotville reader would like to know where to find literature or an owner's manual on a US Slicing Machine Co., Van Berkel's original hand crank meat slicer that was made in 1912 in La Porte, Ind.

QUESTION — Glenda Strouse, Northumberland, would like to know the title and author of an excerpt from the following poem. The complete poem appeared in the 12/9 issue, but we need to condense for space. It's her grandmother's favorite poem and she could recite every word until a stroke took her voice. She is 89 and in a nursing home, but Glenda reads this poem to her every Christmas. Glenda said that there may be parts missing or wrong since she wrote it from memory.

*The yule log blazed in the ancient hold.
The beggar shrank from the biting cold.
The baron's only daughter, the little Lady Grace was better dressed than any guest and fairer in the face.
Yet never a thought of pride had she as she gaily danced round the Christmas tree. . . .*

QUESTION — Mrs. David Fisher, 1068 Back Maitland Rd., Lewistown, PA 17044, is looking for "Engine Whistles," the fifth reader from the Alice and Jerry series by Row, Peterson, and Co.

QUESTION — Al Freysz, Middletown, Md., would like to know where to obtain parts for a Bonanza apple parer.

QUESTION — Bill Sherwood, Beavertown, is looking for two items. One is a kid's wagon made by Sherwood Company with the name Sherwood printed on the side. The other is a goat wagon. Both should be older models that are in good shape and priced reasonably.

QUESTION — Sandra Laughman, Hardin, Mo., wrote that she read about a woman who creates pickled fabrics. Sandra would like information on the procedure and ingredients to use.

QUESTION — Lisa Sparr, Upper Falls, Md., would like to know how to get the grates on a gas grill clean.

QUESTION — Lena Hoover, Shippensburg, would like to order wigs through the mail. She uses the wigs for doll's hair. The wigs should be inexpensive but good quality.

ANSWER — Patricia Varchol, Reinholds, wanted the address for DAK Industries. A reader wrote that she understands the DAK bread machine company is now owned by Welbilt. The address for their parts and service department is 25 Rose Place, Garden City, NY 11040 (516) 747-9595.

ANSWER — John Kreider, New Holland, wanted to know where Sunnyside Farm of Flicksville is located. Thanks to Moses Renno, Mifflintown, and Joyce Newcomer, Glen Rock, who wrote that there is a Flicksville in Washington Township of Northampton County, south of Bangor.

Special thanks to Charles Janes, who has first-hand knowledge of the dairy. When he was in high school in 1945-46, Charles helped deliver milk from the dairy and bottle and cap the bottles on weekends. The milk plant no longer exists, but the farm and dairy had been owned and operated by Flory Tolvio and son Carl. It was located one mile east of Route 191 from Ackermanville and about 12 miles north of Easton, and one mile south of Bangor.

Carl's one son farms the land, and they have a fuel oil business located on the grounds.

ANSWER — Edward Clar, 363 Swedesford Rd., Frazer, PA 19355-1603, wanted a book about terrier dogs. Thanks to a reader who wrote that books about raising dogs, goats, oxen, and other small animals may be ordered from the Yarn Farm Books, Rt. 103, Box 333, Cuttingsville, VT 05738. Phone (802) 492-3382.

ANSWER — Joan Francisco, Stroudsburg, wanted to know where to purchase oil of cassia, used in Italian cooking. Thanks to Salome Fisher, Lancaster, for writing that SYSCO in Harrisburg sells Italian cooking oils. Call the company at 1-800-733-7420 for details on how to order.

ANSWER — Evan Weldman, Westfield, wanted to know of a company that makes milk can coolers. Dale Leighow writes that he has two used coolers that he will sell. Contact him at R.D.3, Box 368, Catawissa, PA 17820-9581 or call (717) 799-5541 between noon and 2 p.m. or 5-8 p.m.

Firestone The Leader in The FieldSuper All Traction 23°

R-1

- New top-of-line bias-ply tractor rear, featuring our long bar/long bar design for tread stability, and heavy bar bracing to extend tread life.
- Long wearing and smooth riding, due to the more uniform, flatter contour of the long bar/long bar design.
- Proven tread design for traction and open shoulders for self-cleaning.
- Bead and rim protectors shield the tire to keep studs and soil from getting between the bead and rim flange.

Dairy Feed System

AIM is Working All Across the Country!

WISCONSIN

Since starting with Master Mix in August of 1994 between Aminotek and AIM our cows have gone up 14 lbs. of Milk per cow per day!
Kyle Homan
Brandon, WI

MICHIGAN

Our Jersey herd is eating the AIM more aggressively and because of this are milking better longer.
Dale Solo
Hubbard Lake, MI

ILLINOIS

Dry Matter Intake really took off. In April we achieved an 85 lb. tank average. AIM is a key ingredient in our farm's profitability.
Deppert Farms,
Green Valley, IL

MICHIGAN

Our cows are peaking earlier and holding peak longer with AIM!
William Hales

FLEXIBILITY MEANS COSTS SAVINGS

The flexibility of the AIM Technology and Master Mix Feed's other Dairy Feeding programs means your feeding program is built around your on farm forages and grains, not the other way around! This helps you keep your purchased feed costs down. Contact your independent Master Mix dealer today to see how you can work together to keep your nutritional costs in line.

WISCONSIN

Dave Placke, Cuba City, WI

INDIANA

This is the most milk our cows have ever produced in the history of this farm!

The One Spreader Rugged Enough For Lime, Precise Enough For Fertilizer.

You know how tough it is to spread wet lime. And fertilizer is too expensive to waste. Our new 56i spreader does both jobs with ease. Plus, it has no equal when it comes to spreading "sloppy" material.

Stoltzfus Spreaders have been known as unique, "top-of-the-line" ag spreaders since 1947.

- Press-wheel ground drive
- Walking-beam suspension
- Corrosion-proof steel hopper
- UHMW plastic floor
- Lime: 3 tons / acre max.
- Fertilizer: 125 lbs. / acre min.

Farmers are still using Stoltzfus Spreaders they've had 20 years or more. That means your investment in a versatile Stoltzfus Spreader will add up to a very smart buy indeed.

Herbicide Liberates Growers From Traditional Weed Control

LINCOLN, Neb.—A new corn hybrid-herbicide system called Liberty™ Link™ will provide growers worry-free, post-emergence weed control as early as 1997.

"This leading-edge technology will save farmers time and money as well as do an excellent job of controlling both broadleaf and grassy weeds without hurting their corn or reducing yields," said Charlie Harrold, operations manager for NC+ Hybrids. "Liberty Link offers a possible solution to a wide variety of problem weeds and crop management issues."

NC+ anticipates that it will be among the first major seed companies to offer Liberty-resistant corn hybrids, according to Harrold. The new hybrids will contain a gene which confers resistance to Glufosinate-ammonium, the active ingredient in Liberty.

University studies have shown Liberty is effective on a wide range of grass and broadleaf weeds including common ragweed, cocklebur, foxtails, and velvetleaf.

Even though Liberty provides fast-acting weed control, it doesn't adversely affect the genetically-engineered corn hybrids. In fact, resistant corn hybrids don't have to metabolize the herbicide, according to Jeff Springsteen, marketing manager for Liberty Link. "This means no crop setback due to herbicide injury, even in cases where the corn plant is oversprayed," said Springsteen.

A.O. Smith To Acquire Tank Manufacturer

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—A.O. Smith Corporation has announced its plans to expand its presence in the environmental bulk storage tank business with the purchase of the business of Peabody TecTank, Inc. of Parsons, Kan., from The Pullman Company.

The purchase price is approximately $18 million.

Smith has grown its involvement in environmental storage markets through its wholly owned subsidiary A.O. Smith Harvestore Products Inc. of DeKalb, Ill. The subsidiary markets glass-lined Aquastore® structures primarily for liquid storage applications such as potable water, waste water, and leachate.

TecTank, with fiscal 1995 sales of $49.0 million is a manufacturer of epoxy-coated steel and aluminum storage tanks primarily used in industrial, food processing, water, and waste water applications. It is one of the few manufacturers to supply factory-coated tanks to these market segments and offers a variety of interior and exterior coatings depending upon the application.

TecTank, along with its subsidiary, Peabody Solid Flow Inc., employs approximately 400 people in facilities in Parsons; Winchester, Tenn.; Bakersfield, Calif.; and Fort Mill, S.C. They market their products worldwide.

It's not too early to begin planning for storing your valuable feeds for 1996! Quality forages and grains become more important as margins decrease in the dairy and livestock industries.

When you think of "quality" feeds, you need to consider "quality" storage. Farmers all over the East (from Maine to Florida, and West to the Mississippi River), are turning to the poured concrete SOLLENBERGER SILO to protect the quality of their feeds.

Listen to what these farmers from VA say about their switch to a poured concrete silo for their hi-moisture shelled corn storage: "Even during the hottest summer in our memory, the shelled corn from our poured concrete silo has kept its bright yellow color and has not heated. We have the best hi-moisture shelled corn ever."

Signed: Keith Wilson, Paul Wilson, Gerald Garber, Cave View Farms, Inc., Weyers Cave, VA.

Side with Alumax ALU-TUFF Steel

When you put up a building, you expect it to be attractive and to last. A building constructed with ALU-TUFF will meet those expectations. That's because ALU-TUFF is made using top-quality materials, super-tough protective coatings, and a unique rib design that's both functional and attractive.

Years from now when other buildings are starting to show their age, your building will still look good.

• A STRONG PROFILE

High 3/4-inch ribs on nine-inch centers give ALU-TUFF exceptionally high spanning properties for its weight and thickness, while stiffening ribs in flat areas prevent rippling.

• MADE TO LAST

To keep Alu-Tuff working hard and looking good for years to come, we protect it with an oven-cured system of four different coatings.

• A GREAT LOOKING PANEL

You don't have to sacrifice good looks to get a tough steel panel.

• MORE QUALITY FEATURES

Each ALU-TUFF sheet is 38 inches wide to provide 36-inch coverage. That's wide enough to minimize the number of side laps, yet narrow enough to be easy to handle.

MUELLER

Scroll-Compressor Technology

New in 1994

You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment...
but it can cost you more!

Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller' milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$51,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

J&D Manufacturing
Dump Tank

QUICK FLUSH WATER TROUGH

J&D Manufacturing has designed our new Dump Tank to save you time and to ensure fresh water for your herd at all times. Stainless Steel construction guarantees durability and a corrosion free life. The smooth finish of stainless steel is easy to keep clean and promotes a cleaner water supply. An Electronic Anti freeze sensor will keep the valve ice free on those cold nights. The quick flush handle allows you to remove dirty water with one easy motion. Take a brush once over the inside to loosen up the dirt and build-up. Step on the tank release catch and dump the tank.

Keep a clean, fresh and adequate water supply and spend only 1 minute a week.

FEATURES

- Costs much less than concrete tanks that are impossible to keep clean
- Two Interacting automatic fill valves keep the water supply at its designed level
- Electronic Anti freeze sensor keeps lines free of ice
- Stainless Steel construction guarantees corrosion free life
- Smooth finish facilitates easy cleaning
- Poly bearings won't seize up - rust or wear out

HIGH TENSILE FENCE...THE FARMER'S BEST INVESTMENT

717-899-7617

BEAVER FENCE SYSTEMS

Darren Peachey, Belleville, PA

"The spring of 1995 was a turning point for our dairy operation as we moved from a high input operation to an intensive grazing system. Intensive Grazing has been everything we hoped it would be. Our cows are healthier and we have less labor per cow. The life of our machinery will be longer. All in all it spells higher profits.

The first thing we did was talk to other people who were grazing to get ideas that we could incorporate into our dairy operation. We hired Beaver Fence Systems to build high tensile fence around the entire farm and we use portable fence to divide the interior into paddocks.

Today's dairy economy does not allow us to keep doing things the way we have always done them. We need to keep looking for more profitable ways of producing milk and managing our land. Intensive grazing has made our business more profitable."

NOTICE

The Blair County Conservation District is supplying notice to all interested contractors, that several Agricultural Waste Storage Systems are to be installed in Blair County during the construction year 1996 with the financial and technical assistance of the Chesapeake Bay Program. Interested bidders should send their company name, address and phone number, with the name of a principle contact person to:

Blair County Conservation District
AG WASTE BIDDERS
1407 Blair Street
Hollidaysburg, PA 16648
(814) 696-0877

Notification with a set of plans will be mailed as projects are prepared. Small and minority businesses and women's business enterprises are encouraged to respond to this invitation for bids.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

The York County Conservation District is requesting bids for the construction of (1)
AGRICULTURAL WASTE STORAGE SYSTEM to be funded in part by the Chesapeake Bay Program. Construction of this project is expected to begin during May-June 1996. The site is located in Paradise Township, York County.

Prospective contractors will receive a bid package which contains instructions to bidders, a sample contract form, the plans and specifications for the project and a bid sheet.

This bid package was prepared using the 1995,
"Contractors Handbook - Pennsylvania Chesapeake Bay Program". Contractors bidding on this project are expected to have in their possession and use this manual to carry out this contract. Those Contractors who do not possess a copy of the manual may obtain one from the conservation district responsible for this project.

Small and minority businesses and women's business enterprises are encouraged to respond to this invitation for bids.

Sealed bids will be accepted until the public bid opening at 1:00 p.m. on February 14th, 1996.

To obtain a bid package contact the York County

Rotary Hay Tedders Speed Up Drying Time

PELLA, Iowa—Hay tedders designed to better fluff up downed hay and speed drydown are available from Vermeer Manufacturing Co.

The new, rotary-style models TD120 and TD200 feature six time arms per rotor for smooth, gentle handling of hay—at maximum ground speeds—even when tedding heavy, matted-down windrows. The TD120 is equipped with two rotors and has a working width of 10 feet 4 inches. The larger TD200 is equipped with four rotors and has a working width of 16 feet 8 inches. It also features an articulated frame that allows the tedders to hug ground contour, plus a hydraulic fold option that enables it to transport at a width of 10 feet 5 inches. (The standard TD200 units also fold, with spring assist). Minimum tractor requirement for the TD120 is 15 hp and 20 hp for the model TD200.

Hay tedders designed to better fluff up downed hay and speed drydown are available from Vermeer Manufacturing Co.

Both units are equipped with exclusive rotor guards around the entire perimeter of the rotors. PTO slip clutch protection also is standard.

Tine height is simply adjusted; no tools are required. Heavy-duty 15 inches x 6 inches, 6-ply flotation tires improve handling in rough conditions.

Stall Control Allows More Stall-Side Info Access

NAPERVILLE, Ill. — The Surge® InFARmation® MilkPointManager™ from Babson Bros. Co. allows dairy producers to easily access and enter valuable management information at the parlor stall. It displays cow milking time and key management information to help improve parlor efficiency.

The InFARmation MilkPointManager utilizes the exclusive Surge Omni™ Logic which incorporates the following detach control functions: vacuum-on delay, milk let-down delay, end-of-milk delay, soft take-off delay, milk sweep, and cylinder release delay.

The data is displayed in a large, easy-to-read liquid crystal display (LCD) that features numerals, alpha characters, and icons that make interpreting management data quick and easy to understand. Function key options simplify operation and eliminate the need to memorize special codes.

"The InFARmation MilkPointManager also features the Milk Hold safety feature that is easy to use and can provide security that contaminated milk won't enter the tank," said Don Mayer, product marketing manager for Babson Bros. Co., marketer of Surge brand products. "The feature requires the cow's ID number be entered and accepted before the automatic detach will operate. If the cow meets the milk hold criteria, a simple series of function keys are to be entered to initiate detach operation."

The Surge Portable Detacher calculates and displays milk yield data for each individual cow and shows that information on an easy-to-read LED display.

NAPERVILLE, Ill. — A new portable detacher for milking systems puts all the milk yield information dairy producers need right at their fingertips.

The Surge Portable Detacher calculates and displays milk yield data for each individual cow and shows that information on an easy-to-read LED display. The portable detacher is also able to track milk time for each cow and can calculate total yield data for all cows milked.

"No other product puts all the information in one spot. This data is key in making management decisions about feeding, breeding, drying-off and culling," said Don Mayer, product marketing manager for Babson Bros. Co., marketer of Surge® brand products. "Plus, consistent monitoring of milk yield data is important in identifying cows with sudden drops in milk yield which could be related to health problems or heat cycles."

The Surge Portable Detacher is a lightweight, vacuum-operated portable unit that automatically detaches itself from the cow and retracts the unit. The device is also equipped with a fixed milk let-down delay of 60 seconds to help prevent premature detaching. The vacuum cylinder with 32-inch

Case Offers New Planters

RACINE, Wis. — To meet the needs of farmers working in all tillage conditions, Case Corporation offers the new 955 Series planters. Included in the new line are seven fully mounted rigid planters and 12 trailing planters. Semi-mounted Cyclo Air® planters also are available.

The seven new fully mounted rigid planters include six-row narrow, six-row wide, eight-row narrow, eight-row wide, 12-row narrow and solid-row-crop models — six-row narrow convertible to 11-row and eight-row narrow convertible to 15-row. The 12 new trailing planters come in sizes up to 24-row narrow.

According to Kurt Schenck, Case senior product manager-crop production, the 955 Series incorporates the proven features customers have come to expect from Case IH planters, along with several new benefits.

One of the new planter enhancements is opposite-hand row openers. Half of the staggered double-disk openers are right-hand leading disks, and the other half are left-hand leading disks. As a result, the planter tracks truer and pulls easier in minimum-till, no-till and ridge-till conditions.

"What this means for the customer is improved convenience and planter flexibility," Schenck said. "This optimizes planter performance and maximizes the customer's investment."

Another new feature, quick adjustable down-pressure springs, allows for easy adjustments to accommodate changing soil conditions or tillage practices. "The adjustment now takes only about one minute per row," Schenck explained. "That's a tremendous time saver for the customers."

Schenck pointed out that all Case 955 planters (except 12-row narrow vertical-fold) are equipped with standard bolt-on row units, allowing farmers to customize their planters to different row spacing. "Bolt-on row units give the customer the flexibility to change the planter to meet different farming practices or crop production changes," Schenck said.

Other new features on the 955 models are standard transport lights on all models and standard transport chains on all trailing units.

Farm Equipment Show Set

TORONTO, Ontario — The 1996 Canadian International Farm Equipment Show commemorates the tenth consecutive year as Canada's largest and foremost agribusiness showcase, displaying farm equipment and machinery, farm buildings, material handling, feed, seed, fertilizer, chemicals, service companies and suppliers.

The Canadian International Farm Equipment Show will be held Feb. 6-9 at the International Centre in Toronto, Ontario, Canada. The International Centre is minutes from Pearson (Toronto) International Airport and conveniently located near major highways and hotels.

As North America's second largest indoor farm equipment show, comfortable walking shoes are required to walk the more than four miles of aisle space.

More than 50,000 qualified agricultural buyers and decision makers are expected to visit the Canadian International Farm Equipment Show. Delegations from Russia, France and Italy are expected to attend the upcoming show in February.

You're guaranteed to find the most recent in new farm equipment and products available for the upcoming growing season, with more than 650 exhibitors from around the world representing 5,000 manufacturers and distributors at the show, and more than 380,000 square feet of agribusiness on display.

The show was started by Dawn Morris in 1986, whose involvement in the agribusiness trade show business spanned more than 30 years. Dawn Morris was recognized in 1992 as Agri-Marketer of the Year by the Canadian Agri-Marketing Association (CAMA). That same year, Lesley Nicholson, daughter of Dawn Morris, was appointed show manager.

The show is sponsored by the Canadian Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute (CFIEI) and the Ontario Retail Farm Equipment Dealers' Association (ORFEDA). The show is supported by the Ontario Wholesale Farm Equipment Association (OWFEA).

Show hours are from 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday and 9:30 a.m.-4 p.m. Friday.

Seed Treatment Addresses Growers' Concerns

GREENSBORO, N.C.—Ciba Crop Protection has announced Maxim™/Apron®, a corn and sorghum seed treatment combination that has been approved for use and distribution throughout the United States.

Maxim, the first of a new class of chemistry and one of only a few to receive the EPA "Reduced Risk" classification, was labeled on Oct. 5. Its benefits include a low dust-off rate, which is related to one of growers' top concerns when handling treated seed.

Proven dependable in numerous field trials throughout the Corn Belt, Maxim/Apron addresses two major concerns growers have with their current seed treatment—safety when handling treated seed and environmental safety for land and crops.

Developed by Ciba Seed Treatment, Maxim/Apron is a seed treatment combination that provides excellent control of the major seedling pathogens—pythium and fusarium—as well as aspergillus and penicillium, which impact seedling emergence and vigor.

In addition to protecting the seed and seedling at the earliest stage of crop development, Maxim/Apron assures rapid emergence and uniform population. These parameters are important in achieving maximum yield potential.

DuPont, Valent Announce Joint Promotion

WILMINGTON, Del. — DuPont Agricultural Products and Valent USA Corporation announced that they have entered into a joint promotion which will enable DuPont authorized retailers to sell Cobra® herbicide as a tank-mix option with DuPont postemergence soybean herbicides.

The agreement calls for DuPont retailers to recommend using a reduced rate of "Cobra" herbicide (4-6 ounces) to address special weed situations, such as black nightshade, pigweed, waterhemp and ragweeds.

"We found we needed to ensure control of problem weeds farmers were experiencing this year," said Dan Dawes, DuPont soybean business manager.

The joint promotion is scheduled to run through August 25, 1996.

USMEF Plans To Sustain Pork Export Momentum

DENVER, Colo. — Illustrative of the teamwork that has brought the U.S. pork industry from a minor player to a headline performer in the global marketplace, U.S. Meat Export Federation officials called in its foreign marketing directors, and invited pork industry representatives, government marketing specialists and leading exporters to Denver last week to discuss plans to sustain the pork industry's export momentum.

Export markets are a top priority for the pork industry. After a record-breaking year in 1994, U.S. pork and pork variety meat exports from January through September 1995 increased 45 percent in volume and 63 percent in value compared to the January-September 1994 period. Total U.S. pork exports came to 280,000 metric tons worth $710 million in the first nine months of 1995.

"Exports are a major reason why hog prices are much higher this year," says Karl Johnson, Minnesota pork producer and chairman of USMEF's Pork & Allied Industries Committee. "Prices are up even though the industry is marketing about the same number of hogs as last year."

Johnson was joined by other pork industry representatives in an all-day strategic planning session for pork held by USMEF at its headquarters office in Denver. USDA Foreign Agricultural Service officials and packer/processor representatives also attended the session, in which USMEF foreign directors and Denver staff discussed market conditions, export potential, resources and marketing strategies for U.S. pork in foreign markets.

"We're not resting on our laurels," says Johnson. "We are continuing to pursue new opportunities in emerging markets while developing our trade potential in major export markets such as Japan."

"We see our strategy as a three-pronged offensive," says USMEF Vice President-Pork Operations George Rivers. "To continue to develop existing markets, to bring emerging markets on-line and to explore new opportunities."

USMEF programs are up and running in more foreign markets than ever before, says Rivers, pointing to USMEF's work in exploring new trade opportunities in Central and South America, Eastern Europe and the Asia Pacific.

In addition, we're stepping up our work in emerging markets such as Korea and Russia, Rivers adds, "where our pork exports have risen from virtually zero just two years ago to more than $100 million in just the January through September period (1995)."

"And of course, Japan remains key to our marketing goals," he adds. USMEF considers Japan, which has accounted for 64 percent of U.S. pork exports in 1995, to have the greatest potential for additional export sales.

"Japan is a $3.75 billion pork import market and right now we have but a small portion of it," stressed USMEF Vice President-Asia Pacific Joel Haggard at the planning session. "We think the U.S. pork industry can supply as much as 50 percent of that $3.75 billion market," says Haggard.

Japanese import statistics show that the U.S. share of Japan's import market increased from 14.7 percent in 1994 to 17.6 percent in the first 9 months of 1995. This 3 percent gain in market share meant an additional $185 million in U.S. pork exports to Japan from January through September 1995 compared to the same period last year. Overall, U.S. pork exports to Japan reached $451 million from January through September 1995.

Manpower is a key component in USMEF's global marketing strategy and three full-time pork managers have been added to USMEF staff in Mexico City, Tokyo and Seoul in just the past several months. Rivers says these managers will help to guide and implement USMEF marketing efforts for U.S. pork in those markets. These additional resources for pork will ensure that U.S. pork exports continue to head in the right direction, adds Rivers.

Rivers says that foreign markets hold tremendous long-term growth potential for the industry. "In 1995, U.S. pork exports should top $900 million. That's more than double from just five years ago."

Better access to foreign markets, quality products, competitive prices and effective market development programs are behind the industry's export growth, says

Rivers.

But, he adds, "We have our work cut out for us." Existing trade barriers, stiff competition and a general unfamiliarity among foreign customers about what makes U.S. pork a quality product — tenderness, taste, consistency and safety — mean that "we still have a great deal of work ahead of us if we are to reach our export potential."

The U.S. Meat Export Federation is a national trade association responsible for developing foreign markets for U.S. red meat products. USMEF receives funding from USDA and the National Pork Board (through the National Pork Producers Council) to carry out marketing programs for U.S. pork in foreign countries. Additional support for USMEF pork programs comes from state pork councils, packers, processors, purveyors, traders, corn and soybean producers, and agribusiness companies.

Crop Management Assn. To Hold Luncheon

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)—The Pennsylvania Crop Management Association will hold its twelfth annual luncheon January 22 at the Penn State Scanticon Conference Center Hotel on the University Park campus from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. The state association and local member groups promote sound crop management practices in the commonwealth.

"Tomorrow's Economics From Yesterday's Records" is the topic of this year's luncheon. Speakers will discuss the value of record keeping, the evaluation of farm records, records-based nutrient management practices, and what's ahead for the U.S. agricultural economy.

Guest speakers include State Sen. Roger Madigan, Steve Fales, head of Penn State's agronomy department, and Walt Peechatka, executive deputy secretary of agriculture. Other speakers include Lou Moore, professor of agricultural economics; Jayson Harper, associate professor of agricultural economics; Marvin Hall, associate professor of forage management; and Elwood Hatley, professor of agronomy.

The Pennsylvania Crop Management Association was established in 1984 to act as a representative body for local non-profit crop management associations (CMAs) in promoting sound cropping practices. Members pay acreage and membership fees in return for agronomic crop consulting services, which include soil sampling, weekly crop scouting, yield checks, field-specific computerized record keeping and assistance in developing nutrient and pest management strategies. Currently, nine local associations are affiliated with 35 Pennsylvania counties.

For more information or to register for the meeting, contact Jan Pruss, manager of Penn State's Crop Management Program, at (814) 863-1020.

New Shape
The difference is the shape of the feeder's trough (at right). ULTRAFLO II's higher trough lip reduces feed waste by keeping it in the trough and not on the floor or in the pit.

The Right Choice in cage feeders

Chore-Time's popular ULTRAFLO® Cage Feeding System is now even more outstanding! We've developed and tested the second generation of ULTRAFLO feeders and named it the ULTRAFLO II.

ULTRAFLO II offers you even greater reliability, durability, and outstanding feed-saving performance—up to 1 gram of feed per bird per day—over the original ULTRAFLO. And even the original ULTRAFLO was beating our competitors in feed savings!

So, join the cage feeding leader. Contact us today. Find out how Chore-Time and ULTRAFLO II can help you be a leader, too!

INTENSIVE ROTATIONAL GRAZING AND/OR BOVINE SOMATOTROPIN

LAWRENCE D. MULLER
Penn State University

Intensive rotational grazing (IRG) and bovine somatotropin (BST) are two topics that have received much press. Both are management tools that are available and being used by some dairy producers to improve dairy farm profitability. The above title suggests that perhaps the two technologies should not be used together. The real question is whether IRG and BST are management techniques that should be used separately or together.

The apparent controversy about IRG and/or BST was reviewed by Dr. Stuart McCutcheon of New Zealand at the 1994 Cornell Nutrition Conference. This apparent debate was created from a book published in 1993 entitled The Dairy Debate: Consequences of Bovine Growth Hormone and Rotational Grazing Strategies edited by W.C. Liebhardt of the University of California. The Dairy Debate compares the impacts of IRG and BST on animal health, human health, consumer response, farm economics, and environmental quality. The Executive Summary of the book concludes "Rotational grazing improves herd health in comparison to confinement-feeding systems. Poorly managed pasture feeding minimizes mastitis-caused bacterial infections that contaminate milk and result in economic losses for dairies. Pasture-grazed cows also tend to have higher reproductive performance, reduced lameness from leg or hoof problems and fewer metabolic and digestive disorders." Whereas many of these points may be correct, clearly the book claimed that IRG is a better management technology than BST. While grazing systems have many positive attributes and some challenges, a similar situation could be stated for BST. Proper nutrition and feeding management is one of the keys to the successful use of both technologies. Underfeeding or improper feeding management will likely contribute to an unprofitable response from either technology.

IRG and/or BST. Are the two management technologies mutually exclusive or complementary? Can a dairy producer use IRG and BST together? Whereas extensive research has been conducted with BST under nongrazing conditions, more limited research has evaluated BST plus IRG. At least six research studies have confirmed that pasture-fed cows will respond to BST. Research from New Zealand indicated that the response to BST with grazing is closely related to pasture growth and availability, being high in the spring and low in the summer. This situation should not exist in the U.S. where we can economically provide supplemental forages and grain during periods of low pasture availability. Additionally, grain is usually fed in the US and is often uneconomical to feed in New Zealand. The responses to BST are contingent upon cows being adequately fed, whether grazing or not grazing. Both IRG and BST have the potential to improve profitability.

The decision or choice is not simply IRG or BST. Each has its advantages and challenges and each requires good management. Cows will respond to BST when intensively grazed and BST should be considered in well managed dairy operations where pasture and total feed intake is maximized. The challenge is to combine the two into a system which allows for the most profitable production. Proper feeding plays a big role in the successful use of the two technologies.

Feeding Guidelines. Administration of BST results in an increased milk yield usually within the first few days. The increase of milk yield is followed by an increase in dry matter intake, usually within 2 to 4 weeks after the first administration of BST. Dry matter intake is usually increased about 2 to 4 lb/cow/day. Feeding management, particularly during the first few weeks, is very important to obtaining a profitable response to BST. Following are some suggestions and guidelines that may help in optimizing the milk response of cows administered BST with IRG:

- Provide top quality and quantity of pasture free choice (>20 hours/d) to allow maximum dry matter intake. Monitor stocking rates and available pasture, and move cows to a new paddock before the quantity of pasture is limiting, which usually occurs when pasture height is less than 3 inches.

- Monitor pasture quality during growing season. As the growing season progresses pasture quality tends to decrease, so complement lower quality pasture particularly during the summer with higher quality forage (i.e. corn silage, haylage, hay) and/or adjust the grain and total ration for milk yield and body condition. The response to BST will diminish as pasture quantity and quality decreases unless adjustments are made in supplementary forage and milking ration to balance the diet for milk production and body condition.

- Feed balanced diets formulated to meet or exceed NRC Dairy Guidelines based on performance and body condition. No major nutrient or ration adjustments are needed with BST. Cows eat more feed and need the proper feeding management condition which maximizes feed intake.

- Optimize cow comfort and allow continual access to fresh clean water.

If BST and IRG are being used together, good management practices are needed to obtain a profitable response. Dairy producers need to monitor milk yield on an individual cow basis, if possible, or at least record daily bulk tank weights. Important questions are related to which cows should be treated, when in lactation should they be treated, and will it be profitable? Often, cows with IRG may have a lower body condition than cows under nongrazing. Body condition should be used to help determine which cows should receive BST.

In summary, the issue is not IRG or BST. These are independent management technologies that have the potential to improve profitability and should be considered together if they can improve dairy profitability. Good nutritional and grazing management will enhance the opportunity of obtaining a profitable response from the two technologies.

Award-Winning Tractor Series From MF

DULUTH, Ga. — Massey Ferguson's new MF 6100 and MF 8100 high-performance tractor series, from 86 to 180 PTO horsepower, received the 1995 OEM-mie Award for innovative design and performance at the annual Society of Automotive Engineers (SAE) Off-Highway Conference.

The new MF 6100 and 8100 series tractors were selected for their innovative features and functions that set them apart from others in North America, and for advancing the state of the art and increasing equipment performance. The award is sponsored by OEM Off-Highway magazine published by Johnson Hill press.

"These new tractor ranges have taken the lead in the emerging competitive battle for increased 'power efficiency'," said Wilfred Boyle, director, Massey Ferguson Operations, "and this was one of the key factors in earning the award."

"The new MF 6100 and MF 8100 series tractors are designed

This 130 PTO hp MF 8120 is one of seven new award-winning Massey Ferguson tractors from 86 to 180 PTO hp, designed to deliver 90 percent of their engine power to the wheels and PTO for more productive and efficient operations.

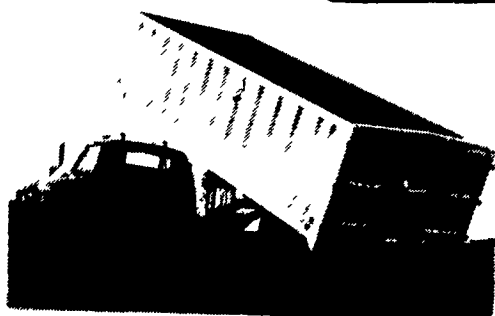

to minimize power losses through the transmission and deliver up to 90 percent of their engine horsepower to the wheels and PTO," said Boyle. "With more engine power available as 'usable power', everyday tractor operations are more productive and efficient."

ALUMINUM GRAIN BODIES & ALUMINUM REPAIRS by

Rugged Strength

Dependable Performance

These ultra-light bodies are designed for strength through engineering, not strength with bulk. For example, a 16' grain body with tailgate and 48" sides weighs only 1490 lbs. complete. We'll build you any length or any side height up to 60".

Also available:

- Double swinging hay hauling tailgate
- Barn door type tailgate
- Slide out cattle chutes
- Diamond flooring
- Pull out panel tailgates
- Any size grain chute

THE 1996 EDITION OF THE INTERNATIONAL POULTRY EXPOSITION

W. D. Weaver, Jr.
Professor & Head
Department Of Poultry Science

cation meeting has been held in Atlanta.

The theme of this year's Exposition, "A Gold Medal Event," truly reflects the magnitude of this occasion. With more than 1,000 exhibitors covering more than 16 acres of exhibit space and an anticipated attendance of 23,000, the Exposition represents the world's largest poultry meeting each year.

The exhibition halls — yes, there are two of them — will contain the latest equipment and technologies for producing and processing poultry and eggs.

Many companies each year use the Exposition to unveil new products and equipment for the poultry industry. The exhibits will not only include a large number of manufacturers of equipment and pharmaceuticals used directly in the production and processing of poultry, they will also include exhibitors marketing such diverse items as computer management systems including both hardware and software, truck bodies, electrical power companies, spices for use in further processed products, genetics companies, environmental systems, and hundreds of others.

Likewise, as the name of the Exposition denotes, exhibitors and attendees come literally from around the world, with, in addition to the U.S., a large contingent from Europe and smaller contingencies from South America and the Pacific Rim.

Although the exhibit halls are the major attraction for many attendees, the Exposition includes an opening ceremony with a nationally known keynote speaker, educational programs for members of the egg, broiler and turkey industries, an active program and interviews sessions for college students, a ladies' program, and dozens of satellite meetings.

The International Poultry Exposition in Atlanta is truly the highlight each year for the many members and allied members of the greater poultry industry.

Free Use Of Tractor Offered

YORK (York Co.)—York Farm Credit and two area farm implement dealerships have teamed up to offer free use of new tractors later this year. All you have to do is attend one of the corn clinics set to take place soon and register at the York Farm Credit display.

The Adams County Clinic will be held Monday, January 22, at the York Springs Fire Hall from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Register to win seven days free use (40 hours maximum) of a new Case IH tractor from Carlisle Farm Service.

The York County Corn Clinic will be held Wednesday, January 24, at the York County 4-H Center from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Register to win seven days free use (40 hours maximum) of a John Deere tractor from Waltemyers Sales & Service of Red Lion.

Please call Mike Hosterman at York Farm Credit (1-800-822-1218) for details.

Dealers Honored At Recognition Program

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.)—John Deere Dealers from Southeastern Pennsylvania and Northern Maryland were honored with sales generator plaques for outstanding accomplishments in sales of new equipment, parts and customer labor.

Landis Bros, Inc. of Lancaster and Lebanon received the recognition plaques for the largest increase in equipment sales and parts sales.

Enfield Equipment, Inc. of Whiteford, MD and Oxford received the reorganization plaque for largest increase in customer labor sales.

Twenty-six John Deere logo watches were presented to dealership employees for exceeding the contest criteria in sales of new equipment, parts and labor.

John Deere local sales team of Jerry Thomas, territory manager, and Jon Miller, territory after-market manager, held the program at Yoder's in New Holland. Jim Carroll and Dick Haesaert of the Columbus sales office and Don Johnson of Deere & Co. computer services were on hand for the awards and gave presentations on the future direction of the after-market business and the upcoming Aftermarket Expo to be held in Nashville, TN. Johnson presented the new enhancements to the John Deere VSAT system. VSAT is the satellite system that Deere dealers are installing to put them on-line, full-time with Deere to offer their customers better and quicker parts availability and give on-line service and product support information.

Sales Territory 41 includes dealerships in: Adamstown, Allentown, Easton, Lancaster, Lebanon, New Holland, Oley, West Chester and Oxford, and Whiteford, MD.

Dairy Nutrition Workshops Offered

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)—Dial 1-800-PSU-1010 to find out about this year's Dairy Nutrition Workshops being offered in Pennsylvania and throughout the country on February 22 and 29, 1996. This year's satellite teleconference is geared to topics that are current to dairy nutrition.

Many nutritional problems begin with improper silage fermentation and result in a year long supply of poor quality forages. On day 1 Penn State will address important points that can be followed on the farm with minimal expense to prevent poor silage quality. Participants are encouraged to bring ensiled forage samples to the workshop. These samples will be used to determine pH, dry matter contents, and particle size distribution.

Mycotoxins is an increasing concern for the dairy producer and this subject will be addressed related to how they develop, prevention, and what can be done to cope with the problem. Silage additives will also be looked at as a tool for already good silage making practices and why they cannot be expected to make bad silage better.

Another new area being covered this year is concentrate feeding management. On day 2 the program will focus on both nutritional and management aspects pertaining to carbohydrates. Problems related to carbohydrate imbalance can result in feet and leg problems, cows going off-feed, and ketosis to name a few. These scenarios are being seen in the field with too much regularity and they add up to a major expense in treatment costs, culling, and low production. Come and find out what you can do to prevent this from happening to your cows.

Don't wait, call the toll free number 1-800-PSU-1010 or call your local county agricultural extension office to find out the nearest location of a workshop and where you can get additional information.

CAPACITY KING

THE BIGGEST

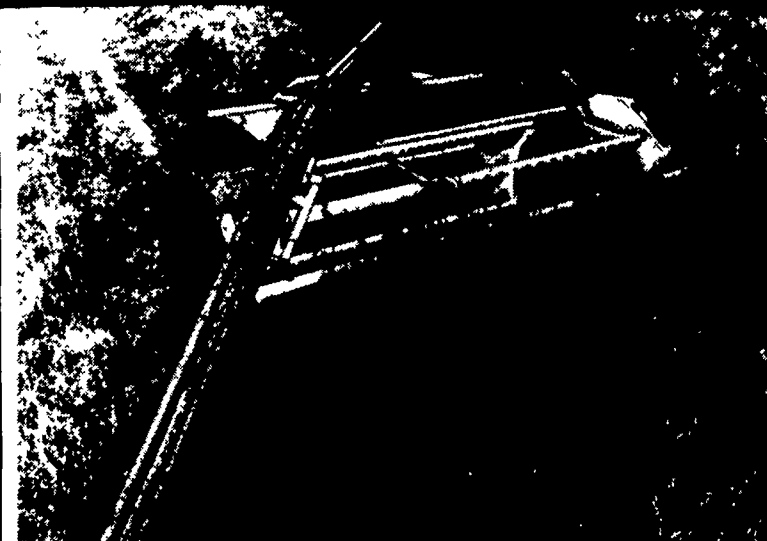

The New Holland Model 195 box spreader is up to your biggest spreading job.

- Capacity. The "195" takes on 410 bushels (440 cu. ft.) without flinching
- Strong construction. Corrosion-resistant steels last and last. And an HDPE floor means smooth unloading, even in cold weather.
- Bonded Protection warranty. If the polyethylene floor fails or the sides rust, we'll replace them free for 12 years.
- Fast clean out...even with this big-capacity strong box.
- Large tandem oscillating wheels. Allow faster ground speeds in rough terrain, with less ground compaction.

Check out our biggest New Holland Spreader from the biggest name in spreaders.

FAST CUTTING

PIVOT-TONGUE CONVENIENCE

Cut a 12-foot swath from your right or left side. Pivot-tongue control on the Model 499 Haybine® mower-conditioner makes it easy on you. Dual counter-stroking sickles cut fast and clean, and the converging Rolareel header easily feeds mountains of crop into 110-inch rubber conditioning rolls. Put the "499" to work for you.

Quality Gehl In Stock At Binkley & Hurst Bros. "Let's Get Together Now!" Binkley & Hurst Bros. Has A Quality Gehl Spreader At Economical Pricing!

GEHL
Box Spreaders

Even when it's empty... it's loaded.

Low profile design means easy loading by skid loader front and loader or barn cleaner

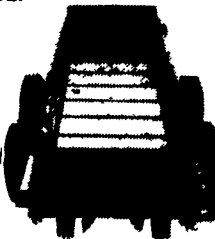

Gehl-Tuff Flooring prevents the apron from freezing to the floor allowing manure to slide out with little resistance. Less apron pull means less wear and tear on drive and apron chains. One piece construction won't flex under heavy loads.

Extra-strong, T-bar apron chains with an average tensile strength of over 23,500 pounds keep the biggest loads moving.

Double galvanized steel sides are corrosion resistant for long life. One-piece seamless construction won't catch material or leak.

Optional hydraulic endgate rolls in front of the loader paddles to secure sloppy loads and keep heaped material out of the loader unit you're ready to spread. An available rear pin reduces spills in the yard or roadway while enhancing the spread distribution.

Oscillating tandem wheels allow faster ground speeds while providing greater flotation. They're standard on the 325 bushel and 425 bushel models and optional on the 250-bushel model.

Twelve extra wide one-piece loader paddles are symmetrically positioned for broad uniform spreads. Paddles are fabricated from tough, 1/4" thick high strength steel. Belt-on replacement ties are available to extend paddle life.

Constant velocity pin for continuous, smooth, chatter free power transfer when spreading on turns and reduced stress on the entire drive line.

Huge 425 Bushel Ready To Put To Work

REEL AUGGIE

3000 SERIES REEL AUGGIES

FEATURE THE FOLLOWING ADVANTAGES:

- Blends by gently lifting, fluffing, and tumbling the entire load, reducing mix time, power requirement, machine wear, and dead spots
- Aggressive upper and lower auger with hardened, replaceable knives, for thorough end-to-end movement
- Shear angle for both the upper and lower auger
- Simple slide tray or three auger discharge available
- Oil bath drive with external grease banks
- Constant Velocity PTO with integral slip clutch
- Hay-Max Kit option for better break-up of most hay and bulk materials
- Tow, truck mounted, and stationary units from 147 to 488 cubic feet

GREAT TRACTOR.

The New White 6045 ROPS. When you're working in and under low overhangs, this low profile 45 PTO hp tractor is a great value for today's farmer. The 6045 gives you a low profile straddle mount and a 12F/12R synchronized reverse transmission to change direction in any gear. For reliable power, there's a liquid-cooled diesel engine.

And its true center line power front axle with a 50-degree turning angle helps you get around the tight spaces. Plus, the 6045 has a 2-year/2000-hour AGCO warranty on 100% parts and labor, with no deductible.

Climb into a 6045 at your local White dealer. And ask about flexible Agcredit financing plans, offering low rates and waiver of interest contracts.

NEW IDEA

We at Meyers Implements, Inc. have strived for many years to bring our customers the best products available. While one eye was fixed on the goal of providing quality products, the second was looking out for affordability. As a result, we have assembled the highest quality products available on the market and because of our dual commitment we can offer them at the most competitive prices.

As an extension of our commitment, our fully-stocked parts department and award-winning service department stand ready to serve. So before you are disappointed by buying somewhere else, give us a call.

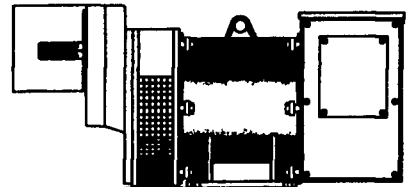

Satisfaction is what we sell!

SEED METER MACHINE TESTING

Finger pickup seed meters can be run on a test stand and adjusted for maximum planting accuracy. This removes the variation between rows caused by manually adjusting units.

$9.50 per row unit

Note: Units should be reconditioned prior to putting on test stand. This is not included in this price.

Only Massey Ferguson Rotaries give you all these features:

- Front feed beater — PATENTED
 Accelerates crops into the rotor for greater efficiency.
- Rotor Intake — EXCLUSIVE
 Auger fighting provides "Full Circle" feeding for extra capacity.
- Threshing lobes — UNIQUE
 Smooth out the crop and enhance threshing. Separator has 2,241 sq. in. (14,460 sq. cm) of separating area.
- Direct discharge — PATENTED
 Eliminates an extra power-robbing beater. Pressurized cleaning shoe 6,426 sq. in. (41,454 sq. cm) total area. Optional side-hill attachment prevents sideways migration.
- Grain sample door — NEW Confirm sample quality from the cab.
- Rotor drive — EXCLUSIVE
 High-torque, hydrostatic motor has a unique, in-cab reverser.
- 240 hp* Cummins 6CTA 8.3 engine — PROVEN
 Turbocharged, after-cooled engine is rear-mounted for easy service and quietness.
- Turret unloader — LONGER
 5 ft. (1.5m) clearance beyond a 30 ft. (9 m) grain table.

 A NEW MF 399?

12 GOOD
 COME RIGHT TO HAND.

The new 12 x 12 Side Shift transmission puts the shift lever where it belongs — to the right of your seat.

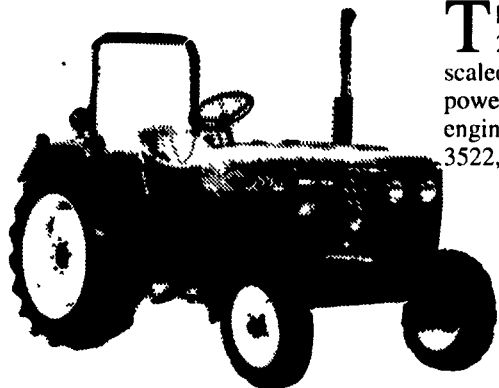

Plus the shuttle lever is on the steering column so you can change directions with your left hand while operating loader controls with your right hand.

The 12 X 12 Side Shift synchronized shuttle transmission gives you 12 great reasons to come in and test drive a 70-95 hp* MF 390, MF 390T or MF 399 tractor today.

Cut corners on the New Zebra Tractors

The Zebra Tractor Model 2522 is a real tractor scaled down in size, but not in power. Its 25 HP 2 cylinder engine like its big brother the 3522, handles chores a traditional full-size 2 wheel drive tractor handles. For a fraction of the cost. In a fraction of the space.

Zebra tractor model 3522 delivers 35 HP with its 3 cylinder, 143 cu. in. diesel, water-cooled, wet sleeve engine. No toy, this rugged tractor only drives like a sports car.

The 45 HP model 4522 is the Big-boy of the Zebra line of tractors. If the 2522 and 3522 ride like convertibles the 4522 is like a chauffeured limousine, with you at the wheel. So dress for the part, the neighbors are watching.

All Zebra compact tractors are sold and serviced by Zetor Tractors, a division of American Jawa Ltd

WELL BUILT Rack Wagons

8' wide; 8' high; 16', 18' & 20' lengths
 9' wide; 8' high; 16', 18' & 20' lengths

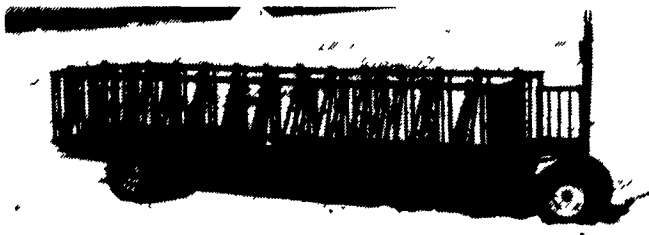

Description & Material Used:

- Two 4x8 fir stringers
- 3x4x8" oak cross members bolted to the fir stringers
- 18 ft. wagons have 9 cross members and 20 ft. wagons have 10 cross members
- Oak flooring nailed to the cross members with screw nails
- Racks are made out of 2" square tubing - 14" gauge - 1" square tubing between the uprights
- Swinging door at the back of the wagon; has quick release and swings 270 degrees one way
- Two 4' side openings with quick chain release
- Racks can be easily dismounted
- Painted John Deere Green or New Holland Red

FEEDER WAGONS

16', 21' and 27' lengths

Available with slant bars or self-locking head gates.

A great feature for feeding cattle in meadows or in feed lots. These wagons can be used to feed round hay bales, square bales or silage out of Ag bags or silos, etc.

The added feature of having the head locks make it nice for quick vet checks, etc.

 21' has 26 head locks
 27' has 32 head locks

- Feeder bottoms are sand blasted to remove rust & lead

To Get Healthier Cows, There's A Lot To Prepare.™

To help dry cows prepare for freshening and the onset of lactation, you need new Purina® Prepare™ Dry Cow Supplement.

Most problems in early lactation begin in the dry period, but properly fed, managed, and conditioned dry cows have less calving trouble, healthier calves, and fewer breeding failures. They can also produce 1000 to 2000 lb more milk. Prepare effectively helps dry cows reach their ideal calving weight and body condition.

There is a lot to Prepare. Ask us about it.
